PROBLEMS DISAPPEARING

Continuation High Turning Dropouts Into 'Good Guys'

By THERON A. NEWELL

Could the good guys make the bad guys worse?

Could the pressure of trying to keep up with the good students in both studies and discipline, and having to obey strict rules, make slow or rebellious students worse?

Judging by the first three weeks of classes at Novato Continuation High School, the answer to these questions seems to be "yes" according to Joseph Garguilo, principal.

This is the first year that the continuation high school has been housed in a separate building away from the Novato High School campus. It is at 856 Sweetser Avenue, more than two miles from the school. It is the only continuation high school on a separate campus in Marin County, according to Garguilo.

Separated from the 2,000 other students, the problem students have found that many of their problems have disappeared Garguilo said.

The first two weeks, the school had 100 per cent attendance record, but there were some absences last week, he said.

"Man, I never went a full week of school before in my life," one of the students told Garguilo.

The 14 boys in the school have found that the teachers and other students can be friendly, and attending school can be fun.

School was in session when this reporter went there to see how it worked. One class of six boys was taking tests which showed aptitudes toward various jobs. Garguilo called two of them who had finished into his office then left so that I could talk to them.

They were Casey Farrell of 2 Shields Lane and Tom Robinson of 6 English Court, both seniors. The boys were apologetic when they told about missing one day this week because Tom's car broke down and that was their only way to get to school without an official present.

"I've been a problem since I was a freshman, but here, everybody is friendly and we're all in the same boat," Casey said.

Instead of being a continual dropout, Casey admits that he has suddenly found that studying can be fun. "My behavior was bad to worse, but now I want to get my diploma and next year go on to the College of Marin," he said.

Urban Regeneration Held As Important As Moon Race

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — America should use some of that public-private cooperation, so important to its arms and space races, to help make its big cities livable, a British economist and author said today.

Barbara Ward, or Lady Jackson as the author of "The Rich Nations and the Poor Nations" is known at home, spoke at a San Francisco conference on urban problems.

"The first nation to produce a beautiful, dignified and successful city system will do as much for its prestige as the first man on the moon and perhaps fifty times mor for mankind's true well being," she said.

A "public-private cooperation for urban regeneration . . . is perfectly possible," she said, "especially if the cities insist on getting back their share of federal tax money — with six per cent of the population, agriculture still gets six or seven times more money than urban America."

Lady Jackson warned the California One State Conference that people should not be allowed to take more out of the urban situation than they contribute.

She recounted that when the Erie Canal was built, much of it was paid for through taxes on lands it enhanced. The San Francisco Bay Area has an opportunity for the same type of financing, she claimed.

"I have seen estimates that the windfall gain to property owners around the Bay Area Rapid Transit scheme's thirty stations will be nearly a billion dollars. This would pay off the

The Marin County Assessment Appeals board, which has been meeting all day each Friday, will also begin meeting Friday nights from Oct. 13.

"In effect, we'll be having three sessions on Friday — morning, afternoon and evening," said Julius H. Selinger, chairman of the appeals board. The day session starts at 9:30 a.m., and the evening session will be from 7 to 10 p.m.

"At the rate we're going, it would take about 45 Fridays to complete the hearings," Selinger explained. The appeals board has more than 1,400 appeals from property owners. Selinger said that the appeals board has been able to hear only about 20 appeals each Friday thus far. The night session beginning Oct. 13 will step up the pace.

Two-Month Struggle After Plane Crash Ends In Death

Deer Hunter Finds Diary, Three Bodies

REDDING (AP) — A plane that crashed last March, with the bodies of three Portland, Ore., victims, was discovered yesterday by a deer hunter searching for game through binoculars.

Near one of the victims was a diary that indicated she remained alive and suffering nearly two months after the crash about 35 miles west of Redding in Northern California.

Authorities identified the victims as Al F. Oien of Portland, his wife, Phyllis, and a girl, Carla Corbus, 16.

The last radio contact with their light plane was at 11:50 a.m., March 11, with Medford, Ore. communications.

Hunter Fred Bolling, on a hunting trip with his wife, said he was looking through binoculars for deer when he saw a strange object that appeared to be made of metal. The location was about 500 feet above Bully Choot road, about 200 miles northeast of San Francisco.

BONES SCATTERED

The scattered bone of the victims were found around the plane wreckage. The bodies apparently had been eaten by animals. A diary was found near the young girl.

The first entry was at 12:15 p.m. on March 11. The last entry was on May 4. Two different kinds of pens had been used to make entries. Snow was melted for water, she said. But nothing was said about food.

The girl's diary said they repeatedly heard planes flying overhead but could never see them.

At one point she wrote that Oien went looking for help but returned empty handed.

HIT IN SNOW

The plane crashed in the snow March 11 about six miles from Buckhorn Summit in the Trinity mountains.

Miss Corbas wrote that day "Plane on left side in snow bank. Fuselage broken. Door ajar. Windows on right side broken as well as windshield."

During their apparently foodless ordeal they covered the plane with canvas to keep out the snow.

She listed their injuries in this fashion

"Al: Cut on chin. Three cuts on forehead. Right arm broken. Pain with vertebrae. Crushed ribs on right side.

"Phyllis: Delirious for one day. Broken left arm. Sore right hand. Bruised left leg. Cut and broken left ankle. Both feet frosted the first night. Nose bruised.

ACCOUNTS OF WEATHER

On April 30 Carla noted, "This is my 16th birthday."

On May 4: "We are completely soaked."

Throughout most of the diary she gave daily accounts of the weather. It was a wet and rainy spring, with snow in the high elevations until early June.

Bones of the victims were brought to the McDonald's Funeral Chapel in Redding.

Greeks Making U.C. Comeback

BERKELEY (AP) — The fraternity-sorority system is making a comeback at the University of California.

Membership in Greek letter houses had dropped steadily from 1958 to 1965. For example, sororities pledged only 307 in the fall of 1965—in contrast to an average of 800 women a semester before 1958.

Authorities said there was a 12 per cent increase in sorority pledging this year, and a similar boost was expected in fraternity membership.

HAROLD (KIM) PHILBY
Vanished from Beirut

Ex-British Aide Spy For 34 Years

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's secret service today faced a rigorous check-up following the disclosure that a former top intelligence official and Britain's top link with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, had been a Russian spy for 34 years.

John Philby told radio and television audiences that his father, Harold (Kim) Philby, who vanished from Beirut four years ago while working as a newspaper correspondent, told him recently in Moscow he had been a spy for the Russians since 1933.

It was reported that Kim Philby, now 55, was recruited by Soviet intelligence only a few months after he left Cambridge University. He later became a senior officer in British intelligence and was slated to become head of M16 before he was fired.

Informed sources said that Philby recruited Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean as Soviet agents in 1938 while they were working for the British Foreign Service and he tipped them off that they had been discovered. Burgess and MacLean defected in 1951. MacLean still lives in Moscow. Burgess died there.

Philby visited his father in Moscow recently.

"I admire him very much," Philby said. "For what he did could not have been easy—and he did it very well. He worked for the Russians for 30 years without receiving anything for it. There was only one conclusion you could draw—that he did it for ideological reasons."

Philby said his father is now working in Moscow as a journalist and is 'free for the first time in 34 years to think and speak freely and being rewarded excellently for those many years' service to communism."

"I am absolutely convinced—and it is obvious—that he is a Communist and has served the communism of Soviet Russia for 34 years, ever since he left Cambridge in 1933."

Four Nebraska Children Die As Freight Train, Bus Hit

WATERLOO, Neb. (UPI)—A 97-car freight train today slammed into a school bus only a quarter of a mile and a few minutes from school, killing four and injuring nine children.

Officials of the Waterloo Consolidated High School and Grade School, which has a total enrollment of 245, said the bus carried 13 children. Had it been on the end of its run there would have been as many as 50 children aboard, officials said.

The accident occurred at about 8:10 a.m., on a gravel road just west of Waterloo, which is about 20 miles west of Omaha.

The bus driver, Thomas M. McMahon, said he stopped at the crossing but did not see the train approaching. He said the sun obscured his vision.

The brakeman on the Union Pacific freight train, W. L. Nybbelin, confirmed that the bus stopped at the crossing, then pulled in front of the train. McMahon escaped injury but was in a state of shock.

The train struck the bus near the right rear wheel. Three or four seat sections were ripped out. Some of the seats were thrown as far as 50 feet.

New Air Taxis Ferrying The Mail

A first-class letter mailed by 5 p.m. in any Marin post office should be delivered the next morning anywhere in California under a new network of air taxis started yesterday by the U.S. Post Office.

The new statewide delivery system should eliminate present delays of two and three days to get mail to smaller cities, said S. J. Brown, assistant air transportation officer for the San Francisco region. The system of 12 air routes, which replaces trains, should be in full operation by the end of the month, he said.

Thieu Wins Voting Test

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam's provisional National Assembly tonight threw out charges the Sept. 3 presidential elections were rigged and confirmed Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu as president. The action averted a major political crisis that could have embarrassed Washington.

After the voting, the speaker of the house resigned in protest.

A watchdog committee had recommended the 117-member assembly invalidate the election of Thieu as president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as vice president because of "many irregularities" it said occurred during the balloting.

VICTORY CLAIM

Even before the vote a spokesman for Nguyen's followers claimed victory, declaring that Nguyen and Ky had enough votes to win even if votes in dispute were thrown out.

The spokesman said irregularities had been charged at 2,724 polling places and even if these votes were thrown out the two generals would still have a 988,000 vote margin over the runnerup, lawyer Truong Dinh Dzu, the "peace" candidate.

The voting began at 11:15 a.m. EDT after a day in which club-swinging riot police using tear gas smashed a student anti-government demonstration which also charged the election was rigged. Police bloodied dozens of heads in stopping the student march before it really got started.

Four newsmen—three of them employees of an American television network—also were hurt in the fighting.

BUDDHIST MARCH

Despite the ban on demonstrations and street meetings about 150 militant Buddhist monks and nuns turned up again today in front of the presidential palace to join their leader, Thich Tri Quang, who was entering the fifth day of an anti-government sit-in there.

The Buddhists infiltrated the park in groups of two and three with their yellow robes under their arms and then slipped on the robes when they reached Tri Quang. They sat for about 40 minutes until Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, the national police director, told them, "If you don't want trouble, go away." They then left in twos nad threes on motor scooters and in taxis.

The assembly debated for three hours before lunch, recessed, and resumed its session during the early afternoon. Most of the debate centered on the basis for approving or nullifying the election.

Heaviest Bombing In History

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 strategic bombers in what was officially described as the heaviest concentration of bombing in the history of warfare have all but obliterated Communist artillery positions in and just above the Demilitarized Zone, U.S. military spokesmen said today.

The big eight-engined bombers struck again last night and twice more today. There were heavier bombings in World War II but Gen. William C. Westmoreland said never before had such heavy raids been concentrated against such a small piece of real estate.

ONE ROUND

The Communists fired only one artillery round Sunday but lobbed over a number of shells with propaganda leaflets aimed at U.S. Marines defending the Con Thien area just below the DMZ. One of the leaflets taking its theme from U.S. peaceniks asked: "Hey, Hey, LBJ...How many kids have you killed today?"

Communist guerrillas opened fire today on a Japanese merchant ship 19 miles from Saigon in the main shipping channel of the Long Tau river. Only minor damage was inflicted on the ship, the Okuni Maru, and U.S. Navy river patrol boats escorted her to Saigon without further incident.

TWO WOUNDED

The report of the new Communist tactic came as a U.S. Marine spokesman in Da Nang reported that only one explosive round hit Leatherneck outposts along the buffer zone all day yesterday. But that one wounded two marines.

For the past month, however, Communist rocket, mortar and artillery fire have averaged from 500 to 1,000 shells per day on the battered Con Thien outpost straddling a key infiltration trail from the DMZ that the Communists would like to free for the 35,000 troops reportedly massed in the area for an invasion thrust.

Over North Vietnam, meanwhile, American warplanes for the third straight day streaked back through heavy anti-aircraft fire to bomb MIG fighter bases in the Hanoi area.

The Communists fired only one artillery round Sunday but lobbed over a number of shells with propaganda leaflets aimed at U.S. Marines defending the Con Thien area just below the DMZ. One of the leaflets taking its theme from U.S. peaceniks asked: "Hey, Hey, LBJ...How many kids have you killed today?"

Communist guerrillas opened fire today on a Japanese merchant ship 19 miles from Saigon in the main shipping channel of the Long Tau river. Only minor damage was inflicted on the ship, the Okuni Maru, and U.S. Navy river patrol boats escorted her to Saigon without further incident.

TWO WOUNDED

The report of the new Communist tactic came as a U.S. Marine spokesman in Da Nang reported that only one explosive round hit Leatherneck outposts along the buffer zone all day yesterday. But that one wounded two marines.

For the past month, however, Communist rocket, mortar and artillery fire have averaged from 500 to 1,000 shells per day on the battered Con Thien outpost straddling a key infiltration trail from the DMZ that the Communists would like to free for the 35,000 troops reportedly massed in the area for an invasion thrust.

Over North Vietnam, meanwhile, American warplanes for the third straight day streaked back through heavy anti-aircraft fire to bomb MIG fighter bases in the Hanoi area.

BLACKLASH SEEN IF SPENDING CUT

Disruption Of Orderly Government Held If GOP Wins $5 Billion Spending Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5 billion blanket cut in nondefense spending would disrupt orderly government, say some federal officials. And they claim it would kick up a backlash at home against congressmen now demanding huge cuts in federal spending as the price for higher taxes.

Although no official list of possibilities has been prepared, it's known that the question of a forced $5 billion cut in spending has been discussed in high administration circles.

FATAL CUTS

Officials say if the Republican-backed plan succeeds, it would:

Eliminate every new contract on every major federal construction project covered in the administrative budget. This excludes the highway program which is financed separately.

Eliminate all new projects of every type.

Cut new loans 50 per cent below planned levels, including those to farmers and small businessmen.

Cut grants to states and local governments by one third.

Eliminate or drastically reduce the school lunch program.

HIT EVERYONE

Sources said all cuts would have to come from the roughly $20 billion in spending which the administration can control. "It would hit everybody right in the stomach," one source said.

Controllable spending excludes such items as the $72.3 billion in military spending, originally proposed in January, and the $14 billion for interest on the federal debt.

The administration promised Congress to cut $2 billion from civilian programs and hopes to salvage an unknown amount from military spending not connected with Vietnam. But no specific list of cuts has been sent to Congress. The administration says none will be until Congress completes action on all appropriation bills.

One key official said any cuts in military spending won't be based on the $72.3 billion total submitted to Congress last January, but on the $76.3 billion revised figure outlined by Johnson in August when he requested a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

The debate over higher taxes and spending cuts reached one climax last week when Republicans failed in a bid to fix a $131.5 billion ceiling on administrative budget spending for the current fiscal year. Johnson's revised estimate in this category is $136.5 billion, not including up to $4 billion more for Vietnam.

But Republicans, aided by 34 conservative Democrats, sent back to a House committee a resolution to authorize stopgap financing through October for government agencies whose appropriations bills have not yet been passed. A new resolution extending emergency financing for 10 days is scheduled to be considered by the House tomorrow.

Hatfield, Gen. Gavin For Dove Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator and a retired general lent each other presidential support on the Republican side in a new move against Vietnam war policy.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said yesterday he would support some nonhawk candidate in the Oregon presidential primary—and he gave his warmest praise to retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

NAMES ROCKEFELLER

Gavin, who has said he would halt the bombing of North Vietnam and negotiate for peace if he were president, named Hatfield and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as the type of Republican he hoped to support.

Gavin said Sunday he had "no power base, no money and no organization. I have only ideas and convictions." But he didn't count himself out of the running although he said he has no plans to enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation 1968 presidential primary.

'DEEP THINKER'

Hatfield pointed out in a separate panel interview that Gavin could be in the Oregon free-for-all primary without having to declare as a candidate.

The freshman senator said "I believe that Gen. Gavin, who is a very deep thinker, a man who is a military expert, a man who combines intellectualism with military expertise, is certainly a man to be listened to."

He said "realistically, the odds are against" Gavin's winning the nomination—"but it's possible."

Hatfield said he "would very much like to see Gov. Rockefeller as a candidate," and called Michigan Gov. George Romney "a possibility."

Hatfield spoke on CBS' "Face the Nation," Gavin on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Gavin, now chairman and chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Inc., industrial consultants, said the only Republican frontrunner he could not vote for is former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "unless he changes his views on Vietnam."

Gavin said he is leaving Oct. 30 to visit South Vietnam to determine "the impact of the war on the South Vietnamese."

"They're being destroyed and I'm not sure we're not being destroyed also," he said.

He said based on conversations with foreign diplomats, "there's no question" that a bombing halt would bring peace talks. President Johnson offered Friday to halt the bombing if it would "lead promptly to productive discussions" aimed at peace.

Pike Links Son's Talk To Scripture

BERKELEY (UPI) — Bishop James A. Pike, who says he has communicated several times with his deceased son, compared the achievement yesterday to the Ressurection of Jesus Christ.

The retired Episcopal Bishop of California offered the explanation to an overflow crowd of more than 600 at St. Mark's Church. He also took to task Vietnam hawks, and President Johnson.

Bishop Pike reported last week he had communicated, through a medium, with his son, James Jr., who committed suicide in February 1966. The bishop went to 1 Corinthians 15 to justify the occomplishment.

Flood Fight Held Harmful To Redwoods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In the process of preventing floods, a new study discloses, man may also be destroying fertile soil in which forests and undergrowth thrive.

This paradoxical finding emerged from a study of redwoods in the often-flooded North Coast area of California conducted for the National Park Service by Dr. Peter E. Black, a Syracuse University professor.

1,000 YEARS

Huge redwood trees on Bull Creek Flat, the study found, have thrived on floods during the last 1,000 years by growing new root systems in the sediment left behind.

If the natural silting of soils from floods is stopped by building dams, the researcher said, "it is a logical assumption that the redwood stands are doomed."

At the same time, Black warned that future floods in the area will be more severe and more damaging in the past as far as man is concerned.

FUTURE FLOODS

He listed several reaons for this: types of soil in this rainy region are those that become easily saturated to capacity, certain activities, such as highway building and overgrazing, have long-lasting and cumulative effects, present flood control projects are inadequate and will probably remain so; and lack of flood area zoning allows continued building in the path of future floods.

Dams, levees and integrated flood control programs are the only means of reducing damage in the flood-prone redwood region, Black said. However, he added that "some watershed disturbance" was essential to sustain the balance of nature and preserve the redwoods.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin arrived yesterday, joining party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Nikolai V. Podgorny, who arrived Saturday.

Reagan Holds Change Wanted At The Top

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, back home after a four-day speaking tour of three states, sayes he detects that America's political mood is changing but said he is not seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

Reagan returned yesterday following GOP fund-raising speeches in Columbia, S.C. and Milwaukee, Wis. and an address at his alma mater, Eureka College in Eureka, Ill.

In his talks, the first-term governor strongly criticized the Johnson administration's handing of riots, government spending and the war in Vietnam.

Stepping off a charter jet in Sacramento, Reagan told newsmen he has seen evidence that "the mood of this country is changing and the people, regardless of party lines, want a change."

Reagan is tentatively scheduled to begin another speaking tour in mid-October that will take him to Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas, New York City, Chicago, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Houston and Dallas, Tex.

He said that civil disorder and lawlessness rank "above Vietnam as an issue," and that "people are terribly disturbed by the breakdown of law and order."

His trip was the first of a series Reagan plans to take this fall to the East, Midwest and South to help raise funds for GOP candidates.

Although he plans to spend the last two weeks of this month speaking in several states, Reagan emphasized that he is not seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

Asked if he thought his speaking engagements enhanced his potential as a presidential nominee, Reagan replied, "No. That wasn't the object of the trip." But he acknowledged that the receptions he received were good and that his appearances boosted funds for the GOP in South Carolina and Wisconsin.

Border Violence Disrupts Peking Regime's Birthday

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Communist Chinese regime marked its 18th anniversary with a massive rally in Peking yesterday but the festivities were marred by violence on the country's borders and new dissension and turmoil within the Communist ranks.

The rally in Peking and developments elsewhere combined to underscore the internal and external threats to Mao Tse-tung's government as it embarks today on its 19th year of rule.

In Jakarta, an Indonesian mob sacked the Chinese Embassy, severely beating nine Chinese diplomats and destroying embassy property.

At the same time Indian troops guarding the tiny Himalayan protectorate of Sikkim fought a day-long artillery and mortar battle with Chinese border troops.

At the national day rally in Peking, Soviet and East European diplomats stormed off the rostrum after Chinese Defense Minister Lin Piao denounced the Kremlin's brand of communism.

The absence of several high-ranking Chinese officials from the rostrum pointed up the power struggle within the government.

Release Sought For Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has promised to seek the early release of two Americans jailed in Communist East Germany.

One of the men, Peter T. Feinauer, 27, Providence, R.I., was sentenced to a 15-year jail term on spy charges. American authorities were unable to learn what charges had been lodged against the other man, Ronald Wiedenhoeft, 30, of New York City.

The State Department said Feinauer had been held for about a year before being charged with spying for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Derailment

RICHMOND, (UPI) — A 10-car Santa Fe freight train derailed near downtown Richmond last night, overturning the switch engine and two loaded flatcars.

Engineer Donald Crimmins, San Pablo, received a slight arm injury. Two brakemen and a conductor were unhurt.

Investigators said the derailment occurred after someone opened a padlocked switch, sending the slow-moving train down a short siding.

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 160,000 United Auto Workers members entered the 26th day of their strike against Ford Motor Co. today with union leaders' assurances they will win their demands.

More than 8,000 of them reacted with cheers and applause at a rally yesterday when UAW President Walter P. Reuther told them, "We will never surrender."

Commie Gains

PARIS (AP) — Communists and less radical leftists counted wide gains today in French regional council elections after jaining forces in a campaign against President Charles De Gaulle's policies at home. The Communists tripled their seats.

Gaullists gained some ground, but the election yesterday showed grassroots dissatisfaction with the government's economic and social reforms, and a well-organized campaign by Communists.

Locked In

STOCKTON (UPI) — Three super market employees were locked in a refrigerator yesterday by two gunmen who fled with $1,000.

When the two employees entered the store early yesterday, the two holdup men, who had been sitting in a car outside, went inside with guns drawn. The bandits held the workers hostage until the manager arrived, San Joaquin County Sheriff's deputies said.

The manager handed over the money and the three were locked in the walk-in refrigerator until deputies released them.

Faces Hearing

OAKLAND (AP) — A Negro Army private who refused to be shipped to Vietnam faces a preliminary military hearing yesterday.

Ronald Lockman, 23, is being held for court martial on a charge of refusing to climb aboard a bus for travel to Travis Air Force Base, where he would have been flown to the fighting zone.

'Peace And Freedom' Drive Set By CDC

LONG BEACH (UPI) — The California Democratic Council's "peace campaign" emerged today as a "peace and freedom" drive — a coalition of doves bent on ending the Vietnam war and militant Negroes bent on ending "racism" in America.

What began as essentially an antiwar proposition before the CDC' sweekend "peace convention" became, instead, a political marriage of civil rights with the liberal democratic challenge of President Johnson's war position.

JUNE BALLOT

The 1,200 convention delegates approved a plan to spearhead a campaign for a Democratic delegation on the June primary election ballot committed to ending the war.

But the plan was amended on the convention floor to declare the slate "equally committed to the conversion of funds now employed for war and destruction into programs dedicated to elimination of racism in our nation..."

PEACE SLATE

The character and the extent to the alliance became apparent yesterday after the first meeting of the steering committee which will organize the peace slate's campaign against a Democratic delegation pledged to President Johnson.

(Phillip Drath and Hans J. Schiller from the 24-member Marin delegation were elected to the steering committee. Schiller also served as chairman of the convention's amendments committee.)

Militant Negro spokesmen, including Eijah Turner, Oakland, treasurer of the Congress of Racial Equality, were appointed to the campaign committee and CDC President Gerald N. Hill told a news conference more Negroes would be added.

MORE ADDED

Eleven Negroes were elected to the steering committee by the convention Saturday night and 10 more were added by the committee itself yesterday. Turner told UPI he had an agreement with CDC officials permitting him to name additional Negro militants to the group.

The Negro delegates won their battle for the militant civil rights committment from the peace delegation after they threatened to walk out of the convention in the Long Beach arena Saturday night. The new language in the delegation pledge said:

"We realize that an end to the war is necessary to achieve victory in the struggles of the black people, Mexican - Americans and other minorities for freedom and liberty from oppression and support of their right through leadership and control of their own communities to determine their destiny."

Color Television Comes To Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — "Come on, come on," said one man on Gorky Street watching the introduction of color television to the Soviet Union. "Enough speeches, get to the bright colors."

He and some 200 others standing with him in near-freezing weather were soon rewarded by a rainbow flare on the screen, then a mix of film clips in color showing the space walk of cosmonaut Alexei A. Leonov, Moscow street scenes and dancing girls in blue, green, yellow and red dresses.

Only a few sets were available for public viewing Saturday and yesterday. Color sets have not yet been offered for sale.

Bread Stocks To Be Burned

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI)—All the bread now stockpiled in Tijuana, where 19 people were killed by insecticide-poisoned food, will be burned, officials said yesterday.

Bread was believed to be the source of the poisoning. Samples were found to contain parathion, a deadly insecticide derived from a nerve gas developed by German scientists during the second World War.

The local dairyman's union meanwhile complained that they were going broke because of the scare. The poison was at first thought to come from milk. Sales of milk were banned and milk stocks destroyed.

Flower Children Leaving The City

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police say the predicted influx of young hippies never amounted to much, and now they are leaving in droves.

The "Summer of Love" is over, and clusters of flower children have been seen hitchhiking out of town.

They have presented a traffic problem at some intersections, police said, in ones, twos and whole tribes.

Sign Plans Review Set In Mill Valley

Review of a master sign program for the Shapiro Building at Miller Avenue and La Goma Street is scheduled Tuesday by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee. The committee meets at 8 p.m. in the City Council chamber.

Also scheduled is final approval of plan review for the Valley Memorial Convalescent Hospital.

Sierra Bank Slates Anniversary Fete

Sierra National Bank celebrates its fourth anniversary today through Wednesday with "Sierra Days."

The bank has Marin offices in Tiburon, Novato, Mill Valley, Corte Madera and Kentfield.

Paint The Sky Rocket To Debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wielding a brush more dynamic than that of any modern action painter, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is going to do what artists have only dreamed of: Paint the sky.

Its brush will be a Nike-Tomahawk Research rocket. The paint: Barium vapor.

The hoped-for result: Huge clouds glowing green and purple in a triple layer several hundred miles long—a display that could conceivably be viewed by residents of the entire eastern United States.

The rocket carrying the barium payload is scheduled to be launched from Wallops Island, Va., at 7:18 p.m. EDT tomorrow.

Auto Show Dropped Because Of Strike

The 1968 Auto Showoffs, planned for Oct. 21-22 in San Rafael, have been canceled, according to Hugh Turner of Radio Station KTIM, which was to sponsor the event.

Turner said today the show was canceled because of the current automobile strike. It was to have been held at the Bank of America parking lot at Fourth and B streets. Turner hoped the show would be held next year.

Probation Allowed On Disturbance Count

Donald F. Ingram, 31, of Cascade Drive, Fairfax, was placed on two years probation and given a suspended 90-day county jail term Friday in Marin Municipal Court for disturbing the peace.

He originally was accused of battery on Ronald Dean at Latitude 38 bar in Sausalito May 28. He pleaded guilty to the lesser charge Sept. 8.

Marshall Takes Oath For Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thurgood Marshall took his seat as the first Negro member of the U.S. Supreme Court today with President Johnson, who appointed him, on hand to see him take his oath of office.

Marshall, the great grandson of a slave, swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich" as he took the oath with his hand on a bible.

Justice Byron R. White, who will sit next to him, and Justice William J. Brennan Jr., next in line, both shook hands with Marshall.

The swearing-in of the former solicitor general with the President and an overflow audience in the court chamber featured the opening session of a new term—the 178th in U.S. history.

The first day of a term is confined to ritualistic ceremony with no decisions announced.

The crack of Lippitt's gavel at 10 a.m. EDT announced the arrival of Johnson. He took a seat beside retired Justice Stanley F. Reed in the section reserved for VIP visitors. Justice Tom C. Clark, whom Marshall succeeds, sat on the other side of Reed.

Warren announced the beginning of the 1967-68 term—"thankfully with a full court." He noted Clark's retirement and the Marshall appointment and the fact that Marshall took his constitutional oath on Sept. 1 from senior Supreme Court Judge Hugo L. Black.

Davis then read the 59-year-old Marshall's commission and administered the oath. Johnson listened quietly and left eight minutes after he arrived.

Parking Limit Plans On Agenda

The Corte Madera Town Council will consider changes in parking limits for the Village Square area at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The Village Square Association has asked the council to change the limit from two to four hours on the east side of Corte Madera Avenue from Redwood Avenue north of the town limits, to change unlimited parking to four-hour parking on both sides of Corte Madera Avenue south 75 yards from First Street, and to change the Menke Park side of the commuter parking area to a four-hour limit.

The council will consider the single bid received Friday for correction of water ponding at curbs, for $6,995 from Ghilotti Brothers. The work was estimated to cost $4,987.

Marinite Says Wife Is Missing

A Tiburon man reported Tuesday that his wife had been missing since the previous morning, the sheriff's department reported Saturday.

Richard M. Anderson, 81 Barbaree Way, said he had not seen his wife, Betty Sue, 40, since she dropped him off at the ferry boat. Also missing was the family car and poodle, he said.

Texas license number of the 1966 blue two-door Chevrolet hardtop convertible is GLD 629, he said. He said his wife is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has blonde hair and blue eyes, and wears glasses.

URBAN

cost of the scheme. Has the city the courage of the old builders of the Erie Canal?" she asked.

On curbing the spread of suburbia, Lady Jackson recommended seeing "whole regions as gravitational fields of force in which a number of urban centers take the strain off each other, mitigate the lemming-like commuter surges and get a more rational use of transport systems."

In the morning session of the conference, sponsored by California Tomorrow, an organization to preserve the state's natural resources, participants discussed open space and pollution.

Councilman Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles' 10th District warned that "grand master community plans" don't stem the tide of despair in American city ghettoes.

"Let us have fairly simple community projects, which have a reasonable achievement time, which can involve the people of the community . . . and the effects of which will be noted daily by the residents as visible evidence that changes are occurring . . . ." he asked.

He also warned against projects which increase or enhance open space for the general community at the expense of recreation areas used primarily by ghetto families.

Edward A. Williams, landscape architect, urged a tax on land sales profits to fund public purchase of open space lands. He also recommended state-wide zones for agriculture, conservation and urbanization and holding - action legislation while the state studies new land reform laws to preserve agricultural land.

Drug By Fraud Arrest Made

A South San Francisco man was arrested Friday in San Anselmo and charged with trying to obtain a prescription drug by fraud, according to San Anselmo police.

Barry Lee Barnum, 28, of South San Francisco, was held at Marin County jail in lieu of $1,100 bail. Police said someone called pharmacist James Drummond at Long's Drug Store, 880 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Friday at 5:20 p.m., and identified himself as a San Bruno doctor. The "doctor" ordered a prescription of the drug Citra Forte, a narcotic, a for a patient named Robert Sawyer.

Drummond told police he phoned the real doctor in San Bruno and learned that the doctor had not made the phone call. At 7:50 p.m. police arrested Barnum when he came to the store to get the prescription.

Report Is Due From Architect

Trustees of Reed School District will hear a presentation tomorrow on the progress of architect Ron Young on early planning stages of the Reedlands Woods School.

The board meets at 8 p.m. at Bell Aire School, at the end of Karen Way, Tiburon.

A briefing on the school's instructional program by staff members will be included in the meeting.

BOYS

praise for the school.

"There's less pressure and you learn more," Tom said.

"There's less disciplinary problem here because there's more freedom," Casey said. "They let you dress as you want to," he added. Moreover, "at Novato High School there were so many kids to a class that there was no attention given to me when I needed it," Casey said.

"You enjoy it here; it is fun. The teachers aren't always on your back," Tom said.

The continuation high school holds classes only until noon. That gives the boys a chance to find jobs in the afternoon. But it may find that it will have need for afternoon classes.

"Two of the boys hang around here now trying to find something to study in the afternoon," Garguilo said.

"I wished school went to 3 p.m. because I want to learn now," Tom said.

Casey had gone to continuation high school last year when it was at Novato High School

He shuddered when asked how he liked it and said, "We were the untouchables. We weren't allowed to use the library we were paraded down the hall in a chain like the Romans bringing in slaves and the people throwing rocks at them."

In addition to Garguilo, Robert Wisgerhof, former principal at Novato High School, teaches there. The third member of the staff is psychologist William Murray.

The school is trying to use much of audio-visual material for the boys. Once a week it has a field trip to some business, factory or firm which might direct them into a vacation, Garguilo said. A weekly speaker gives a description of job opportunities.

The continuation high schools were set up in the State Education Code in 1965 to take care of students who were suspended for 10 days or more during the school year. And admissions committee goes over the records of each student before he is assigned to the school.

However, the school won the approval of the first students and four of the 14 boys subsequently asked to be assigned, Garguilo said. Another volunteered while I was there, so it now has 15 students.

The class was out and suddenly I was surrounded by the 14 boys. They had a few minutes to talk before Det. Sgt. Otto Haiungs of the Novato police department was to talk to them about careers in police work.

All of them wanted to tell me how much better this school was for them than Novato High School.

"Put in a good word for it; it's a good school," Ken Graxiola of 20 Boulevard Terrace, said, best summarizing their feelings.

Crash Victim Still Critical

Christopher Leslie, 27, of 101 Buchanan Drive, Sausalito, remained in critical condition for the fourth day today in Marin General Hospptal with injuries suffered in a car crash on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The car Leslie was driving swerved across the center line on the bridge and collided with an on-coming car Thursday night, the California Highway Patrol reported.

He was reported in the intensive care unit of the hospital with a fractured skull, broken right leg and broken ribs.

WAR

ness of raids by the strategic air command B52 Stratofortresses, a U.S. communique said their bombs touched off 66 secondary explosions and nine raging fires on the ground last week. All the raids, the communique said, were within artillery range of Con Thien.

The report said that Communist shelling had killed 300 Marines and wounded more than 3,000 since mid-July.

The raids continued. Last night and early today, B52's flew three more raids against the Communist guns positions in the DMZ.

Other war developments:

U.S. officials announced the start on Friday of a sweep by a multi-battalion force of 1st Infantry troops (a battalion is 800 men) 37 miles northwest of Saigon called Operation Shenandoah II. No significant action was reported.

The South Vietnamese said the Viet Cong inflicted "heavy" casualties on a handful of Popular Forces troops at a Mekong Delta watchtower 80 miles southwest of Saigon. Another VC attack on a reconnaissance company 20 miles northwest of Saigon inflicted light casualties.

OBITUARIES

Marinite's Rites Held In Vienna

Funeral was held in Vienna, Austria, for Mrs. Agnes Sheridan, 74, a 50-year resident of Marin County, who died there Thursday while on vacation.

Mrs. Sheridan, who lived at Winship Park, Ross, was the widow of John Sheridan, who was a traffic manager for the Union Oil Co. She was director of the Red Cross Motor Corps in Marin during World War II and was a director of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

She is survived by a son, John F. Sheridan of Evansville, Ind., and a daughter, Mrs. David Van Pelt of Nicasio.

Bewildered Student Not Their Man

Michael M. Randvere, 24, who, police said, held up 10 persons in five robberies in Marin early Saturday, was due to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Randvere, a solider, was said to have netted $43 in the armed robberies before his capture by sheriff's deputies.

While police throughout Marin were still looking for their suspect, they provided a few bad moments for a Santa Clara College student with an unfortunate resemblance to the armed robber. Corte Madera patrolman Roger Downward saw a car fitting the description of the robbery car going south on Highway 101 at 1:16 a.m. Saturday.

Downward followed the car and saw that the driver also matched the description of the thief. He called for assistance, and when he stopped the car at the Rodeo Avenue exit, five police cars from Sausalito, Mill Valley and the sheriff's department were on the scene.

Four police shotguns were aimed at Thomas W. Jamison Jr., the driver, as he stepped from the car and told police in a bewildered voice that he had no idea what "this was all about." He told police they were welcome to search him and his car. Police found nothing in the search.

Meanwhile witnesses to the robberies had arrived from San Anselmo, and they were unsure whether this was the man. Then Mill Valley police reported over the radio that another robbery had just taken place. The San Anselmo witnesses decided this definitely was not the man, and police released him with apologies.

Corte Madera police noted that he was the age of the thief, he was wearing the same type of clothes and had the same sort of hair cut and a facial resemblence to the thief.

He was driving the same kind of car, and the license number of his car was 778. The license number of the robbery car was 779.

Appeal Is Filed With Planners On Lot Splitting

Homeowners in Harbor Point Unit No. 1 in Strawberry, have filed an appeal against the Marin County Planning Commission action Sept. 25, which denied their previous appeal on a lot-split as being filed past the seven-day limit.

The appeal will be heard at the board of supervisors meeting tomorrow.

Homeowners Vernon I. Dwelly, John H. Jewett, Raymond Kalisfi and John M. Kahl claim they were wrongly informed they had until Sept. 12 to file their appeals have been considered by the commission, which had been filed after the seven-day period.

The original appeal was another step in a continuing conflict between Harbor Point homewoners and San Francisco developer Stanley W. Taylor, who was granted permission by the commission on Aug. 28 to split a 37,000 foot lot on East Strawberry Drive.

Homeowners claim the divided lot could be incompatible with much larger lots in the area.

Belvedere Woman Is Reported Fair

Mrs. Mollie M. Stokes, 39, of 103 Acacia Avenue, Belvedere, was reported in good condition today in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets early today.

Mrs. Stokes told Belvedere police officer Terence V. Zink that she took 15 sleeping tablets at 1:30 a.m., then began to worry about waking up in time to get her two children to school, so she called her family doctor in Belvedere, who ordered an ambulance to rush her to the hospital.

ALBERT VAN MOPPES

Funeral for Albert Van Moppes Mill Valley travel agent, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Van Moppes, 47, of 14 Gomez Way, was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital Friday night after collapsing at home. He had been under treatment recently at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, according to Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine. Fontaine attributed death to natural causes. An autopsy is pending.

Van Moppes was born in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, and served in the Belgian Army during World War II. He had lived in the United States and in Marin for three years and was a partner in Europac Travel Service of Mill Valley.

He is survived by his wife Andree of Mill Valley and two children, Allen M. and Didier A. Van Moppes.

CANZIO PANINA

Funeral services were to be held in Ukiah today for Canzio (Mario) Panina, 66, who died Friday in a Ukiah hospital after a short illness.

Two step-children, Donald and Eugene Malerby, live in Novato. Other survivors include his wife, Pauline Panina of Ukiah; son, Robert Panina, San Francisco; two brothers and a sister in Italy, Frank and Bruno, and Marguarita Panina. Another sister, not identified, lives in Brazil.

A native of Italy, Panina lived in Ukiah 15 years. He was a maintenance man at the Mendocino county courthouse.

Burial will be in Ukiah Catholic Cemetery.

KATHERINE NEWHOFF

Requiem Mass for Mrs. Katherine L. Newhoff, 68, of Ross, was offered today at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo. Mrs. Newhoff died Saturday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Newhoff was born in San Francisco and had resided in Marin for 32 years at 19 Redwood Road, Ross.

She is survived by two sons, James and Michael Newhoff, both of Ross; by six sisters, Mary Walsh, Mrs. Nell Howard, Mrs. Anne Kunst, Mrs. Ceceil Pichel and Mrs. Elizabeth McColloch, all of San Francisco, and Mrs. Marguerite Clune of Fresno. Also surviving are a brother, James Walsh of San Francisco, and two grandchildren.

Interment was at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

SARAH ARMSTEAD

Funeral for Sarah Armstead of Marin City will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Missionary Baptist Church, 501 Drake Avenue, Marin City. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Armstead, 59, of 237 Drake Avenue, died Friday at a local hospital after a short illness. A native of Texas, she had lived in California and in Marin City for 20 years.

She was a domestic and her husband, Charles Armstead, is a retired railroad worker. She was a member of the first Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City.

DEEP STEAM
Wall to Wall
Carpet Cleaning

NEW

Deep Steam removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing. Since no brushes or scrubbing action is used, there is no distortion of the carpet pile. The powerful extraction action of the DEEP STEAM process lifts matted pile to 'like new' appearance. The need for frequent professional cleaning is reduced because deeply embedded soil is removed and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt. During this cleaning operation every fiber is coated with a Soil Retardant to keep your carpet clean longer.

The old equipment with brushes, using liquid detergent or powder, scrubs the soil DEEPER into the fabric . . . and even with the help of a vacuum fails to remove soil or residue. The detergent or powder left in the fabric soon attracts more soil and it is not long before the soil works back to the surface. Soon your carpets appear more soiled than before!

Marshall Takes Oath For Supreme Court

THURGOOD MARSHALL
President on hand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thurgood Marshall took his seat as the first Negro member of the U.S. Supreme Court today with President Johnson, who appointed him, on hand to see him take his oath of office.

Marshall, the great grandson of a slave, swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich" as he took the oath with his hand on a bible.

Supreme Court Clerk John W. Davis administered the oath and court marshal T. Perry Lippitt then ushered the new justice to his chair at the end of the high mahogany bench on Chief Justce Earl Warren's far left.

Justice Byron R. White, who will sit next to him, and Justice William J. Brennan Jr., next in line, both shook hands with Marshall.

The swearing-in of the former solicitor general with the President and an overflow audience in the court chamber featured the opening session of a new term—the 178th in U.S. history.

The first day of a term is confined to ritualistic ceremony with no decisions announced.

The crack of Lippitt's gavel at 10 a.m. EDT announced the arrival of Johnson. He took a seat beside retired Justice Stanley F. Reed in the section reserved for VIP visitors. Justice Tom C. Clark, whom Marshall succeeds, sat on the other side of Reed.

Warren announced the beginning of the 1967-68 term—"thankfully with a full court." He noted Clark's retirement and the Marshall appointment and the fact that Marshall took his constitutional oath on Sept. 1 from senior Supreme Court Judge Hugo L. Black.

Davis then read the 59-year-old Marshall's commission and administered the oath. Johnson listened quietly and left eight minutes after he arrived.

Parking Limit Plans On Agenda

The Corte Madera Town Council will consider changes in parking limits for the Village Square area at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The Village Square Association has asked the council to change the limit from two to four hours on the east side of Corte Madera Avenue from Redwood Avenue north of the town limits, to change unlimited parking to four-hour parking on both sides of Corte Madera Avenue south 75 yards from First Street, and to change the Menke Park side of the commuter parking area to a four-hour limit.

The council will consider the single bid received Friday for correction of water ponding at curbs, for $6,995 from Ghilotti Brothers. The work was estimated to cost $4,987.

Marinite Says Wife Is Missing

A Tiburon man reported Tuesday that his wife had been missing since the previous morning, the sheriff's department reported Saturday.

Richard M. Anderson, 81 Barbaree Way, said he had not seen his wife, Betty Sue, 40, since she dropped him off at the ferry boat. Also missing was the family car and poodle, he said.

Texas license number of the 1966 blue two-door Chevrolet hardtop convertible is GLD 629, he said. He said his wife is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has blonde hair and blue eyes, and wears glasses.

URBAN

cost of the scheme. Has the city the courage of the old builders of the Erie Canal?" she asked.

On curbing the spread of suburbia, Lady Jackson recommended seeing "whole regions as gravitational fields of force in which a number of urban centers take the strain off each other, mitigate the lemming-like commuter surges and get a more rational use of transport systems."

In the morning session of the conference, sponsored by California Tomorrow, an organization to preserve the state's natural resources, participants discussed open space and pollution.

Councilman Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles' 10th District warned that "grand master community plans" don't stem the tide of despair in American city ghettoes.

"Let us have fairly simple community projects, which have a reasonable achievement time, which can involve the people of the community . . . and the effects of which will be noted daily by the residents as visible evidence that changes are occurring . . . ." he asked.

He also warned against projects which increase or enhance open space for the general community at the expense of recreation areas used primarily by ghetto families.

Edward A. Williams, landscape architect, urged a tax on land sales profits to fund public purchase of open space lands. He also recommended state-wide zones for agriculture, conservation and urbanization and holding - action legislation while the state studies new land reform laws to preserve agricultural land.

Drug By Fraud Arrest Made

A South San Francisco man was arrested Friday in San Anselmo and charged with trying to obtain a prescription drug by fraud, according to San Anselmo police.

Barry Lee Barnum, 28, of South San Francisco, was held at Marin County jail in lieu of $1,100 bail. Police said someone called pharmacist James Drummond at Long's Drug Store, 880 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Friday at 5:20 p.m., and identified himself as a San Bruno doctor. The "doctor" ordered a prescription of the drug Citra Forte, a narcotic, a for a patient named Robert Sawyer.

Drummond told police he phoned the real doctor in San Bruno and learned that the doctor had not made the phone call. At 7:50 p.m. police arrested Barnum when he came to the store to get the prescription.

Report Is Due From Architect

Trustees of Reed School District will hear a presentation tomorrow on the progress of architect Ron Young on early planning stages of the Reedlands Woods School.

The board meets at 8 p.m. at Bell Aire School, at the end of Karen Way, Tiburon.

A briefing on the school's instructional program by staff members will be included in the meeting.

praise for the school.

"There's less pressure and you learn more," Tom said.

"There's less disciplinary problem here because there's more freedom," Casey said. "They let you dress as you want to," he added. Moreover, "at Novato High School there were so many kids to a class that there was no attention given to me when I needed it," Casey said.

"You enjoy it here; it is fun. The teachers aren't always on your back," Tom said.

The continuation high school holds classes only until noon. That gives the boys a chance to find jobs in the afternoon. But it may find that it will have need for afternoon classes.

"Two of the boys hang around here now trying to find something to study in the afternoon," Garguilo said.

"I wished school went to 3 p.m. because I want to learn now," Tom said.

Casey had gone to continuation high school last year when it was at Novato High School

He shuddered when asked how he liked it and said, "We were the untouchables. We weren't allowed to use the library we were paraded down the hall in a chain like the Romans bringing in slaves and the people throwing rocks at them."

In addition to Garguilo, Robert Wisgerhof, former principal at Novato High School, teaches there. The third member of the staff is psychologist William Murray.

The school is trying to use much of audio-visual material for the boys. Once a week it has a field trip to some business, factory or firm which might direct them into a vacation, Garguilo said. A weekly speaker gives a description of job opportunities.

The continuation high schools were set up in the State Education Code in 1965 to take care of students who were suspended for 10 days or more during the school year. And admissions committee goes over the records of each student before he is assigned to the school.

However, the school won the approval of the first students and four of the 14 boys subsequently asked to be assigned, Garguilo said. Another volunteered while I was there, so it now has 15 students.

The class was out and suddenly I was surrounded by the 14 boys. They had a few minutes to talk before Det. Sgt. Otto Haiungs of the Novato police department was to talk to them about careers in police work.

All of them wanted to tell me how much better this school was for them than Novato High School.

"Put in a good word for it; it's a good school," Ken Graxiola of 20 Boulevard Terrace, said, best summarizing their feelings.

Crash Victim Still Critical

Christopher Leslie, 27, of 101 Buchanan Drive, Sausalito, remained in critical condition for the fourth day today in Marin General Hosptal with injuries suffered in a car crash on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The car Leslie was driving swerved across the center line on the bridge and collided with an on-coming car Thursday night, the California Highway Patrol reported.

He was reported in the intensive care unit of the hospital with a fractured skull, broken right leg and broken ribs.

ness of raids by the strategic air command B52 Stratofortresses, a U.S. communique said their bombs touched off 66 secondary explosions and nine raging fires on the ground last week. All the raids, the communique said, were within artillery range of Con Thien.

The report said that Communist shelling had killed 300 Marines and wounded more than 3,000 since mid-July.

The raids continued. Last night and early today, B52's flew three more raids against the Communist guns positions in the DMZ.

Other war developments:

U.S. officials announced the start on Friday of a sweep by a multi-battalion force of 1st Infantry troops (a battalion is 800 men) 37 miles northwest of Saigon called Operation Shenandoah II. No significant action was reported.

The South Vietnamese said the Viet Cong inflicted "heavy" casualties on a handful of Popular Forces troops at a Mekong Delta watchtower 80 miles southwest of Saigon. Another VC attack on a reconnaissance company 20 miles northwest of Saigon inflicted light casualties.

OBITUARIES

Marinite's Rites Held In Vienna

Funeral was held in Vienna, Austria, for Mrs. Agnes Sheridan, 74, a 50-year resident of Marin County, who died there Thursday while on vacation.

Mrs. Sheridan, who lived at Winship Park, Ross, was the widow of John Sheridan, who was a traffic manager for the Union Oil Co. She was director of the Red Cross Motor Corps in Marin during World War II and was a director of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

She is survived by a son, John F. Sheridan of Evansville, Ind., and a daughter, Mrs. David Van Pelt of Nicasio.

Bewildered Student Not Their Man

Michael M. Randvere, 24, who, police said, held up 10 persons in five robberies in Marin early Saturday, was due to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Randvere, a solider, was said to have netted $43 in the armed robberies before his capture by sheriff's deputies.

While police throughout Marin were still looking for their suspect, they provided a few bad moments for a Santa Clara College student with an unfortunate resemblance to the armed robber. Corte Madera patrolman Roger Downward saw a car fitting the description of the robbery car going south on Highway 101 at 1:16 a.m. Saturday.

Downard followed the car and saw that the driver also matched the description of the thief. He called for assistance, and when he stopped the car at the Rodeo Avenue exit, five police cars from Sausalito, Mill Valley and the sheriff's department were on the scene.

Four police shotguns were aimed at Thomas W. Jamison Jr., the driver, as he stepped from the car and told police in a bewildered voice that he had no idea what "this was all about." He told police they were welcome to search him and his car. Police found nothing in the search.

Meanwhile witnesses to the robberies had arrived from San Anselmo, and they were unsure whether this was the man. Then Mill Valley police reported over the radio that another robbery had just taken place. The San Anselmo witnesses decided this definitely was not the man, and police released him with apologies.

Corte Madera police noted that he was the age of the thief, he was wearing the same type of clothes and had the same sort of hair cut and a facial resemblence to the thief.

He was driving the same kind of car, and the license number of his car was 778. The license number of the robbery car was 779.

Appeal Is Filed With Planners On Lot Splitting

Homeowners in Harbor Point Unit No. 1 in Strawberry, have filed an appeal against the Marin County Planning Commission action Sept. 25, which denied their previous appeal on a lot-split as being filed past the seven-day limit.

The appeal will be heard at the board of supervisors meeting tomorrow.

Homeowners Vernon I. Dwelly, John H. Jewett, Raymond Kalisfi and John M. Kahl claim they were wrongly informed they had until Sept. 12 to file their appeals have been considered by the commission, which had been filed after the seven-day period.

The original appeal was another step in a continuing conflict between Harbor Point homewoners and San Francisco developer Stanley W. Taylor, who was granted permission by the commission on Aug. 28 to split a 37,000 foot lot on East Strawberry Drive.

Homeowners claim the divided lot could be incompatible with much larger lots in the area.

Belvedere Woman Is Reported Fair

Mrs. Mollie M. Stokes, 39, of 103 Acacia Avenue, Belvedere, was reported in good condition today in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets early today.

Mrs. Stokes told Belvedere police officer Terence V. Zink that she took 15 sleeping tablets at 1:30 a.m., then began to worry about waking up in time to get her two children to school, so she called her family doctor in Belvedere, who ordered an ambulance to rush her to the hospital.

ALBERT VAN MOPPES

Funeral for Albert Van Moppes Mill Valley travel agent, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Van Moppes, 47, of 14 Gomez Way, was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital Friday night after collapsing at home. He had been under treatment recently at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, according to Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine. Fontaine attributed death to natural causes. An autopsy is pending.

Van Moppes was born in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, and served in the Belgian Army during World War II. He had lived in the United States and in Marin for three years and was a partner in Europac Travel Service of Mill Valley.

He is survived by his wife Andree of Mill Valley and two children, Allen M. and Didier A. Van Moppes.

CANZIO PANINA

Funeral services were to be held in Ukiah today for Canzio (Mario) Panina, 66, who died Friday in a Ukiah hospital after a short illness.

Two step-children, Donald and Eugene Malerby, live in Novato. Other survivors include his wife, Pauline Panina of Ukiah; son, Robert Panina, San Francisco; two brothers and a sister in Italy, Frank and Bruno, and Marguarita Panina. Another sister, not identified, lives in Brazil.

A native of Italy, Panina lived in Ukiah 15 years. He was a maintenance man at the Mendocino county courthouse.

DEEP STEAM
Wall to Wall

NEW

Deep Steam removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing. Since no brushes or scrubbing action is used, there is no distortion of the carpet pile. The powerful extraction action of the DEEP STEAM process lifts matted pile to 'like new' appearance. The need for frequent professional cleaning is reduced because deeply embedded soil is removed and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt. During this cleaning operation every fiber is coated with a Soil Retardant to keep your carpet clean longer.

The old equipment with brushes, using liquid detergent or powder, scrubs the soil DEEPER into the fabric . . . and even with the help of a vacuum fails to remove soil or residue. The detergent or powder left in the fabric soon attracts more soil and it is not long before the soil works back to the surface. Soon your carpets appear more soiled than before!

Soil Extracted, Not Scrubbed Deeper!

Tidelands Annexation Policy Due

Annexation of 280 acres of underwater tidelands to Corte Madera will be considered Thursday night by the Local Agency Formation Commission. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m., in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

The tideland area proposed for annexation lies north of Paradise Drive between the city limits of Corte Madera and Tiburon.

Other items on the agenda include:

A continued hearing on Miwok Corporation's request to have Seascape subdivision detached from the Muir Beach Community Services District.

Annexing a lot at Lark Meadows off Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur to the town of Corte Madera because the only access to the lot is Via Edison Avenue in Corte Madera.

A grand jury recommendation that the LAFC take over the job of updating and maintaining the "special districts" booklet compiled by the league of women voters.

Pair Hurt In 101 Collision

Two Marin City youths were injured in a two-car collision on Highway 101, a quarter of a mile south of the Tamalpais Drive overcrossing in Corte Madera early yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that a southbound car driven by Michael A. Killeen, 17, of 2150 Mar East, Tiburon, collided with another southbound car driven by Horace K. White, 19, of 59 Cole Drive, Marin City, at 3:10 a.m.

White, suffered a cut right leg, and his passenger, Michael Jesse Washington, 20, of 76 Cole Drive, Marin City, suffered a bruised forehead. Both were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Lynch Links Teens To Terrorist Groups

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch says that the majority of extremist "terror groups" in California are composed of people in their teens and twenties.

"This is a serious prospect, indeed," Lynch said, "for the future of our nation."

In a speech to the Anti-Defamation League Saturday night Lynch said that extremist groups are still active in California and they possess a large amount of firearms.

He predicted that when the new gun law goes into effect in November the situation would be remedied. But during the past few years he said law enforcement agencies have seized enough arms from Southern California extremist groups "to equip a small army."

Included in Lynch's list of extremists were groups such as the American Nazi Party, the National States Rights Party, the Christian Defense League, the Ku Klux Klan, the Minutemen and black nationalist groups.

Lynch specifically criticized activities of the American Nazi Party and the Minutemen. He said both groups have set up private military groups "in complete disregard for the duly constituted governmental agencies." He also noted that of the 65 known California members, 31 have police records totaling 131 arrests.

"The objectives of these two terror groups," Lynch said, "pretty well epitomizes the goal of them all."

Teacher Pay To Be Studied

Dr. H. Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, will discuss substitute teacher salaries with the District Board tomorrow evening at 7:45 p.m.

Dr. Hammond said he believes the salaries for Fairfax substitute teachers should be higher.

Other matters on the agenda include a request for support from district for the Louise A. Boyd Museum, report on enrollment and asking of bids of approximately $4,000 worth of roofing work to district schools.

Directors May Ask Waiver On Election

The Corte Madera Sanitary District board will consider asking the county board of supervisors to waive a district election and to reappoint three members to the board at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

Board members Herbert C. Leney, Ernest T. Mock and Fred A. Nicholson were the only persons to file for their expired terms.

Gun Shooting Bookings Made

Richard Alan Robbiano, 19, of 26 Magnolia Avenue, San Anselmo, and Gary Allen Cusimano, 20, of 21 Flying Cloud Course, Corte Madera, were booked at the county jail Saturday for violating a Tiburon city ordinance against firing guns in the city.

Deputy sheriff John O. Goff reported the two youths were seen at 4:30 p.m. on a fire road in the Tiburon Hills shooting a .22 calibre rifle. Some shots went over the hill toward Paradise Drive, others toward Tiburon Boulevard, both heavily traveled streets on weekends, Goff reported.

They were released on $56 bail each and are to appear tomorrow in court.

Two Soldiers Prevent Leap From Bridge

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two soldiers prevented a young Oakland mother today from leaping from the Oakland Bay Bridge.

The soldiers, Lt. John A. Heidbreder and S/Sgt. Robert A. Keefe, reported they were driving toward Oakland on the lower deck when they saw a convertible ahead of them pull to the side.

They said the woman, identified later as Mrs. Ann Dolores Smith, 23, climbed onto the rail. They halted their car and grabbed her before she could jump.

Highway patrolman James Mitchell arrived a few minutes later and attempted to soothe her. He thought he had succeeded but she broke away, ran to the rail and tried to climb over again.

This time, Mitchell dragged her back and handcuffed her.

East Bay Suspect Faces Court Hearing

Preliminary hearing for Willie Walter Bradley, 27, accused of grand theft and burglary, was scheduled in Marin Municipal Court Friday for 1:30 p.m. next Friday.

Bradley, of Richmond, allegedly stole over $200 in merchandise from Ray's Office Machine Service, Inc., San Rafael, on Sept. 21. A bench warrant for his arrest, issued Thursday, was recalled with his appearance in court Friday.

Centrifuge Ordered For Sewage Plant

Directors of Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District have awarded a contract to Ahnger, Furnoff and Bradford of Berkeley, on a low bid of $24,777, for installation of a centrifuge for dewatering sludge, according to president William E. Brook.

Second lowest bid of the nine opened Thursday was from Joseph DiGiorgio and Son of San Rafael, $25.200.

Matches Playing Results In Fires

Youngsters playing with matches set two extensive fires in San Rafael on the weekend. They did $1,400 worth of damage to a garage and set a fire that burned six acres of brush and grass on San Rafael Hill.

The fire department said parents of the children brought them to the fire station and cases were given to juvenile authorities.

A 12-year-old boy set some rags on fire Saturday afternoon in a two-story garage at 1327 Lincoln Avenue. The garage, used partly for storage, is owned by the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco.

The rear part of the garage, including a portion of the roof, was damaged.

Earlier in the afternoon, three juveniles, 7 and 8 years old, set off a brush and grass fire at the top of Robert Dollar Drive on San Rafael Hill that kept city and county fire units busy for more than an hour.

The fire sent off thick clouds of smoke, but firemen got it under control before it threatened any homes.

Labor Leader Rips Wilson Over Policies On Workers

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — Labor party Chairman John Boyd unleashed an attack today on Prime Minister Harold Wilson's economic policies, charging that the government used boxing gloves when dealing with workers and kid gloves with businessmen.

Boyd, one of the leaders of the big Amalgamated Engineering Union, made his charge in a speech opening the Labor party's annual convention.

Boyd expressed the bafflement of the 6,000 delegates over the government's policy of deflation which has sent unemployment soaring to a 27-year peak.

He defended the government's actions in health, housing, education and social security but said it wasn't enough. Wilson had been counting on him to help defend against some criticism within the party.

Workers, Boyd said, were seeing their earnings whittled away by even higher prices and he lashed out at profits of some industrialists.

Trustees To Decide On Building Site

The Novato Unified School District board will decide whether or not to go ahead and buy the Paladini property for its future administration building when it meets at 8 p.m., today at the administration building.

The board held a public hearing last week on whether to start condemnation proceedings against that property which has been approved by the state Allocations Board. There was opposition from the residents of the area and the Novato City Council to buying the site which is at Wilson Avenue and Vineyard Road.

The board will consider the bids for the San Marin High School. Royce Hall of Napa with a bid of $1,775,772 was the apparent low bidder of four when bids were opened last Tuesday. The bid is higher than the state allowance of $1,668,993.

Other items on the agenda include a report on a state tests of primary reading, the water agreement for the San Marin High School and utility pole easements for Sinaloa Junior High School.

Dragnet Too Good

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — A state police officer was making a spot check for drunken driver in the Essex toll plaza area. Suddenly a fast-moving auto crashed into a toll booth, hitting the officer in the process. The car operator was arrested—on a drunken driving charge.

Douglas L. Cole of San Rafael has been named to the dean's list at the University of California, Santa Barbara, for maintaining a straight A academic record.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frederick Cole of 890 Las Ovejas Avenue.

Three other San Rafael students were named to the list for maintaining at least a 3.5 average. They are Yolanda S. Godfrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Godfrey of 144 Center Street; Nancy L. Grimes, daughter ofg Dr. and Mrs. Orville F. Grimes of 1660 Grand Avenue; and Debbe L. Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Jackson of 258 Etta Court. the district advisory council, the

Trustees To Decide On Building Site

The Novato Unified School District board will decide whether or not to go ahead and buy the Paladini property for its future administration building when it meets at 8 p.m., today at the administration building.

The board held a public hearing last week on whether to start condemnation proceedings against that property which has been approved by the state Allocations Board. There was opposition from the residents of the area and the Novato City Council to buying the site which is at Wilson Avenue and Vineyard Road.

The board will consider the bids for the San Marin High School. Royce Hall of Napa with a bid of $1,775,772 was the apparent low bidder of four when bids were opened last Tuesday. The bid is higher than the state allowance of $1,668,993.

Other items on the agenda include a report on a state tests of primary reading, the water agreement for the San Marin High School and utility pole easements for Sinaloa Junior High School.

Dragnet Too Good

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — A state police officer was making a spot check for drunken driver in the Essex toll plaza area. Suddenly a fast-moving auto crashed into a toll booth, hitting the officer in the process. The car operator was arrested—on a drunken driving charge.

University Talk

San Rafael high school students will hear of University of San Francisco requirements and curriculum from Augustine P. Donoghue, director of admissions, who will visit the high school Friday.

Marinites Eligible For Marshal Jobs

Marin residents are eligible for an examination to fill several deputy U.S. marshal jobs in San Francisco. The jobs pay $5,867 and proficiency in the use of firearms is required.

Complete information is available at San Rafael post offices. Deadline for filing application is Oct. 6.

Great Books Groups Organizing In Ross

Two first-year Great Books discussion groups will begin on Oct. 11 at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, and will meet twice monthly to discuss readings from the works.

A group will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the Octagon House and another at 8 p.m. in the Magnolia House.

Suspect Booked In Attack Case

A 28-year-old Richmond man was booked into county jail early Saturday morning on suspicion of attempted rape, resisting arrest and reckless driving.

The suspect, Wallace Blocker Jr., allegedly grabbed a 22-year-old girl as she walked to her houseboat at Waldo Point shortly after 2 a.m. His victim told sheriff's deputies that he tried to put his hand over her mouth, but that her screams scared him away.

Blocker drove off in his car at a high speed, and Sausalito police and sheriff's deputies chased him into Marin City. They caught up with him at Donahue Street, and subdued him with tear gas after a brief struggle, deputies reported.

He was released on $6,165 bail, and is to appear 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

$330 Burglary

A burglar who forced open a faulty door lock stole $330 in cash and jewelry Thursday from the apartment of Jean B. Page at 144 Ross Street, San Rafael, police reported Saturday.

Bolinas Lagoon In Final Stages Of Sedimentation

Bolinas Lagoon is a "textbook case" of a lagoon in the final stages of sedimentation, according to ecologist Joel F. Gustafson.

In 50 years of natural development, the lagoon would be solid enough to walk across, professor Gustafson told the Bolinas Harbor District Board last week.

Gustafson, of San Francisco State College, gave an interim report on an ecologial study of the lagoon's plant and animal life. He said 480 test samples taken show a wide variation in amounts of subsurface animal life throughout the lagoon. The study team is beginning to map the subsurface life and will continue through the winter, he said.

The ecology study will not be complete before next July, he said. Gustafson is working with the College of Marin Marine Laboratory at Bolinas in the study.

The harbor board also authorized planner Norman T. Gilroy to negotiate for an oceanography study as outlined by the Army Corps of Engineers. The study is expected to start this month, and a contract with the firm chosen will be presented to the board for action a the next meeting.

The Bolinas Harbor District Board also:

OFFICE Decided to locate a harbor office on Wharf Road in downtown Bolinas, to contain district records and to show permanent displays of study results as they progress and maps of the district.

EROSION — Adopted a resolution to send to Rep. Don H. Clausen requesting beach erosion studies from Duxbury Reef to Rocky Point. The resolution supports one made recently by Marin County supervisors for a Corps of Engineers study.

FUNDING — Adopted an agreement with the California Department of Harbors and Watercraft for this year's second phase of the planning program, covering lagoon studies now in progress.

Youths Booked

Two San Rafael teen-agers looking for a "good party" in Tiburon, were cited into Juvenile Hall yesterday after sheriff's deputy John O. Goff found cans of ale, a homemade hatchet and a metal pipe in their car yesterday at 2 a.m.

Persons, Firms Disclosed In Med-Cal Chisel

The names of 35 persons and companies suspended from participation in the Medi-Cal program were disclosed today by Carel E. H. Mulder, director of the California Office of Health Care Services.

Mulder on Sept. 21 refused to disclose the names of seven physicians suspected of chiseling on the program by inflating bills and performing unnecessary services. His reason, he told the Independent-Journal today, was that "the number of physicians under investigation is considerably higher than seven and that the names of these suspects could not be released while investigations are in process."

NOT IN OFFICE

His reason on Sept. 21 for not releasing the names of the 35 suspended firms and individuals was that "I did not happen to have them with me when away from the office," he said.

The list of 35 includes none from Marin County.

It includes 14 doctors of medicine, seven dentists, three drug stores, three hearing aid centers, three chiropractors, two convalescent hospitals, an osteopath, and a nursing home.

Most of these are in the Los Angeles area, with 11 in Los Angeles, two in Compton, one in Lynwood, one in Van Nuys, two in Pasadena, and one in El Segundo.

BAY AREA

In the Bay Area are three in Oakland (Hans Benedict, M.D.; Lionel A. Lewis, D.D.S., and Ross Medical Service Drugs); one in Berkeley (John Winston Jr., D.C.; one in Woodside (Woodside Apothecary); one in Sebastopol (Robert L. Fox, D.D.S.); and one in Santa Clara (Hearthstone Convalescent Hospital).

Others are in San Diego, Fresno, Taft, Modesto, Madera, El Cajon, Redding, Delano, and Bakersfield.

"I should like to stress again that the number of both suspended and suspect physicians is a relatively small per centage of the practicing physicians in the state," said Mulder.

"Nevertheless this office considers any volume in inappropriate conduct as excessive and through investigation and administrative actions makes all efforts to keep the number to an irreducible minimum. In this effort we have the full support of the California Medical Association and California Blue Shield."

Park Bonding To Be Reviewed

The Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission will try to put together several different bond proposals when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

Last week the Novato City Council asked the commission to put together several package deals for presenting to the council. These were indicated as $1 million, $1.5 million and $2.75 million. The council will then select which it wants to put on the Jan. 23 bond election ballot.

The commission will also review the fall and winter recreation programs and the senior citizens programs.

High Sihool Subject Of Chamber Session

In the first fall meeting of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, David D. Ring, chairman of the Tamalpais High School District bond election committee, will speak on "The Impact of a High School on the Local Community."

The breakfast meeting starts at 8 a.m., at the Tiburon Lodge.

Youth Training Program Starts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Northern California chapter of the American Institute of Architects says that an on-the-job training program for underprivileged and minority young people is under way.

High school graduates of demonstrated ability are being taken into various offices, the announcement said yesterday.

Costs are being financed by a special assessment of AIA chapter members, the federal Urban League and individual employers.

Ordinance On Free Parking On Agenda

The Sausalito City Council will take up an ordinance providing two hours free parking for city residents at tomorrow's council meeting. The council meets at 8 p.m. at city hall.

A public hearing is scheduled on adoption of the city's revised general plan.

Patrol Car Holder Is Finally Arrested

Larkspur police arrested a Corte Madera man early today after trying for half an hour to get the man to let go of a patrol car.

Stephen E. Arntz, 22, of 625 Oakdale Avenue, Corte Madera, was arrested and charged with obstructing a peace officer while performing his duty, and was later released from Marin County jail on $550 bail.

Larkspur officers Alasdair MacDonald and J. Scott Waterman reported that they were answering a call at 3:46 a.m. today when a man flagged them down on Doherty Drive near the Larkspur Plaza. When they stopped he grabbed a door handle of the police car and refused to let go. He complained that he did not like the Larkspur police department.

Police said they asked him to let go because they were on their way to answer a call, and suggested that if he had a complaint to make against the department he see Chief Howard Clark during normal office hours.

He continued to hold on, and at 4:15 a.m. the officers radioed Corte Madera police for assistance. Corte Madera officer Roger Downward answered the call, and ordered the man to release the patrol car. Downward and the Larkspur officers explained again that if he did not let go, they would have to arrest him. Finally, they arrested him.

The call the Larkspur police were trying to answer was a report of a missing person. By the time they got to the home, the missing person had turned up.

Mill Valleyan Hurt In Wreck

Lawrence Mansir of 107 Loring Avenue, Mill Valley, was injured last night when his small car hit a utility pole in San Francisco and rolled over.

San Francisco police reported Mansir was driving off the Oakland-Bay Bridge freeway at Lombard Street at 7:45 p.m. when the car struck the pole.

Mansir, 30, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and scalp cut.

Forgery Suspect Enters Guilty Plea

John Edward Griesen, 26, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court Friday to forgery. He will be sentenced in Marin Superior Court.

Griesen forged a $20 check last Sunday with intent to defraud Winton's News and Liquors in San Rafael. A charge of carrying a worthless check was dismissed following his plea.

Tax Bills To Be Mailed Out Oct. 13

About 75,000 tax bills will be mailed to Marin property owners beginning Oct. 13, County Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez announced today.

"I've always been mailing the bills about Oct. 15 since I took office," said Fontez, "And I'd like to get them out even earlier."

He explained that last year, his office collected over $2 million in October, which meant a substantial income to the county in interest money. Fontez said the October mailing of tax bills has been customary for his office, although previous tax collectors did mail them out about Nov. 1.

The date of mailing of tax bills has been questioned by school officials who are working for passage of school bonds in October and fear that the tax bills will have an adverse effect on the success of the bond issues.

"There is no correlation between mailing of tax bills and school bond elections," said Fontez. "My job is to get the tax bills out as soon as possible and save the county as much as possible in interest."

The entire student body of the University of South Carolina left school to enlist in the Confederate Army at the start of the Civil War.

New Policemen Join The Force

Three new officers started work yesterday for the Corte Madera Police Department.

The officers are Clifford G. Niederer, 21, and Martin Van Drunen, 24, both of San Francisco, and Gerald D. Fries, 35, of 491 Alameda Del Prado, Novato. Fries worked as a Marin County sheriff's deputy for five years.. The other two officers are new to police work. All will be paid $584 a month.

How the Mercedes-Benz 250S nudges its $6600 rivals into unplanned obsolescence.

The Mercedes-Benz 250S: one test drive is worth a thousand pictures. Take a test drive soon.

While other car makers busy themselves with new styling themes, new names and new slogans, Mercedes-Benz engineers busy themselves finding ways to make their cars run better and last longer.

The Mercedes-Benz 250S shows the wisdom of this approach. It doesn't look quite as flashy or far-out as the other '68 cars—but in terms of efficiency and over-the-road performance, it's years ahead. So far ahead, in fact, that it nudges those other cars into quite unplanned obsolescence.

No queasy feeling

The 250S suspension is a case in point. Borrowing from one of their own world-champion sports cars, Mercedes-Benz engineers fitted the 250S with a fully independent, rear swing-axle suspension system. It keeps all four wheels clamped firmly on the road, even in hard cornering or on skittish surfaces. The 250S outhandles its rivals like a sailboat outhandles a barge.

The engineers even built a hydro-pneumatic spring into the rear axle. Add weighty trunk loads—this ingenious device automatically pumps up to stiffen the rear suspension and keep you riding level.

Brakes you can trust

Instead of throwing money away on styling tricks, Mercedes-Benz engineers poured it into things like a better braking system.

You stop with 10½-inch disc brakes—fitted not only up front but at all 4 wheels. Engineers rank discs above cheaper-to-make drum brakes for this reason: even in one smoking panic stop after another, disc brakes refuse to fade.

Swerving and pulling are other vices you'll never miss. The engineers even met the threat of the rear wheels locking up in a crash stop, by fitting a valve to balance front and rear braking forces.

If anyone ever asks you to explain why your 250S is worth the price, the brake system is a good place to start.

The great vibration hunt

Nothing proves the engineering superiority of the 250S more than its unflappable calm at extreme speeds. You feel no tremors, no rhythmic shudders.

Mercedes-Benz engineers knew that cycles of vibration are set up in a car as its speed increases. So they hunted every quiver down, making tiny changes in suspension layout and drive-train design—even in sheet metal thickness—to deaden these harmonic vibrations, even at maximum speeds where you'll likely never drive.

That overhead camshaft, 6-cylinder 250S engine claims a share of credit for the car's uncanny running quiet.

Every engine bearing, for example, is machined down to tolerances as close as .019 of a millimeter.

Connecting rods are hand matched for perfect balance.

A 60-minute bench test precedes mounting of the finished engine in the car.

To wash away metal filings and other such debris, oil is added and replaced in the engine 62 times during the final check.

A long-term investment

Sixteen different gauges of sheet metal, up to one millimeter thick, form the 250S "unit" body structure. It is welded at 10,000 points, then hand-filed and sanded for three hours. Next, it's lowered into a huge vat and completely coated with a layer of primer. The anti-corrosion materials on each 250S body weigh 48 pounds.

The paint job is three layers thick. The top coat is sprayed by hand, then rubbed by hand.

No artificial ingredients

The tasteful wood interior trim in the 250S is real wood, not plastic. Run your hand along below the dash: it's perfectly smooth, because even the underside of the dash is fully finished off.

Sit in those deeply upholstered seats. You feel properly supported—and after an all-day drive, you still will. The reason: Orthopedic physicians laid down the specifications. And Mercedes-Benz engineers actually tuned seat springs to the car's suspension motions, to wipe out millions of miniscule but wearying vibrations.

Price: That $6600 includes such items as power-assisted steering and a 4-speed automatic transmission. Take these optional items away and you can own a 250S for only $6,011*.

SAFETY NOTE: Mercedes-Benz pioneered many important safety features, many years ago.

Dual-circuit brake lines, disc brakes, and other items have been standard equipment for years.

Work continues to make Mercedes-Benz cars even safer—both in avoiding trouble, and in protecting you if trouble should occur.

From $25,785* to $4,284*

You may be able to afford a Mercedes-Benz without knowing it. Below are suggested retail prices* for 7 of the 13 Mercedes-Benz models:

600 Grand Mercedes	$25,785

Jury Trials Slated In Narcotics, Theft

Two narcotics trials and one for burglary were scheduled on the master calendar in Marin Superior Court today to be held before juries this week.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson also issued a bench warrant for arrest in a fourth case in which the defendant, William J. Hollandsworth, was to be tried but is in custody instead in Florida.

Oren Reginald Williams Jr., 31, of 5 Bell Avenue, Fairfax, will face trial at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Judge Wilson's court on a complaint of three counts of selling marijuana and two counts of selling amphetamine, a dangerous drug, April 28.

Alex Keys, 36, of 7 Mariposa Road, San Rafael, will begin trial before Judge Thomas F. Keating at 10 a.m. tomorrow on a charge of two burglaries. He is accused of breaking into Bill's Refrigeration Service at 1812 Redwood Highway, Corte Madera, on April 29, and Railway Express Agency at 35 Jordan Street, San Rafael, on May 14.

At 10 a.m. Wednesday, Otis Ward, 27, San Francisco, will stand trial before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on a complaint of marijuana possession. Ward allegedly had marijuana June 6 after he and three companions were found playing drums in a deserted house above Waldo Grade.

Hollandsworth, 31-year-old transient, was to stand trial this week on a complaint charging he used another person's credit card for purchases at Strawberry Town and Country Village Dec. 1, and forged a $141 check Dec. 2. New bail is $5,500.

Museum Diector To Discuss Festival

Mrs. Clara Evans, director of the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum, will discuss "Communicating Planning Ideas" on Wednesday, at 8 p.m., at a meeting of the Planning Committee of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, in the Civic Center.

Drivers Strike Monterey Area

MONTEREY (AP) — Drivers struck the Bay Rapid Transit Co. yesterday, curtailing local bus service on the Monterey Peninsula.

The firm serves Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside and vicinity.

The walkout began just after midnight Saturday when the contract expired. Negotiations have been stalemated.

Intruders Attack Two San Rafael Schools

Two San Rafael high schools were attacked by intruders yesterday. In one school they broke open a safe but in the other, would-be burglars were nabbed by the principal.

Safe-cracking vandals plundered San Rafael High School last night, stealing about $100 but leaving behind a trail of destruction expected to cost the district $500 in repairs.

And in Davidson High School, an attempt at ransacking the administration office was foiled by Principal Hanlon P. Tharp, who corned three teen-age intruders.

The San Rafael High School vandalism was discovered early today. Thieves broke the lock of a storage safe and stole $30 in cash and a bunch of keys, said Police Inspector Gerald R. Souza. No large amounts of cash are kept on the premises, he said.

With one of the keys they got into the school bank and stole $60 and then went on a rampage of destruction.

They wrote obscene words on the blackboards, kicked in wooden partitions, threw papers around classrooms, broke open vending machines and tried unsuccessfully to get into the counselling office.

Police patrol cars rushed to Davidson High School at 2:30 p.m., yesterday after principal Tharp reported he had surprised three young would-be burglars standing near a desk in the secretary's office. A drawer of the desk was open.

He said he told them to stay where they were but one ran into an alcove. Tharp cornered him.

After questioning by police, the three youths were booked for burglary at Juvenile Hall. Tharp said nothing was missing from the school.

Grand Theft Hearing Set

Charges of grand theft against a former Sausalito resident, John Joseph Verde, will be heard Dec. 14 at 2 p.m. in San Francisco Municipal Court, Department 12.

Verde, 44, pleaded not guilty Thursday. He is free on $2,750 bail.

He was returned Wednesday from New York to face charges he sold paintings he did not own, including Picassos and others of considerable value. Police had sought him for four months.

Verde lived in Sausalito at 20 Crecienta Drive from 1965 until last March.

Satellite Ready To Relay News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communications equipment aboard communications satellite Pacific 2, is being prepared for its task of relaying communications between the Far East and the United States.

The satellite was launched into a near-synchronous orbit Wednesday, a path which will be further refined in the next few days, according to officials of the Communications Satellite Corp.

Strong Election Showing Made By Rightwingers

BREMEN, Germany (UPI)—The extreme rightwing National Democratic Party (NPD), alleged by some to be a neo-Nazi organization, emerged today from the Bremen state election with the strongest showing in its two-year history.

The NPD, which counts many former Nazis among its officers, members and supporters, more than tripled its gain over the 1965 national elections by rolling up 8.9 per cent of the state vote Sunday on a platform that included demands West Germany halt restitution payments to Israel.

The record vote gave the party eight of the 100 seats in the Bremen state legislature and raised fears of a possible revival of fascism in some segments of the West German population.

Surf Claims Two Persons

CARMEL (AP) — Abnormally high surf claimed the lives Saturday of two Menlo Park men at Carmel Point beach, and the wife of one of them barely escaped with her life.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clary were walking on the beach with George Joseph Kennedy, 20, when the Clarys were caught by a 20-foot breaker. Kennedy went in after them. Another wave swept Mrs. Clary back up on the beach, but her husband and Kennedy have not been seen since. Mrs. Clary, three months pregnant, was taken to Carmel Community Hospital.

Youth Listed As Runaway

Richard L. Johnson, 16, was listed today as a runaway from his home, 1500 Buchanan Street, Novato, by the Novato police.

He left home about 12:30 p.m., yesterday, his stepmother, Mrs. Lois May Simpson, told police. Richard later phoned officer Ronald Green and said he would not return to his home, but would not tell where he was staying.

He was described as six feet tall, weighing 170 pounds, of heavy build with blue yes and blond hair. He was wearing a green corduroy coat when last seen.

Outlook Good For More Rain

The dampening drizzle in Marin yesterday was the prelude to possibly heavier rains tonight and tomorrow.

The Weather Bureau set odds of a 50 per cent chance of rain tonight and 20 per cent chance tomorrow, with continued cool weather.

Girl Wrecks Stolen Auto

A 13-year-old runaway San Anselmo girl was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall last night by Novato police after she had run a stolen car into a ditch at 195 Los Robles Road, Novato, and then called for help according to Novato police.

The car was owned by Fred P. Butler of 293 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, who had left it for repairs at the Hancock Service Station at 1585 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. He did not konw it was stolen until it was recovered, according to police.

The girl had been reported as missing from her home.

Grudge Against Traffic Signs

Someone with an apparent grudge against road traffic struck in West Marin last weekend.

Sheriff's deputies reported they found six county road signs pulled out of the ground and laid across the west bound land of the road between Nicasio Dam and Point Reyes at 5 a.m. Friday.

Also found were boulders placed in the lane at strategic points on blind hair pin bends.

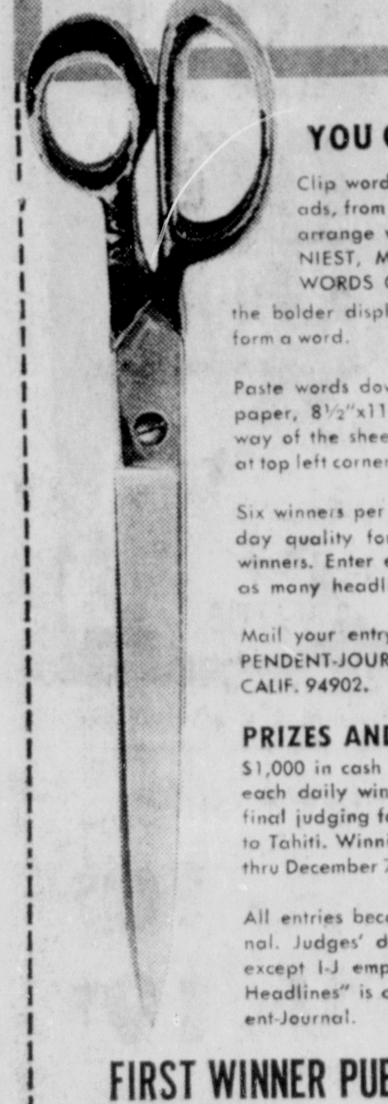
RULES for PLAYING "MAKE THE HEADLINES"

The great new fun game for all I-J readers



YOU CAN WIN! ENTER NOW!

Clip words from I-J news headlines or from the ads, from any pages, any issues, of the I-J. Then arrange words in any order to form the FUNNIEST, MOST ORIGINAL "HEADLINE" OF 15 WORDS OR LESS. Use words and numerals in the bolder display type. Do not clip single letters to form a word.

Paste words down in 4 lines or less on any sheet of paper, 8½"x11". Note: run headline with the long way of the sheet. Put your name, address, phone no. at top left corner, and the date.

Six winners per week! Entries postmarked by Wednesday quality for judging of following week's daily winners. Enter each week; more chance to win! Enter as many headlines and as many times as you wish.

Mail your entry to: "MAKE THE HEADLINES," INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, 1040 B STREET, SAN RAFAEL, CALIF. 94902.

PRIZES AND PUBLICATION OF WINNERS

$1,000 in cash prizes; 50 winners for 50 days. $20 to each daily winner. The 50 daily winners qualify for final judging for the Grand Prize: 10-day trip for two to Tahiti. Winning entries published daily, October 11 thru December 7.

All entries become property of the Independent-Journal. Judges' decisions are final. Open to everyone except I-J employees and their families. "Make the Headlines" is a copyrighted feature of the Independent-Journal.

Jury Trials Slated In Narcotics, Theft

Two narcotics trials and one for burglary were scheduled on the master calendar in Marin Superior Court today to be held before juries this week.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson also issued a bench warrant for arrest in a fourth case in which the defendant, William J. Hollandsworth, was to be tried but is in custody instead in Florida.

Oren Reginald Williams Jr., 31, of 5 Bell Avenue, Fairfax, will face trial at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Judge Wilson's court on a complaint of three counts of selling marijuana and two counts of selling amphetamine, a dangerous drug, April 28.

Alex Keys, 36, of 7 Mariposa Road, San Rafael, will begin trial before Judge Thomas F. Keating at 10 a.m. tomorrow on a charge of two burglaries. He is accused of breaking into Bill's Refrigeration Service at 1812 Redwood Highway, Corte Madera, on April 29, and Railway Express Agency at 35 Jordan Street, San Rafael, on May 14.

At 10 a.m. Wednesday, Otis Ward, 27, San Francisco, will stand trial before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on a complaint of marijuana possession. Ward allegedly had marijuana June 6 after he and three companions were found playing drums in a deserted house above Waldo Grade.

Hollandsworth, 31-year-old transient, was to stand trial this week on a complaint charging he used another person's credit card for purchases at Strawberry Town and Country Village Dec. 1, and forged a $141 check Dec. 2. New bail is $5,500.

Museum Diector To Discuss Festival

Mrs. Clara Evans, director of the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum, will discuss "Communicating Planning Ideas" on Wednesday, at 8 p.m., at a meeting of the Planning Committee of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, in the Civic Center.

Drivers Strike Monterey Area

MONTEREY (AP) — Drivers struck the Bay Rapid Transit Co. yesterday, curtailing local bus service on the Monterey Peninsula.

The firm serves Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside and vicinity.

The walkout began just after midnight Saturday when the contract expired. Negotiations have been stalemated.

Intruders Attack Two San Rafael Schools

Two San Rafael high schools were attacked by intruders yesterday. In one school they broke open a safe but in the other, would-be burglars were nabbed by the principal.

Safe-cracking vandals plundered San Rafael High School last night, stealing about $100 but leaving behind a trail of destruction expected to cost the district $500 in repairs.

And in Davidson High School, an attempt at ransacking the administration office was foiled by Principal Hanlon P. Tharp, who corned three teen-age intruders.

The San Rafael High School vandalism was discovered early today. Thieves broke the lock of a storage safe and stole $30 in cash and a bunch of keys, said Police Inspector Gerald R. Souza. No large amounts of cash are kept on the premises, he said.

With one of the keys they got into the school bank and stole $60 and then went on a rampage of destruction.

They wrote obscene words on the blackboards, kicked in wooden partitions, threw papers around classrooms, broke open vending machines and tried unsuccessfully to get into the counselling office.

Police patrol cars rushed to Davidson High School at 2:30 p.m., yesterday after principal Tharp reported he had surprised three young would-be burglars standing near a desk in the secretary's office. A drawer of the desk was open.

He said he told them to stay where they were but one ran into an alcove. Tharp cornered him.

After questioning by police, the three youths were booked for burglary at Juvenile Hall. Tharp said nothing was missing from the school.

Grand Theft Hearing Set

Charges of grand theft against a former Sausalito resident, John Joseph Verde, will be heard Dec. 14 at 2 p.m. in San Francisco Municipal Court, Department 12.

Verde, 44, pleaded not guilty Thursday. He is free on $2,750 bail.

He was returned Wednesday from New York to face charges he sold paintings he did not own, including Picassos and others of considerable value. Police had sought him for four months.

Verde lived in Sausalito at 20 Crecienta Drive from 1965 until last March.

Satellite Ready To Relay News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communications equipment aboard communications satellite Pacific 2, is being prepared for its task of relaying communications between the Far East and the United States.

The satellite was launched into a near-synchronous orbit Wednesday, a path which will be further refined in the next few days, according to officials of the Communications Satellite Corp.

Strong Election Showing Made By Rightwingers

BREMEN, Germany (UPI)—The extreme rightwing National Democratic Party (NPD), alleged by some to be a neo-Nazi organization, emerged today from the Bremen state election with the strongest showing in its two-year history.

The NPD, which counts many former Nazis among its officers, members and supporters, more than tripled its gain over the 1965 national elections by rolling up 8.9 per cent of the state vote Sunday on a platform that included demands West Germany halt restitution payments to Israel.

The record vote gave the party eight of the 100 seats in the Bremen state legislature and raised fears of a possible revival of fascism in some segments of the West German population.

Surf Claims Two Persons

CARMEL (AP) — Abnormally high surf claimed the lives Saturday of two Menlo Park men at Carmel Point beach, and the wife of one of them barely escaped with her life.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clary were walking on the beach with George Joseph Kennedy, 20, when the Clarys were caught by a 20-foot breaker. Kennedy went in after them. Another wave swept Mrs. Clary back up on the beach, but her husband and Kennedy have not been seen since. Mrs. Clary, three months pregnant, was taken to Carmel Community Hospital.

Youth Listed As Runaway

Richard L. Johnson, 16, was listed today as a runaway from his home, 1500 Buchanan Street, Novato, by the Novato police.

He left home about 12:30 p.m., yesterday, his stepmother, Mrs. Lois May Simpson, told police, Richard later phoned officer Ronald Green and said he would not return to his home, but would not tell where he was staying.

He was described as six feet tall, weighing 170 pounds, of heavy build with blue yes and blond hair. He was wearing a green corduroy coat when last seen.

Outlook Good For More Rain

The dampening drizzle in Marin yesterday was the prelude to possibly heavier rains tonight and tomorrow.

The Weather Bureau set odds of a 50 per cent chance of rain tonight and 20 per cent chance tomorrow, with continued cool weather.

Girl Wrecks Stolen Auto

A 13-year-old runaway San Anselmo girl was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall last night by Novato police after she had run a stolen car into a ditch at 195 Los Robles Road, Novato, and then called for help according to Novato police.

The car was owned by Fred P. Butler of 293 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, who had left it for repairs at the Hancock Service Station at 1585 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. He did not konw it was stolen until it was recovered, according to police.

The girl had been reported as missing from her home.

Grudge Against Traffic Signs

Someone with an apparent grudge against road traffic struck in West Marin last weekend.

Sheriff's deputies reported they found six county road signs pulled out of the ground and laid across the west bound land of the road between Nicasio Dam and Point Reyes at 5 a.m. Friday.

Also found were boulders placed in the lane at strategic points on blind hair pin bends.

Is High School Football Worth The Injuries?

Sixteen-year-old Robert Franzi has been immobilized in a hospital bed since he broke his neck in a football game on Sept. 16. His neck brace may be removed at the end of this week, but he won't play fullback any more on this year's Novato High School team.

His fellow Novatan, John Eric Gauthier, faces a lifetime as specator at contact sports. He suffered near-fatal brain damage in a high school football game on Nov. 12 of last year.

They are the latest on the list of Marin high school youths critically injured playing football. Minor injuries are so common that it is rarely a coach can field his complete first string for any game.

AFTER THE INJURY to young Gauthier last year, Dr. Richard W. Walker, the Novato High team physician, declared in disgust:

"High school football is a lethal sport. It's one of the insanities of our age."

This brought on Dr. Walker a barrage of criticism by coaches, players, fans, and even fellow physicians. To say anything against high school football is akin to speaking out against motherhood, the flag, or J. Edgar Hoover.

THE FACT REMAINS, however, that there is a sizable number of healthy young men ruled "4-F" by Selective Service because of high school football injuries.

And, according to statistics prepared by the American Football Coaches Association, 295 youths were killed in high school football in the years 1931-62.

That was 54.7 per cent of the total of 539 football fatalities during those years.

Incidence of fatalities per 100,000 participants during the period averaged 1.55 in high school and 2.54 in college football, according to the coaches' statistics. The college figure was inflated, however, by the heavy toll of 1931, when there were 12.17 deaths per 100,000 college players. In nine of the years since then, there were no deaths in college football; there were never fewer than six in high school.

FOOTBALL COACHES have tried to make the game safer principally in two ways: by rule changes and additional protective equipment. The latter, however — like the "safety features" of automobiles — has a tendency to become self-defeating, as the more heavily armored players become more dangerous human battering rams.

Locally, an attempt to reduce sports injuries and improve their treatment has been made through the annual sports injuries conferences co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal.

Dr. Arnold Nutting, who heads these conferences, says he has statistics showing that there are fewer injuries to boys playing high school football than to the same number of non-playing boys of the same age. "The boy who plays football is safer," he concludes.

Maybe so. But we are reminded of other statistics which show that more people are injured at home than on the highways. And we suspect a set might be worked up to show that young men are safer fighting in Vietnam than driving their girls around in fast cars.

VISITORS FROM ABROAD almost all view their first American football game with some horror at the violence — although they often become fans subsequently.

A less violent sport might serve as well as the keystone of school spirit. And it would still require coaches.

We think the possibility is worth sober consideration and unemotional discussion.

Typing At Midnight

We often write in the solitude of the wee, small hours after midnight. With only the click, click, click of the typewriter, and such assorted sounds as the tooting of a foghorn on the Bay, the screech of an owl, and the bark of a dog. But we make much mistaxe at thi TIME. Maybe we ot not typen tired.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Reds Bossed New Politics Meet

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Senate Internal Security Subcommittee investigators have extensive evidence that the Communists completely dominated and manipulated the recent anti-Vietnam-pro-Arab National Conference for New Politics.

This evidence reveals that the Communists, while adroitly maneuvering loud and tough-talking SNCC and other "black power" militants into the spotlight and the headlies, carefully kept in the background while smoothly and efficiently pulling the wires and callin the turn throughout the five-day Chicago meeting.

Rev. Martin Luther King, Dr. Benjamin Spock and assorted conspicous liberals, leftists, pacifists and other dissidents provided the Communists with a highly serviceable front behind which they ran the NCNP.

MORE THAN 75 Communists Party members participated as delegates, and the party held key places on every committee and panel, from the credentials committee to the resolutions committee. It was the latter that drafed the unanimously adopted series of resolutions which are squarely in line with the current Communist policy line.

Foremost among these pronouncements were — withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam; condemnation of Israel "aggression" against the Arabs; the nationalization of all U.S. industries; abolition of the draft; launching third ("peace") parties in selected states, particularly California, to run candidates for local offices; Negroes to have at least 50 per cent voting power on all NCNP committees and units.

Ironically and characteristically, the Communists not only covertly wielded control, but left it up to the wealthy liberals and other non-party participants to foot the bills.

The Senate investigators have information that the cost of the Chicago conference exceeded $100,000.

CALLING THE ROLL — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee will shortly announce a sweeping investigation of the NCNP; who's really behind it and what they're up to.

In preparation the committee staff is assembling detailed evidence. Significant among the material already in hand is a list of the top Communist leaders who took part in the Chicago affair. They include the following:

Arnold Johnson, public relations director of the U.S. Communist Party who headed the CP delegation to the NCNP; Michael Zagarell, national CP youth director; Gil-Green, New York state organizer; Claude Lightfoot, Illinois state chairman; James West, Illinois organizational secretary; Ishmael Flory, Illinois state committeeman; Roscoe Proctor and Dorothy Healy, California state committee members; Donald Hamerquist, Oregon organizational secretary.

"WHERE THE HELL'S YOUR SCHOOL SPIRIT?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Delinquent Parent Probation Urged

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Due to my weekly commute to Los Angeles I cannot keep abreast of what's happening around these parts 'til I catch up on my reading on my return.

I have been following with keen interest the controversy over the juvenile probation issue, and Mr. Anderson's article in last night's issue (the 28th) prompts me to write you, both as one who is professionally involved in helping to resolve family and personal problems and as a taxpayer who is beginning to rebel at building buildings for programs before they are proved to be validly needed.

Now that the buildings are built I would suggest that the program be centered on the parents. Put them on probation, and educate them to the rights and privileges and responsibilities of good parenthood.

In my practice as marriage, family and child counselor I have found that children do not respect parents who do not respect themselves. How a parent (mother or father) can swear at a child or each other, calling them filthy names (which really reflect on the quality of parental heritage), and then expecting them to be "good kids" and reflect credit on the family name—this is beyond me. I've had youngsters tell me they are only waiting 'til they're old enough or big enough either to leave home or "kill the S-O-B the next time he lays hands on me." I still remember sitting in (at the request of the judge) at the inquiry of a 13-year-old girl who was caught soliciting military personnel for sexual purposes, and when the judge asked her why she did this, her reply was that her Dad had always yelled at her that she had been born with a devil in her and she would always have it.

Having served as president of the Nevada State Mental Health Assn. and the Mental Health Assn. of Anchorage, Alaska, I think I know something about the workings of the human mind and emotions. I commend Judge Gardiner for being realistic in his approach to the problem. I would suggest to him and to the members of the Council and Commission and Board of Supervisors that they get hold of the book, "Delinquency Can Be Stopped," by Loble and Wylie. Judge Lester H. Loble, of Helena, Mont., has decreased juvenile delinquency in his district by 50 per cent while the nation as a whole shows a 50 per cent increase.

It doesn't make easy reading for those "invisible multitudes of dreamy do-gooders who have sought, and found, an opportunity to take over America's juvenile courts on their own terms." He has taken away the secrecy of juvenile court actions and records, and finds that both delinquents and families begin to take matters seriously. He found that delinquents sneered at probation and the attempts of psychoanalysis to give them "insight" to their problems. A few days in solitary confinement seemed to take away some of the extraverted desire for sensations and stimuli.

He bluntly states that juvenile delinquency starts with delinquent parents, or with parents unprepared for parenthood.

"We know that most of the young people who get into serious trouble are the young who live in homes that are already in serious trouble. They are the homes of parents-in-conflict. They are homes of discord, of poverty, alcoholism, infidelity, unemployment, laziness, despair. Or the more general situation known as the broken home." . . . "The breeding ground of most of the world's distresses is the rank atmosphere of a squalid, quarreling home, or jangling parents doing part-time jobs as parents; of unmade beds, ill-prepared food, and fighting."

Many times he puts the juveniles in foster home because he wants to get them out of a defeating and demoralizing home atmisphere. Then he encourages them to stay in school and, where possible, find a parttime job.

He also takes some pretty strong steps when couples file for divorce, requiring them to seek marriage counseling over a 90-day period before continuing the hearing. He reports that 50 per cent of his divorce cases reconciled. Any social worker can tell you what this means in terms of preventing potential juvenile delinquency.

Finally, let me poke a little fun at the cartoon by Paul Miller accompanying Mr. Anderson's article. I think it can be pointed out that, "This many kids can be kept in a 'rehabilitation program' . . . for what a neurotic or psychotic delinquent parent spends on alcoholic and drug abuses."

Marin Has Place In Hippies' Sun

Editor, Independent-Journal:

An excerpt from the hippie press — August's Southern California Oracle:

"Coming issues of the Oracle will take you inside California's rapidly growning Love Community . . . into the communes of Santa Barbara Big Sur, Ben Lomond, Mill Valley and beyond . . . visits with the nobility of rock 'n roll . . . with more acid visionaries. . ."

So it's not your pipe dream if you see more beads, beards, bells and bare feet in Mill Valley and all Marin. Ours is a well-promoted and publicized Mecca for the grass-and-flower children of Southern California. We are high on the itinerary of the Big Trip.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Oct. 2, 1957

The Emporium-Capwell Co. announced that its plans for building a branch in Marin were postponed "for the time being."

Larkspur City Council awarded Robert J. Smiley of San Anselmo a $15,932 contract for remodeling the interior of Larkspur City Hall.

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 2, 1947

Petitions seeking formation of a Novato Municipal Water District, signed by 275 Novato voters, were filed with the Marin County clerk.

The Central California Construction Co. began construction of drive-in theater at the site of the former California Park.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

There is an element in nonsense which may be the portrait of man risen above reason, magnificently amused at the tottering superstructure of coherence. There is an intuition in the sanest of men that reason and truth are merely bricks held in place by the mortar of common consent. How amusing to see the stones come down with a few well-placed jabs of mockery such as John Kendrick Bangs and Ambrose Bierce and Mark Twain knew how to give! — Louis Paul.

The machine is a great moral educator. If a horse or a donkey won't go, men lose their tempers and beat it; if a machine won't go, there is no use beating it. You have to think and try till you find what is wrong. That is real education.—Gilbert Murray.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A newlywed came home with a string of sausage and suggested that his bride prepare them for breakfast. "How do you cook suasages?" asked the bride (a Sarah Lawrence graduate). "Fry them like fish," suggested her husband (a Harvard graduate). The next morning Friend Wife brought them to the table steaming hot, remarking apologetically, "I do hope you enjoy your sausages, dear — but there really wasn't much left of them after I cleaned the insides out."

Two classmates — Princeton '38 — met on a plane. "How's your wife?" asked one. "I'm not married," answered the other. "Not married!" gasped the first one. "What do you do for aggravation?"

Heckling Over Foreign Policy Began With First President

Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles on the ancient but never-ending contest between the president and Congress over how much say each should have in foreign affairs. The contest is being revived by some senators dissatisfied with U.S. policy in Vietnam who seek a stronger Senate voice in foreign affairs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Johnson thinks he has it bad, he should have seen what happened to the first president. George Washington got so fed up with abuse, not for getting the country into a war but for trying to keep it out of one, he said he'd rather be dead.

That was the start of the All-American game of heckling presidents over foreign policy, but few have been hit harder than Johnson for the war in Vietnam. His critics are a mixed lot of doves who want a softer war or none and hawks who want a tougher one.

ONE OF THE MOST critical doves, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, has come up with a plan for clipping Johnson's wings, although he says it isn't meant to. But the resolution the Arkansas Democrat proposed in the Senate speaks for itself.

It would give the Senate a lot more say in foreign affairs than the Constitution provides and, therefore, Johnson less. If the Senate approves the resolution, Johnson can ignore it, and probably will, since it does not have the effect of law. But ignoring it would irritate the critics even more.

While Fulbright's move reflects dissatisfaction with Johnson's role in the dragged-out war in Vietnam, it's just one more ploy in the old and endless struggle between the White House and Congress over which has the right to do what in foreign affairs.

ITS ROOTS are in the Founding Fathers' vagueness. They were muddleheaded, inexperienced and superficial in foreign affairs when they laid down the rules for the new government in the Constitution of 1787.

After their resentments and frustrations with the British royal governors in colonial days, they were bent on separating the powers of the various branches of the new government through checks and balances.

But, while they were almost four months debating everything else, they spent only a small part of three days on future foreign problems and then didn't seem to think any further than treaty-making. This was one of the most loosely drawn sections in the Constitution.

This is about all it said: While only Congress can declare war, the president is commander-in-chief of the armed forces and can make treaties with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, provided two-thirds of the Senators agree. The struggle has been going on ever since over all the things left unsaid.

THE FOUNDERS didn't raise or answer questions like these: Can a president make a decision in foreign affairs without first consulting Congress? Presidents have done so. Can a president send troops into war in a foreign country without a formal declaration of war by Congress, as Johnson did in Vietnam? Other presidents besides Johnson have done so.

Washington was the first to run into the rumpus over questions like those because he was the first president who felt he had to make a foreign decision without consulting Congress. This was in 1793 when France and England went to war and he wanted to keep the young and feeble United States out of it.

Congress was not in session, yet he thought he needed to act fast. But did he have a right to, since the Constitution was silent on such a problem? He took a chance, consulted his cabinet, and announced the United States would stay neutral. The roof fell in.

He was denounced, reviled and ridiculed for doing what some thought, only Congress had a right to do, although the Constitution didn't say the right belonged to Congress, either. Pro-English Americans wanted to line up with the British; pro-French Americans wanted to line up with the French.

JOHNSON HAS BEEN plagued and besieged by anti-war-in-Vietnam demonstrators. Washington got the same treatment from anti-neutrality demonstrators, but worse. Vice President John Adams wrote later that mobs by the thousands stormed through Philadelphia, threatening to drag Washington out of his house and start a new revolution.

It was at this time Washington said he'd rather be dead. But just then a yellow fever epidemic swept Philadelphia and Adams thought later this was the only thing that saved Washington. In the end Congress, a year later, backed up the new president by passing a Neutrality Act.

Playing Politics With Vietnam Certain To Prolong Resistance

WASHINGTON — What can be done to persuade Ho Chi Minh that it is not to his gain to keep the war going because of next year's U.S. elections?

Obviously there is no certain, no easy answer. But it is a question we can't afford to brush aside.

Behind it are two assumptions:

That Hanoi expects the coming presidential campaign to so divide the American people as to gravely weaken our capacity to fight the war.

That a change of administration could lead to a settlement more to Hanoi's liking.

IF THESE TWO assumptions appear valid, then there is every reason why Ho Chi Minh would aim to keep up the war in the hope that events would bear them out.

Thus, the only way to convince Hanoi otherwise is to prove these assumptions invalid.

How?

Much will depend on the Republican presidential nominee and the kind of campaign he conducts. An anti-Vietnam war stance by the Republican party would certainly persuade Hanoi that it ought to keep up the fighting at all costs.

It will also be important for President Johnson to demonstrate that every action he takes with respect to the war and with respect to possible negotiations is without partisan purpose and rests demonstrably on his highest sense of the national interest.

AND THE AMERICAN voter will need to do everything possible to make it clear to the politicans that those who approach the Vietnam war with reckless partisanship will be punished at the polls.

Undoubtedly, it will be tempting for the Republicans, as the party out of office, to play politics with Vietnam. They did it in the early 1950s when some GOP leaders labeled the U.S. defense of South Korea as "Truman's War."

It is to be hoped that a higher sense of responsibility will control Republican policy on Vietnam. There is certainly one powerful reason why it should. If the GOP leaders do not do their part to make clear to Hanoi that postponing negotiations until after the election will not be advantageous to the Communists, there can be only one consequence. It will mean that partisan politics is venturing to sacrifice the lives of American forces in Vietnam by encouraging Hanoi to keep up the war.

Is High School Football Worth The Injuries?

Sixteen-year-old Robert Franzi has been immobilized in a hospital bed since he broke his neck in a football game on Sept. 16. His neck brace may be removed at the end of this week, but he won't play fullback any more on this year's Novato High School team.

His fellow Novatan, John Eric Gauthier, faces a lifetime as specator at contact sports. He suffered near-fatal brain damage in a high school football game on Nov. 12 of last year.

They are the latest on the list of Marin high school youths critically injured playing football. Minor injuries are so common that it is rarely a coach can field his complete first string for any game.

AFTER THE INJURY to young Gauthier last year, Dr. Richard W. Walker, the Novato High team physician, declared in disgust:

"High school football is a lethal sport. It's one of the insanities of our age."

This brought on Dr. Walker a barrage of criticism by coaches, players, fans, and even fellow physicians. To say anything against high school football is akin to speaking out against motherhood, the flag, or J. Edgar Hoover.

THE FACT REMAINS, however, that there is a sizable number of healthy young men ruled "4-F" by Selective Service because of high school football injuries.

And, according to statistics prepared by the American Football Coaches Association, 295 youths were killed in high school football in the years 1931-62.

That was 54.7 per cent of the total of 539 football fatalities during those years.

Incidence of fatalities per 100,000 participants during the period averaged 1.55 in high school and 2.54 in college football, according to the coaches' statistics. The college figure was inflated, however, by the heavy toll of 1931, when there were 12.17 deaths per 100,000 college players. In nine of the years since then, there were no deaths in college football; there were never fewer than six in high school.

FOOTBALL COACHES have tried to make the game safer principally in two ways: by rule changes and additional protective equipment. The latter, however — like the "safety features" of automobiles — has a tendency to become self-defeating, as the more heavily armored players become more dangerous human battering rams.

Locally, an attempt to reduce sports injuries and improve their treatment has been made through the annual sports injuries conferences co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal.

Dr. Arnold Nutting, who heads these conferences, says he has statistics showing that there are fewer injuries to boys playing high school football than to the same number of non-playing boys of the same age. "The boy who plays football is safer," he concludes.

Maybe so. But we are reminded of other statistics which show that more people are injured at home than on the highways. And we suspect a set might be worked up to show that young men are safer fighting in Vietnam than driving their girls around in fast cars.

VISITORS FROM ABROAD almost all view their first American football game with some horror at the violence — although they often become fans subsequently.

A less violent sport might serve as well as the keystone of school spirit. And it would still require coaches.

We think the possibility is worth sober consideration and unemotional discussion.

Reds Bossed New Politics Meet

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Senate Internal Security Subcommittee investigators have extensive evidence that the Communists completely dominated and manipulated the recent anti-Vietnam-pro-Arab National Conference for New Politics.

This evidence reveals that the Communists, while adroitly maneuvering loud and tough-talking SNCC and other "black power" militants into the spotlight and the headlies, carefully kept in the background while smoothly and efficiently pulling the wires and callin the turn throughout the five-day Chicago meeting.

Rev. Martin Luther King, Dr. Benjamin Spock and assorted conspicous liberals, leftists, pacifists and other dissidents provided the Communists with a highly serviceable front behind which they ran the NCNP.

MORE THAN 75 Communists Party members participated as delegates, and the party held key places on every committee and panel, from the credentials committee to the resolutions committee. It was the latter that drafed the unanimously adopted series of resolutions which are squarely in line with the current Communist policy line.

Foremost among these pronouncements were — withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam; condemnation of Israel "aggression" against the Arabs; the nationalization of all U.S. industries; abolition of the draft; launching third ("peace") parties in selected states, particularly California, to run candidates for local offices; Negroes to have at least 50 per cent voting power on all NCNP committees and units.

Ironically and characteristically, the Communists not only covertly wielded control, but left it up to the wealthy liberals and other non-party participants to foot the bills.

The Senate investigators have information that the cost of the Chicago conference exceeded $100,000.

CALLING THE ROLL — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee will shortly announce a sweeping investigation of the NCNP; who's really behind it and what they're up to.

In preparation the committee staff is assembling detailed evidence. Significant among the material already in hand is a list of the top Communist leaders who took part in the Chicago affair. They include the following:

Arnold Johnson, public relations director of the U.S. Communist Party who headed the CP delegation to the NCNP; Michael Zagarell, national CP youth director; Gil-Green, New York state organizer; Claude Lightfoot, Illinois state chairman; James West, Illinois organizational secretary; Ishmael Flory, Illinois state committeeman; Roscoe Proctor and Dorothy Healy, California state committee members; Donald Hamerquist, Oregon organizational secretary.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Delinquent Parent Probation Urged

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Due to my weekly commute to Los Angeles I cannot keep abreast of what's happening around these parts 'til I catch up on my reading on my return.

I have been following with keen interest the controversy over the juvenile probation issue, and Mr. Anderson's article in last night's issue (the 28th) prompts me to write you, both as one who is professionally involved in helping to resolve family and personal problems and as a taxpayer who is beginning to rebel at building buildings for programs before they are proved to be validly needed.

Now that the buildings are built I would suggest that the program be centered on the parents. Put them on probation, and educate them to the rights and privileges and responsibilities of good parenthood.

In my practice as marriage, family and child counselor I have found that children do not respect parents who do not respect themselves. How a parent (mother or father) can swear at a child or each other, calling them filthy names (which really reflect on the quality of parental heritage), and then expecting them to be "good kids" and reflect credit on the family name—this is beyond me. I've had youngsters tell me they are only waiting 'til they're old enough or big enough either to leave home or "kill the S-O-B the next time he lays hands on me." I still remember sitting in (at the request of the judge) at the inquiry of a 13-year-old girl who was caught soliciting military personnel for sexual purposes, and when the judge asked her why she did this, her reply was that her Dad had always yelled at her that she had been born with a devil in her and she would always have it.

Having served as president of the Nevada State Mental Health Assn. and the Mental Health Assn. of Anchorage, Alaska, I think I know something about the workings of the human mind and emotions. I commend Judge Gardiner for being realistic in his approach to the problem. I would suggest to him and to the members of the Council and Commission and Board of Supervisors that they get hold of the book, "Delinquency Can Be Stopped," by Loble and Wylie. Judge Lester H. Loble, of Helena, Mont., has decreased juvenile delinquency in his district by 50 per cent while the nation as a whole shows a 50 per cent increase.

It doesn't make easy reading for those "invisible multitudes of dreamy do-gooders who have sought, and found, an opportunity to take over America's juvenile courts on their own terms." He has taken away the secrecy of juvenile court actions and records, and finds that both delinquents and families begin to take matters seriously. He found that delinquents sneered at probation and the attempts of psychoanalysis to give them "insight" to their problems. A few days in solitary confinement seemed to take away some of the extraverted desire for sensations and stimuli.

He bluntly states that juvenile delinquency starts with delinquent parents, or with parents unprepared for parenthood.

"We know that most of the young people who get into serious trouble are the young who live in homes that are already in serious trouble. They are the homes of parents-in-conflict. They are homes of discord, of poverty, alcoholism, infidelity, unemployment, laziness, despair. Or the more general situation known as the broken home." . . . "The breeding ground of most of the world's distresses is the rank atmosphere of a squalid, quarreling home, or jangling parents doing part-time jobs as parents, of unmade beds, ill-prepared food, and fighting."

Many times he puts the juveniles in foster home because he wants to get them out of a defeating and demoralizing home atmisphere. Then he encourages them to stay in school and, where possible, find a parttime job.

He also takes some pretty strong steps when couples file for divorce, requiring them to seek marriage counseling over a 90-day period before continuing the hearing. He reports that 50 per cent of his divorce cases reconciled. Any social worker can tell you what this means in terms of preventing potential juvenile delinquency.

Finally, let me poke a little fun at the cartoon by Paul Miller accompanying Mr. Anderson's article. I think it can be pointed out that, "This many kids can be kept in a 'rehabilitation program' . . . for what a neurotic or psychotic delinquent parent spends on alcoholic and drug abuses."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

There is an element in nonsense which may be the portrait of man risen above reason, magnificently amused at the tottering superstructure of coherence. There is an intuition in the sanest of men that reason and truth are merely bricks held in place by the mortar of common consent. How amusing to see the stones come down with a few well-placed jabs of mockery such as John Kendrick Bangs and Ambrose Bierce and Mark Twain knew how to give! —Louis Paul.

The machine is a great moral educator. If a horse or a donkey won't go, men lose their tempers and beat it; if a machine won't go, there is no use beating it. You have to think and try till you find what is wrong. That is real education.—Gilbert Murray.

Our Mount Tam Once Sanctum Of Female 'Literary Footnote'

"OUR Mount Tamalpais?", said the man to whom I was speaking.

Yes, Mabel Dodge Luhan, perhaps the last of the great Bohemians, once spent the winter on Mount Tamalpais, working on one of those five volumes of autobiography which documented her splendid egotism for a disinterested posterity. The books, except for "Lorenzo in Taos," the one about D. H. Lawrence, are out of print.

Mabel, from a family of Buffalo bankers, had only one real secret. It was money. She had quite a lot of it. She was a sort of resident monster for more than 40 years in the village of Taos, New Mexico, a place located in a valley of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains which is one of the most beautiful in the world.

SHE BECAME a literary footnote because she induced D. H. Lawrence to go to Taos. Mabel's plan was for Lawrence to give voice to some things she wanted to say about Taos which were beyond her own talents. She, personally, was disappointed, although the world was not, at the beautiful stuff that Lawrence wrote about New Mexico.

The distressing failure to capture Lawrence's soul for her own important purposes was past by the time Mabel wintered on Mount Tamalpais in the '30s.

A young man named Clarence, and his friend, were with Mabel that winter on Mount Tamalpais. Clarence was one of the very minor arty types that Mabel collected and he was having one of his periods of crisis that winter, she related in her memoirs. The crisis went on for some time, but fortunately, Mabel wrote, Clarence's friend was well versed in Jungian psychology. That is, he had read a lot of Jung's books.

The friend, goes the history of that Mount Tamalpais winter, decided that Clarence's trouble was that he was entirely dominated by the Jungian "anima," or female spirit. He was identifying totally with Mabel, who had a very strong "animus," or male spirit. In other words, said the friend, Mabel had become a sort of a father figure to Clarence.

This sounded plausible to Mabel. She and Clarence's friend conducted an abortive Jungian analysis on the poor fellow all winter. He got no better, and in the summer Mabel grew impatient with it and sent him packing.

MABEL SLEEPS in the little cemetery at Taos, where Kit Carson is buried. Ghosts wear nostalgia, and after a lapse of time, it is possible to find her touching, although she surely must not have been to the people whose lives she troubled.

Spud Johnson is a nice, frail old man who lives in Taos. He was the poet Witter Bynner's secretary and was for years an obliging handyman to Mabel. He says that Mabel was working on her "European Experiences" while she was in Marin County, and he later came out to California to type them.

The memoirs tell about villas in Folrence and about Mabel's many uniquely aesthetic experiences in European Solons at the turn of the century. The atmosphere of "European Experiences" is a wierdly exotic blend of Michael Arlen, and Nathanial Hawthorne's "The Marble Faun."

But there are clues to Mabel in them. She was a small, rather dumpy woman who is described by all who knew her as one who wore clothes badly.

"IF I HAD NOT been a little broad for my inches, had been the small type all over, I could have queened it just as well as a tall, imperious woman," she wrote. "But something a little squewgee in proportion always dims one's authority."

She then describes her eventual fate, and why the final tribute to such escapades as the winter on Mount Tamalpais must be a forgiving smile. "We are made powerless by the ludicrous," she observes.

Airlines Out To Lure Wives; Here's Way To Keep Them Home

WASHINGTON — The airlines have a big push on to make wives fly with their husbands. United Airlines keeps singing day and night "Take Me Along," and TWA is really tugging at your conscience by printing full-page advertisements of a lonely brunette beauty with such copy as "Next business trip don't leave your heart at home."

It would seem to me that TWA should have learned its lesson by now. One of their executives told me that many years ago when commercial flying was just getting under TWA was worried about women's fear of planes. So they inaugurated a plan allowing a man to take his wife free with him on a TWA ride anywhere in the country.

The response was excellent, and pretty soon TWA planes were filled with happy men and women holding hands and forgetting their fears together.

As a public relations follow up, TWA sent a letter to one wife a few weeks later, thanking her for flying with the airline and asking her to tell her friends how safe it was.

THIS IS WHERE the whole program backfired. Many of the wives who received the letters had never flown at all. Apparently, their husbands had taken someone else along instead, and so while many mistresses were sold on flying, all the plan did was to get a lot of wives sore at TWA.

The husbands weren't too thrilled about TWA blowing the whistle on them either. So the plan was dropped, and its' taken 40 years for someone to start a similar campaign again.

SINCE I TRAVEL a lot, I always encourage my wife to come with me, and I really don't need the airlines to push me.

About a week before I'm ready to leave on a trip, I say to her, "Why don't you come with me to Bladesville? I've got a big motel room, and they say it's very nice even during the pollen season."

"What are you going to do there?"

"I'll be working all day, but I'll be free around 9 o'clock at night and then we can go to dinner in the motel."

"But what will I do all day long?"

"I think there's a Sears, Roebuck store in town so you could go shopping, and you could write letters in the lobby and maybe they have a movie you could go to in the afternoon."

"It sounds very exciting."

"I'D ALSO LIKE YOU to meet an old friend of mine from school days. He and his wife are really wonderful people. They have six kids and maybe you could keep his wife company while she's taking care of them."

"I can hardly wait to pack," she said.

"Take your boots with you. The roads are very muddy now during the monsoon season."

"Monsoons?"

"Oh, I forgot to tell you; Bladesville is right in the middle of the monsoon belt. A friend got stuck there for five days once because the airport was under water."

"If it's all the same to you, I'd rather not go."

"Why not? You should get out. Besides, the worst that can happen while you're away is the kids could wreck the house."

"No, thank you."

"That's a shame. I hate to leave my heart at home."

For the 19th consecutive year, we've replaced the bug. With another bug.

To those of you who were expecting something fancier, sorry. (The '68 looks just like the '67 crossed out above.)

To those of you who now own a Volkswagen, congratulations. (Once again your model has not gone out of style.)

To those of you who've been thinking about buying a new one, nice thinking.

The front seats are more comfortable. (They have built-in headrests.)

The windshield wipers are much more efficient. (They're larger.)

Even the shifting is easier. (We put a decal on the window to show you how.)

All in all, we feel that the 36 nice little changes on this year's Volkswagen make it the best ever.

Our Mount Tam Once Sanctum Of Female 'Literary Footnote'

"OUR Mount Tamalpais?", said the man to whom I was speaking.

Yes, Mabel Dodge Luhan, perhaps the last of the great Bohemians, once spent the winter on Mount Tamalpais, working on one of those five volumes of autobiography which documented her splendid egotism for a disinterested posterity. The books, except for "Lorenzo in Taos," the one about D. H. Lawrence, are out of print.

Mabel, from a family of Buffalo bankers, had only one real secret. It was money. She had quite a lot of it. She was a sort of resident monster for more than 40 years in the village of Taos, New Mexico, a place located in a valley of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains which is one of the most beautiful in the world.

SHE BECAME a literary footnote because she induced D. H. Lawrence to go to Taos. Mabel's plan was for Lawrence to give voice to some things she wanted to say about Taos which were beyond her own talents. She, personally, was disappointed, although the world was not, at the beautiful stuff that Lawrence wrote about New Mexico.

The distressing failure to capture Lawrence's soul for her own important purposes was past by the time Mabel wintered on Mount Tamalpais in the '30s.

A young man named Clarence, and his friend, were with Mabel that winter on Mount Tamalpais. Clarence was one of the very minor arty types that Mabel collected and he was having one of his periods of crisis that winter, she related in her memoirs. The crisis went on for some time, but fortunately, Mabel wrote, Clarence's friend was well versed in Jungian psychology. That is, he had read a lot of Jung's books.

The friend, goes the history of that Mount Tamalpais winter, decided that Clarence's trouble was that he was entirely dominated by the Jungian "anima," or female spirit. He was identifying totally with Mabel, who had a very strong "animus," or male spirit. In other words, said the friend, Mabel had become a sort of a father figure to Clarence.

This sounded plausible to Mabel. She and Clarence's friend conducted an abortive Jungian analysis on the poor fellow all winter. He got no better, and in the summer Mabel grew impatient with it and sent him packing.

MABEL SLEEPS in the little cemetery at Taos, where Kit Carson is buried. Ghosts wear nostalgia, and after a lapse of time, it is possible to find her touching, although she surely must not have been to the people whose lives she troubled.

Spud Johnson is a nice, frail old man who lives in Taos. He was the poet Witter Bynner's secretary and was for years an obliging handyman to Mabel. He says that Mabel was working on her "European Experiences" while she was in Marin County, and he later came out to California to type them.

The memoirs tell about villas in Folrence and about Mabel's many uniquely aesthetic experiences in European Solons at the turn of the century. The atmosphere of "European Experiences" is a wierdly exotic blend of Michael Arlen, and Nathanial Hawthorne's "The Marble Faun."

But there are clues to Mabel mistresses were sold on flying, all the plan did was to get a lot in them. She was a small, rather dumpy woman who is described by all who knew her as one who wore clothes badly.

"IF I HAD NOT been a little broad for my inches, had been the small type all over, I could have queened it just as well as a tall, imperious woman," she wrote. "But something a little squewgee in proportion always dims one's authority."

She then describes her eventual fate, and why the final tribute to such escapades as the winter on Mount Tamalpais must be a forgiving smile. "We are made powerless by the ludicrous," she observes.

Airlines Out To Lure Wives; Here's Way To Keep Them Home

WASHINGTON — The airlines have a big push on to make wives fly with their husbands. United Airlines keeps singing day and night "Take Me Along," and TWA is really tugging at your conscience by printing full-page advertisements of a lonely brunette beauty with such copy as "Next business trip don't leave your heart at home."

It would seem to me that TWA should have learned its lesson by now. One of their executives told me that many years ago when commercial flying was just getting under TWA was worried about women's fear of planes. So they inaugurated a plan allowing a man to take his wife free with him on a TWA ride anywhere in the country.

The response was excellent, and pretty soon TWA planes were filled with happy men and women holding hands and forgetting their fears together.

As a public relations follow up, TWA sent a letter to one wife a few weeks later, thanking her for flying with the airline and asking her to tell her friends how safe it was.

THIS IS WHERE the whole program backfired. Many of the wives who received the letters had never flown at all. Apparently, their husbands had taken someone else along instead, and so while many of wives sore at TWA.

The husbands weren't too thrilled about TWA blowing the whistle on them either. So the plan was dropped, and its' taken 40 years for someone to start a similar campaign again.

SINCE I TRAVEL a lot, I always encourage my wife to come with me, and I really don't need the airlines to push me.

About a week before I'm ready to leave on a trip, I say to her, "Why don't you come with me to Bladesville? I've got a big motel room, and they say it's very nice even during the pollen season."

"What are you going to do there?"

"I'll be working all day, but I'll be free around 9 o'clock at night and then we can go to dinner in the motel."

"But what will I do all day long?"

"I think there's a Sears, Roebuck store in town so you could go shopping, and you could write letters in the lobby and maybe they have a movie you could go to in the afternoon."

"It sounds very exciting."

"I'D ALSO LIKE YOU to meet an old friend of mine from school days. He and his wife are really wonderful people. They have six kids and maybe you could keep his wife company while she's taking care of them."

"I can hardly wait to pack," she said.

"Take your boots with you. The roads are very muddy now during the monsoon season."

"Monsoons?"

"Oh, I forgot to tell you; Bladesville is right in the middle of the monsoon belt. A friend got stuck there for five days once because the airport was under water."

"If it's all the same to you, I'd rather not go."

"Why not? You should get out. Besides, the worst that can happen while you're away is the kids could wreck the house."

"No, thank you."

"That's a shame. I hate to leave my heart at home."

It's been replaced.

For the 19th consecutive year, we've replaced the bug. With another bug.

To those of you who were expecting something fancier, sorry. (The '68 looks just like the '67 crossed out above.)

To those of you who now own a Volkswagen, congratulations. (Once again your model has not gone out of style.)

To those of you who've been thinking about buying a new one, nice thinking.

The front seats are more comfortable. (They have built-in headrests.)

The windshield wipers are much more efficient. (They're larger.)

Even the shifting is easier. (We put a decal on the window to show you how.)

All in all, we feel that the 36 nice little changes on this year's Volkswagen make it the best ever.

Of course, every year we build the "perfect" Volkswagen.

And then we do a masterful job of proving ourselves wrong.

Political Tax-Dodge Probe Being Expanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has widened its investigation of possible tax-dodging by political contributions to include the campaigns of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, it was learned Friday.

The IRS also is investigation the Percy-Douglas senatorial race in Illinois last year; President Johnson's 1964 campaign in California; and former Gov. Edmund G. Pat Brown's race in the state in 1962.

The IRS would neither confirm nor deny the reports.

But sources said the IRS was checking whether businessmen who wrote off campaign contributions as "business deductions" for tax purposes violated the law. Tax laws prohibit these practices.

Possible illegal deductions uncovered in California led IRS Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen to order spot checks elsewhere to see if contributions were being disguised as business expenses.

The New York inquiry provides possible examples of the chief methods used to camouflage contributions. Among them are:

A businessman writing a check payable to a third party — a public relations or advertising agency, or a law firm — for which he receives a bill "for services rendered." The money then goes either to pay off the third party for campaign work or into a candidate's war chest. The businessman, using the bill, claims the contribution as a business expense and deducts it from his tax liability.

A businessman pays a firm working for a candidate directly, as if the firm were doing work for him. Variations of this scheme could mean the businessman paid for a candidate's printing, advertising or transportation.

The Justice Department's tax prosecutors are cooperating with the IRS. But a spokesman said Friday its only involvement thus far was in backing an IRS effort to get certain records for its California case.

The case, pending in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles, centers around IRS efforts to obtain the books of the Howfield public relations firm for 1962 through 1964. The company is opposing the effort.

Birch Racism Film Brings Resignations By Sponsors

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Showings of a John Birch Society film that links the U.S. civil rights movement to a worldwide Communist conspiracy have reportedly been a major cause of resignations from the group sponsoring the showings.

The Los Angeles Times said yesterday several members of the Santa Monica Bay Area Committee to Support Your Local Police have resigned because of "improper political overtones" in the film.

The 75 - minute "Anarchy U.S.A." is "decidedly the most powerful tool we've ever had," said Rex Westerfield, western director of public relations for the Birch Society.

Andre J. Bernadin of West Los Angeles said he resigned from the Support Your Local Police Committee after viewing the film and encouraged his friends to do the same, the Times said.

"It showed how the Communists take over," he said, "but the political overtones I didn't like." Bernadin, one of eight persons listed as officials or sponsors of the committee, said he was told when he joined that the committee was nonpolitical.

Richard Anderson, a West Los Angeles police detective who is chairman of the committee, confirmed there had been many resignations, mostly verbal.

The film is marked by photography of the mutilated victims of revolutionary activity in China, Cuba and Algeria and shots of Negro civil rights rallies in America.

The Times said the film concludes:

"We have offered only a brief survey of the material that is available to support the charge that the civil rights movement, as we know it today, is simply part of a worldwide movement, organized and directed by Communists, to enslave all mankind."

Jim Milliken, Birch Society coordinator for Orange County, said the film has been shown about 100 times in the county.

Cove Sewage Plant Sought

Directors of Tiburon Sanitary District plan to negotiate with Simon Furman today on the construction of a small treatment plant in his Paradise Cove development.

Secretary Edward P. Ward said that Furman has not built the plant as agreed. The district is responsible for providing sanitary service for the area, which it has annexed.

Ward said the Cove will include 60 homes when completely developed.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. at the treatment plant, Paradise Drive and Mar West Street.

Mother Of Nixon Dies; Rites Set

WHITTIER (UPI) — Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Milhous Nixon, mother of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, will be held tomorrow at East Whittier Friends Church with burial at Rose Hill Memorial Park here.

Mrs. Nixon, a member of the Society of Friends (Quakers) and a resident of Southern California since 1897, died Saturday at a convalescent hospital at the age of 82. She had been in failing health for the past two years.

The former vice president, now a corporation lawyer, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. After he was told of his mother's death, the 1960 Republican presidential candidate canceled speaking engagements scheduled next week in Oregon.

Two other sons, F. Donald Nixon, 52, a marketing consultant living in Newport Beach, and Edward C. Nixon, an Everett, Wash. business executive, also were expected to attend the services.

Mrs. Nixon avoided the publicity which surrounded her famous son but did not hesitate to support him when he was involved in controversy.

She denounced charges that a secret "Nixon fund" existed to help support activities of her son in the 1952 campaign for the vice presidency.

She was born March 7, 1885, at Butler, Ind., and her family moved to this suburb of Los Angeles two years later. Francis Anthony Nixon, her husband of 48 years, died in 1956 at the age of 77.

Farm Burning Regulations To Be Viewed

Directors of the Bay Area Pollution Control District on Wednesday will consider a regulation for controlled agricultural burning in the Bay Area.

A hearing on the measure is scheduled for 11 a.m. at 1480 Mission Street, San Francisco.

Under a proposal approved by the district advisory council. the district would have to be notified of burning of stubble and of burning to clear irrigation ditches and canals.

Fruit and nut tree prunings would be permitted to be burned between 9:30 a.m. until sunset if weather and the moisture content of the prunings meet district regulations.

Old Feud Ends In Gun Battle

SAN JOSE (AP) — Two Hells Angels were wounded last night in a gun fight with several members of another motorcycle club, police said.

Fred Flores, 22, and William J. Solano, 23, of San Jose were taken to Kaiser Hospital, where their conditions were termed fair.

Officers said the animosity between the Hells Angels and "The Hustlers" began May 22 with a fist fight at Alum Rock Park.

Later, the leader of the Hustlers, Angel Martinez, claimed shots were fired into his home at 149 East Hedding Street, four blocks from the San Jose Civic Center.

Officers quoted Martinez as saying:

Last night two cars loaded with Hells Angels arrived outside his house.

Martinez gathered five children and had a friend drive them away.

He sent his wife next door. Then he and Paul Rangel armed themselves with a .32 caliber automatic, a .38 caliber revolver and a tire iron and went out on the front porch.

Shooting started and two advancing Hells Angels dropped.

Their friends picked them up, withdrew to the cars and drove away.

Police booked the wounded men and two other Hells Angels, James Patrick Teague, 20 and Augustine Cruz Jiminiez, 20, on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Martinez, 30, and Rangel, 25, were also arrested on the same charges.

University Fee Delay Is Asked

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—The California branch of the American Association of University Women has asked the state Board of Regents to postpone a decision about university fees until after the results of a legislative study are known.

The Joint Committee on Higher Education has been instructed by the legislature to study public financing of education, including tuition charges.

More than 500 women, representing some 28,000 members, attended the weekend AAUW meeting.

Peace Torch In Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — A peace torch marathon march, which began in San Francisco and will end in Washington to dramatize opposition to the Vietnam war, stopped in this mid-Missouri community today before continuing its trek to St. Louis.

The peace marchers were scheduled to greet comedian Dick Gregory at the municipal airport here before the civil rights leader addresses a gathering at the University of Missouri.

Gregory has endorsed the group's nation -wide march in opposition to U.S. involvement in Vietnam, a spokesman for the group said.

Prof. David Wurfel of the University of Missouri, told the marchers and other students last night that the recent elections in South Vietnam were "a farce." He was in Vietnam as an independent observer during the elections.

The torch was lighted at the Hiroshima memorial to honor the victims of the atomic bomb blast at the close of World War II. It will be returned to the Japanese after the march to Washington.

Teens Attack Policeman During Robbery Quizzing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A police sergeant was treated last night for injuries suffered when he was attacked by a gang of juveniles as he talked to a robbery victim in South Los Angeles.

Sgt. Gordon Douglas, 37, said he was in the back seat of his patrol car questioning the robbery victim when a youth approached the car. Douglas said he got out of the car, but was shoved back by the youth, who "appeared to be high on either alcohol or narcotics."

During the commotion a crowd of about 50 persons formed. Douglas said when his assailant fled, he broke through the crowd and managed to recapture him.

However, as he brought the suspect back to the car, the officer said he was knocked to the ground and attacked by four or five other youths who kicked and struck him.

The assailants also took his service revolver, flashlight, baton and handcuffs before fleeing.

Poet Hears Charge Of Brandishing Gun

Ralph Lee Spiro, Marin poet, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court Friday on a misdemeanor complaint of brandishing a .410 caliber shotgun.

He pleaded innocent and trial will be scheduled at 1:30 p.m. next Friday. Spiro, of 227 Center Street, San Rafael, is accused of pointing the weapon at a neighbor, Santa Tringali of 231 Center Street, last Sunday.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A police sergeant was treated last night for injuries suffered when he was attacked by a gang of juveniles as he talked to a robbery victim in South Los Angeles.

Sgt. Gordon Douglas, 37, said he was in the back seat of his patrol car questioning the robbery victim when a youth approached the car. Douglas said he got out of the car, but was shoved back by the youth, who "appeared to be high on either alcohol or narcotics."

During the commotion a crowd of about 50 persons formed. Douglas said when his assailant fled, he broke through the crowd and managed to recapture him.

However, as he brought the suspect back to the car, the officer said he was knocked to the ground and attacked by four or five other youths who kicked and struck him.

The assailants also took his service revolver, flashlight, baton and handcuffs before fleeing.

Poet Hears Charge Of Brandishing Gun

Ralph Lee Spiro, Marin poet, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court Friday on a misdemeanor complaint of brandishing a .410 caliber shotgun.

He pleaded innocent and trial will be scheduled at 1:30 p.m. next Friday. Spiro, of 227 Center Street, San Rafael, is accused of pointing the weapon at a neighbor, Santa Tringali of 231 Center Street, last Sunday.

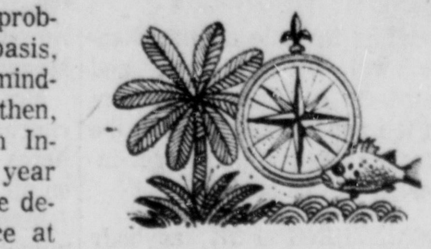
Women Need To Be Global-Minded

By BETTY FROST

"Today when all our problems are on a global basis, women should be global-minded," said Miss Mary Pothen, distinguished visitor from India, who is beginning a year as visiting professor in the department of social science at Dominican College, San Rafael.



"The two big issues in the world today, peace and population, are issues in which the incluence of women should be felt," the professor continued. She favors a change of emphasis in the education of women, suggesting that their training should be human-relation oriented, since "women have more on the feeling side," and that besides studies of the humanities, they could profitably emphasize studies in anthropology, psychology, and sociology. "Just think," she said, "a woman's education means a whole family educated."

For Miss Pothen these are not idle word-pebbles tossed into the conversational pond. Her teaching experience in her native country goes back over 30 years, and includes the founding of two colleges for women. In 1946 she founded St. Joseph's Training College, the only women's college in the state of Andhra, and in 1962 The SIET Women's College in Madras. She was president of the College in Madras, which under her guidance, became a cultural center for the community. In 1965 she came to the United States for advanced study.

THIS IS THE Indian woman's second extended stay in the United States. From 1953-1956 she was a Fullbright visiting lecturer and research scholar in social science at St. Mary's College for Women at Notre Dame in Indiana and at the University of Wisconsin. A year ago she was invited to be director of counseling service and visiting lecturer in psychology at Marymount College, Arlington, Va. Prior to that she had studied at Stanford University where she received an M. A. degree in guidance and counseling.

She attended a summer seminar at University of California at Los Angeles in 1966, and a summer seminar for junior college administrators at the University of California this past summer. She has completed all of the qualifications for her Ph.D except the thesis, which is in preparation and will be submitted to the University of Wisconsin.

"The feasibility of the Junior College Idea for India" is the subject of her thesis. She wanted to stay in California to observe the influence of the junior college system in this state. She feels that it is interesting because it offers both a "terminal as well as a transfer" opportunity. At Berkeley she heard favorable comment about Dominican College's education program, and was invited to become associated with the faculty there. She is now teaching courses on population, economics and Western civilization.

CONCERN FOR the college girls who drop out of college in India after a year or two led Mary Pothen to her great interest in the junior college idea. "The junior college is an American innovation," she said. "It has a great message for manpower development. People all over the world are interested in California's college system. Japan, the Philippines and Great Britain are copying the state's college system and I hope to interest India in the junior college concept."

She received her degree in history and her teaching degree at the University of Madras. When she wanted to become a teacher she ran into great family opposition. For generations her family had been landowners and merchants. She was the first of her family to take up a professional career. Once the barriers were broken, others followed. Professor Pothen is especially proud of one niece who is a medical doctor.

The friendly woman, who talks rapidly and with warmth, has fond memories of her family which included five sisters and three brothers. "I am homesick very often," she confessed, "but I have such satisfaction in my work. I go home on holidays and feel close to my family."

"I HAVE BEEN in education since I was 19," she said. "What things can be done through the influence of teachers! A woman from New Delhi influenced me, and perhaps I can influence others. Today there is so much of accumulated knowledge, so much research. Talented people are spending their time writing. In the United States a professor must 'publish or perish'. The contact of teachers with students is becoming less and less. Mere knowledge is not enough. We need direct contact with the students, and closer relationships. I am interested in the youth of a country. Not only this country, or my country, but all over the world."

Other honors have been accorded the woman educator. She received the international award from the American Association of University Women for 1965-66. She delivered the keynote address at the 14th International Conference of the World Union of Catholic Women in Rome in 1957. She has published a number of works on education; she is listed in Who's Who in Indian Education. She is a member of important boards in Indian, in the United States and internationally. She has traveled not only in this country, but in Europe, Africa and throughout Asia.

But the sincere accolade that would have pleased her most came on the Dominican College campus last week. A chance remark to a student suggesting that once the girls got acquainted with the sari-clad educator who had only recently arrived in San Rafael, she would be a popular professor received this prompt reply—

"She already is."

WHAT THINGS CAN BE DONE through the influence of teachers! exclaims Miss Mary Pothen, visiting social science professor at Dominican College. Ann Porter Jones Becomes A Bride

Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael was the setting when Charles Edward Tooth of San Francisco claimed Ann Porter Jones as his bride on Saturday.

Ann, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Jones Jr. of San Anselmo, wore a white dupioni silk gown styled in an A-line for the 2 o'clock rite.

Her maid of honor, Kathleen Carlson of San Francisco, formerly of Marin, wore an Empire gown of link chiffon, as did bridesmaid Judith Woods of San Francisco.

Donill Murray of San Lorenzo acted as best man and Charles M. Jones of Los Angeles, brother of the bride, ushered. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Meadow Club. The couple then departed for a honeymoon trip to Jamaica and Mexico. They will make their home in San Francisco.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tooth of San Francisco and the brother of Mrs. John Barrajo, Mrs. Raymond Chaussuer and Pamela Tooth.

Ann's brother Dr. Ottiwell Jones III resides in Spokane. Her schools include Sarah Dix Hamlin, Lowell High School and University of California where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega. She is a medical technologist at Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Charles was graduated from San Francisco State College and is employed with the San Francisco Police Dept.

New Guild Officer Designs Costumes

Elected to the presidency of St. Sylvester's Women's Guild is Mrs. Harold Vincent Molloy of San Rafael.

A relative newcomer to Marin, Melrose Molloy has been active in the organization for three years, and also belongs to the Peacock Gap Garden Club and Welcome Wagon.

MRS. HAROLD V. MOLLOY

The wife of an insurance executive, Mrs. Molloy is the mother of three sons—Terrence, 27, Dennis, 26, and Gregory, 18. Her interests and hobbies include bridge, dancing, gardening, costume designing, reading and golf. She is past president of the West Orange Women's Club of New Jersey, and a co-founder and past president of the Links and Lace Dance Club in Cincinnati.

St. Sylvester's Women's Guild carries on a varied program, including a monthly religious ceremony for peace, a round robin bridge and canasta series, a fashion show, dinner dance, rummage sale, and a penny auction luncheon. All the activities are for the benefit of the parish and its members. The organization is open to both Catholic and non-Catholic women interested in parish welfare.

Mrs. Molloy attended Columbia University, Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, and is currently taking some courses at College of Marin.

Newlywed Erskine Bufanos Feted At Garden Reception

A reception was held Saturday afternoon in the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bourne of Sleepy Hollow in honor of recently married Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Scott Bufano (Gracie Grove).

The nuptials took place at the Episcopal Chapel in Eugene, Ore. on Sept. 8. Mr. and Mrs David Whitbread of Eugene were matron of honor and best man for the couple, who will live in Sausalito.

Mr. Bufano is the son of Mrs. Jack Lewin of Mill Valley and of sculptor Beniamo Bufano of San Francisco.

St. Raphael's Setting For Donahoo-Summers Wedding

St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael was the setting on Saturday for the wedding of Celia Theresa Summers, daughter of Mrs. Hugh M. Wilcox of San Rafael, and the late John Summers, to Frank Warren Donahoo of Santa Rosa.

The Rev. John C. Petroni of St. Joseph's Church in San Francisco, formerly of St. Raphael's, officiated at the 2 p.m. nuptials.

Teri, as the bride is called, wore an imported lace gown fashioned in an A-line as she walked to the altar on the arm of her stepfather, Hugh M. Wilcox.

Mrs. Robert Ward of Novato wore an Empire gown in yellow crepe as matron of honor. Bridesmaids Mesdames Robert Anderson of San Francisco and Ernest E. Cota of Burlingame wore similar dresses.

Linda Nunes of Sonoma was flower girl and Erik Summers of San Francisco was ringbearer.

Keith Donahoo of Carrollton, Tex., was best man for his brother and ushering were the bride's brother, Stephen Summers of San Francisco, John Kelly of Novato, Ernest Holt of Oakland and Martin Van Drunen of San Rafael.

Following a reception in the garden court at Maple Lawn in San Rafael, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Monterey Peninsula and Catalina Island.

Teri is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and attended Dominican College and Mexico City College. She is employed as manager of a San Rafael drive-in.

Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Donahoo of Santa Rosa and the brother of Mesdames Robert Wence of Salinas and Albert Nunes of Sonoma. He is employed with Bruning Co. of San Francisco.

COMMUNICATION

The Verbal Key To Problems

By SHARON NELTON
Detroit Free Press Staff Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Help your child be a good communicator. His life may depend on it.

The way he learns to communicate as a child determines how he'll solve problems when he's grown up, says Dr. Randall P. Harrison, a specialist in communications at Michigan State University.

"Communication is the key to how your child gets information about the world, how he responds to the world and how people respond to him," he explains.

Communication is also an important key to mental health.

"We know how to take a perfectly normal person and in a couple of days, make him a psychotic," he says. The method is "sensory deprivation," or cutting a person off from all channels of communication.

Communications breakdown in the family can lead to severe emotional problems — a schozophrenic child, perhaps.

ON A LARGER SCALE, it can lead to a schizophrenic city—at a price of human life, intense heartbreak and hundreds of millions of dollars in riot damage.

There's nothing simple about communication. After a conversation with Dr. Harrison, you're amazed that human beings communicate — or pass information from one to the other—as well as they do.

Researchers estimate that at least two-thirds of our person-to-person communication is wordless: A tightening of the jaw, a stern look, a nervous clenching of the fist, the clothes you are wearing.

As many as a dozen different "code systems" have been isolated—systems in which a stimulus, such as a sound, can be translated in different meanings.

The words we use make up the best known code: linguistics. Others codes use gestures, tastes and smells.

There are all kinds of customs and taboos for each code system, depending upon the culture.

THE UNIQUE THING about the U.S. — it many sub-cultures — is the very thing that leads to disaster. Different cultures have different patterns of communication. So do the different small groups within a broader culture.

Your child's earliest communication experience can "set" him for life. The most basic things he learns as a baby can identify him with your sub-culture and set him apart from another.

"Infants the world around babble alike—at first. But very soon, before they speak, they start making the distinctive sounds of their language," Dr. Harrison observes.

In fact, the infant "over-learns" such sounds. He learns so thoughly that he not only has difficulty pronouncing certain basic sounds of other languages. He also has difficulty hearing them.

"What happens in the linguistic area happens across the board in other code areas," Harrison says. And by marking a person for life, this learning can separate one religious group from another, the white Southerner from the white Northerner, the upper middle class from a low-income sub-group, the Bostonian from the Chicagoan.

Sometimes a child can overcome these overlearned basics by successfully learning to use the code system of another sub-group. He may move up in the world because he has crashed important communications barriers.

Parents help their children learn to communicate by being good communicators. One way to begin is by using communications to reward a child when you're sure he's got your message. You've asked him to pick up after himself and he does it.

A smile, a pat on the shoulder or a hug can communicate to him that he understood you.

It's part of what Dr. Harrison calls learning by "trial and success" rather than by trial and error.

"My hunch is that a youngster does certain things and gets reinforced for them," he says. "If he tries something and it is successful, he keeps it in his repertoire."

How can parents be better communicators? And how can you avoid communications breakdown in your own family? Here are some suggestions:

Be sure you are using symbols to mean the same thing. You and your child are talking about a "cat." You've agreed on the symbol, but you still may be talking about something different. You've got a pure Siamese in mind. He's thinking of an alley cat. You're not communicating.

REMEMBER THAT "meanings are in people." Fire will mean pain to the child who has been badly burned. But it will mean love and companionship to the child who remembers roasting marshmallows with his family at the fireplace.

People interpret things according to their experience. This means you must be aware of how you interpret things and take care to understand how other people interpret them.

"Non-verbal cues are frequently more valid than a verbal statement," says Harrison. "They're harder to fake." They are also harder to control.

Verbal communication is easier. You can analyze it as you go along and go back and correct yourself. But you can't retract a blush or unslap a child slapped in anger.

Your child's earliest communication experiences are non-verbal, Harrison says, and they influence his personality way he uses words.

A baby's early tactile setting —his world of touch, heat, cold, pressure, caress, snuggle or slap slap—is extremely important. It provides him with his first cues about what his world is like. And you can't fool him easily. You can even transmit your tensions to your baby through touch, Harrison says.

RESEARCH SHOWS that a lower class child lives in a tactile environment quite different from that of the middle-class child.

"He's more free to be aggressive," Harrison explains. In the middle class, overt aggression is strongly suppressed. These parents tend to deal with their children verbally. A middle-class youngster may grow up with a knack for using words. He learned early that he could solve problems by reading or talking.

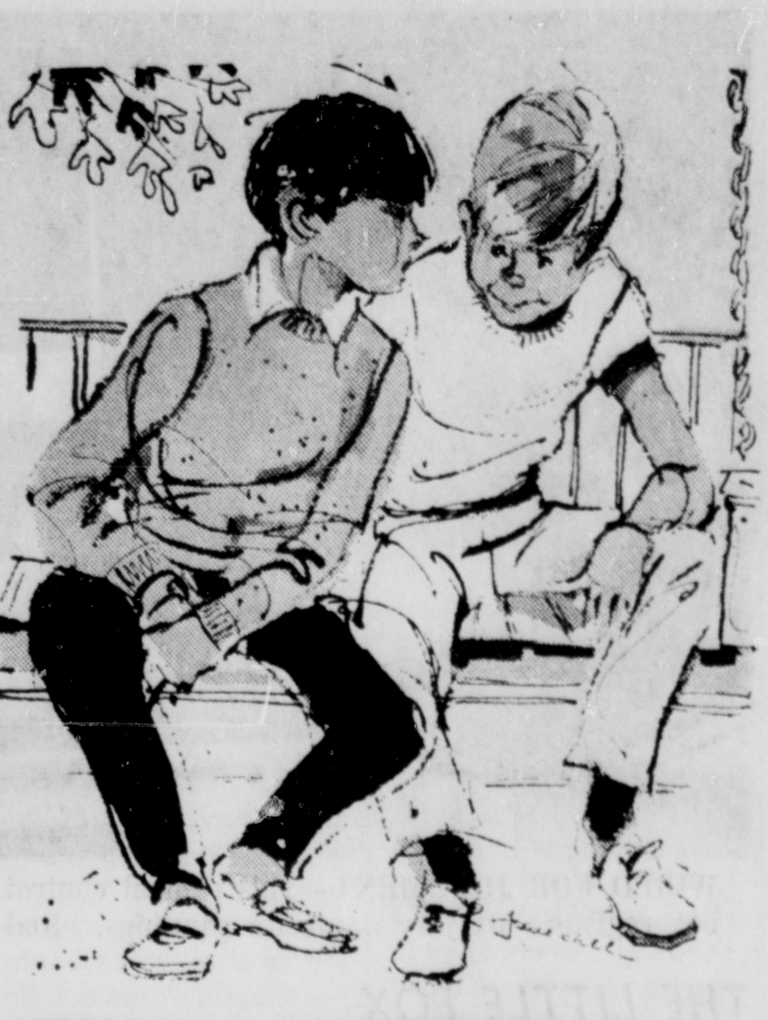
But his lower-class peer might have learned to solve problems by using his fists or becoming skilled at sports. He might even grow up to be suspicious of words.

As adults, these two would have little going for them in the way of communuication . . . unless they learned something about each other's codes.

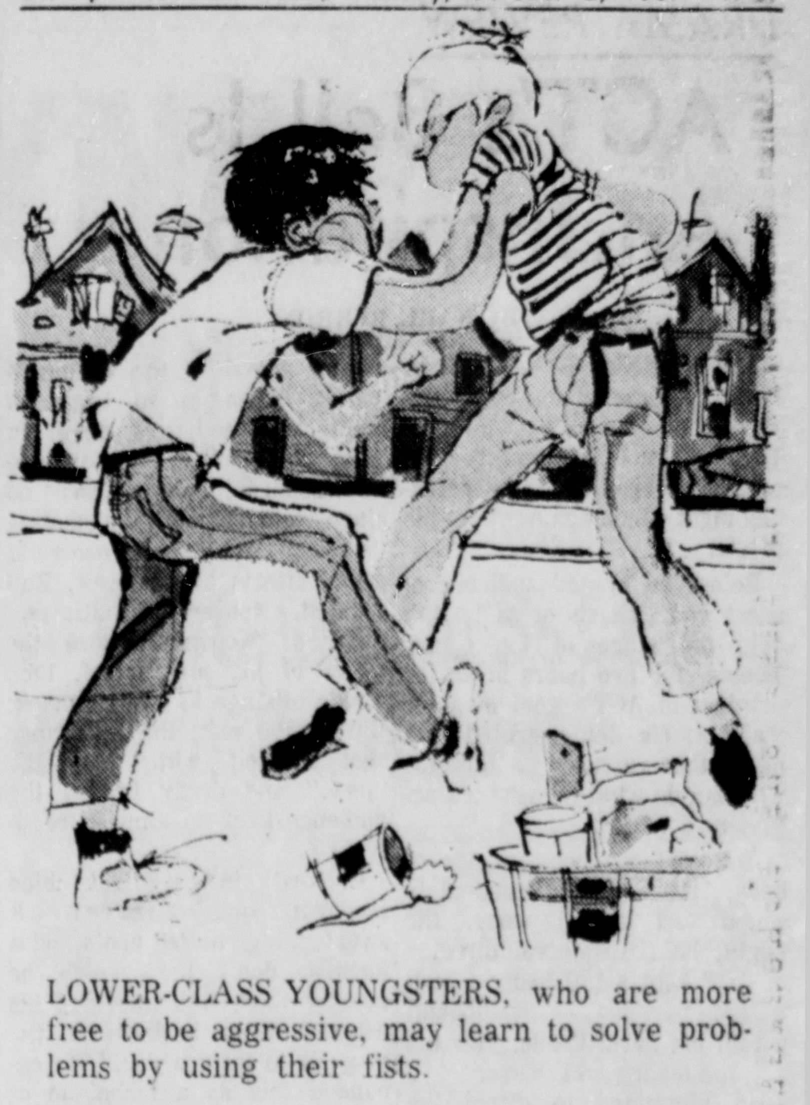
Perhaps someday, Harrison says, we may know enough about how a child learns so that we can help him use all the code systems well.

In the wake of Detroit's riot experience, Dr. Harrison urges parents to develop a dialogue with people out-side their own sub-culture.

And when you make this effort, your actions will communuicate something to your children. Perhaps that you are brave enough to work at breaking down the barriers that separate people and set them one against the other.



MIDDLE-CLASS YOUNGSTERS, whose parents tend to deal with them verbally, may learn early that they can solve problems by talking.



LOWER-CLASS YOUNGSTERS, who are more free to be aggressive, may learn to solve problems by using their fists.

Couple Visit Shop's Foster Children On Oriental Tour

Visiting some of the children supported by the Sausalito Salvage Shop was the most interesting and touching experience for Mrs. Harry Mohler, who has just returned to Sausalito with her husband from a tour of the Orient.

A volunteer worker in the shop, she said that there is great need for more donations of saleable items so that the shop can continue and increase its help to unfortunate children.

The Mohlers left Aug. 14 and visited Tokyo and the northern islands of Hokkaido and Sabo before going to Korea, where they were met by a case worker for the Foster Parent Plan and the mother of a 17-year-old boy, Kim Young Hwa, whom they visited at a knitting mill, in which he is an apprentice. The $15 a month the shop sends him helps the whole family, Mrs. Mohler said.

The Mohlers also visited in Korea the family of 14-year-old Park Kae Hyang, who is also sponsored by the Salvage Shop.

After going to Okinawa and Formosa the Mohlers went to Hong Kong, where they visited another child receiving assistance from the shop, eight-year-old Law Wai Ha. The family of five had just been moved by the government into a 12 x 14 foor one-room apartment without water. It was at least better than living in the streets, Mrs. Mohler said.

There are over 7,000 orphans in Korea and another 7,000 in Hong Kong being cared for by the Foster Parents plan, she noted.

The Sausalito Salvage Shop also helps to support three orphans in Saigon, one in Colombia, South America, and one in Greece. None of the governments are welfare-minded, she said, so that the only assistance available is charity.

The Mohlers returned home via Anchorage, Alaska.

Scheiner-Pascoe Wedding Performed In Terra Linda

Craig Palm Scheiner of Mill Valley claimed Betty Normoyle Pascoe of San Rafael as his bride at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin in Terra Linda Saturday morning.

Betty wore a street length ivory crochet cage over an antique peau de soie dress. Her sister, Kathy Pascoe of San Rafael was the only attendant. Her dress was yellow crepe in Empire style.

Brent Scheiner was his brother's best man.

A reception was given afterward at the church. The couple will make their home in Kentfield.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Pascoe of San Rafael and the sister of Kathy, Gerry, Ed and Danny Pascoe, all of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Larrieu of Healdsburg are her grandparents.

The bridegroom is the son of Paul T. Scheiner of Tiburon and the late Leila Scheiner, and he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Palm of San Francisco. Craig is employed at KTVU television in Oakland.

Class In Antiques To Begin Tomorrow

A class in American country antiques will begin at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Howard W. Chamberlain in Novato. The class will last for two hours each week and will continue for 10 weeks.

Mrs. Chamberlain is a member of the faculty of the adult evening school at Novato High where she has taught antiques for the past year.

Church Club Meeting Set

The monthly luncheon of the Mill Valley Community Church Club will start at noon instead of the usual 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday in the parish hall.

The program will be a talk on "Mohammadan Religion" by the Rev. Peter Jansen, pastor of the United Church of Christ in Sebastopol, who has been director of youth and other camps.

Key to a boy's dead end.

Your car keys.
Hanging there in your unlocked car.
An open invitation to a joyride.
(76% of stolen cars were left unlocked.
About half also had ignition keys in them.) Very tempting in a young boy's moment of weakness. And very dangerous. Stolen cars have 200 times more accidents. That's one dead end. And car theft is often the first offense that later turns a boy into a full-time criminal.
That's the other dead end.

Don't help a good boy go bad.
Lock your car. Take your keys.

'Real' Flower Child Says Hippies Turn-Off, Blossom Folks Tune-In

DEAR HELEN:

I was greatly amused by the 15-year-old "Flower Child (Hippie)" who was so determined to let you know how ignorant you were about drugs.

She is the ignorant one. First of all, Flower People and Hippies are not the same, though a few characteristics are similar.

Flower Children are those who think love, flowers, nature and God are beautiful, but who appreciate them without the use of drugs. In fact they are opposed to drug usage, which automatically distinguishes them from Hippies. Also, they recognize that though the war in Vietnam is wrong it is essential to see it through.

Hippies tune out of life with their drugs and dreaming. Flower Children reach out to life and want to make it better through involvement and love.

Please print this letter as a means of informing these frightened parents that there are plenty of us crazy, fun-loving, somewhat kooky teens who do not use drugs and will eventually grow up to be mature, loving adults. We do not want to be pushed into wearing shoes or deprived of wearing our hair or clothes differently, but we cannot be judged as Hippie turn-offs when we are actually Flower Children tune-ins. We will be able to handle the world when our time comes, maybe better than before, because we'll understand more about how people feel — and we'll really care!—A REAL FLOWER CHILD

DEAR FLOWER CHILD:

From all over the country I've had letters from you "Real Flower Children" and I think you're great' May be your tribe increase'—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't know which disturbs me more: people who condemn Hippies without knowing the scene, or the little 15-year-olds who claim love and dope are the answers to everything. I resent the former, but the latter frighten me. Teenie-boppers aren't old enough to know what they want out of life.

At 21, I am, and I've chosen for the Hippie life. I made the scene three years ago when we were called Beatniks, and the little kids stayed home where they belonged.

Let me tell these babies —it's a hard life. It's work, because if you don't work you starve, unless someone is kind enough to put you up and then you feel guilty about taking their bread. You need an education or skill. I go to U.C. at Berkeley and it's a struggle. Maybe you think being a Hippie is a big adventure, but the fun part now will be old stuff after a while. Being stared at intrigues you at first, makes you feel different and interesting, but sometimes you really have to stiffen yourself against disapproving eyes and whispered sneers. You ask — why have I hung on so long? It's the benefits: not material things, but the spiritual happiness. Whatever your bag is: liberalism, peace, or just living your life your way, you know you are contributing something toward bettering the world and you are fulfilling yourself. That makes up for the hardships. That's the beautiful part.

But, little kid, if you're not ready for it, don't try it, and if you're still in high school, you aren't ready! A lot of older people aren't either. It's hard to go back to conventionality once you've seen our side, even if you want to.

The foolish ones take too much drugs and dope. That's not groovy. Drugs don't help you to be creative. It just seems that way until you come down. You can have spiritual experiences without them. Did you ever get high just on happiness and joy of living? It sounds corny, but it's the best you'll ever get — better than LSD, which is dangerous! LSD alters chromosomes. It can put you off your rocker permanently.

My friends and I are convinced about the kids. We don't want them. We Hippies can't communicate with them. Helen, tell them to please go home!—US '69

Professional Auctioneer To Conduct Sausalito Sale

A real auction, not the hybrid "silent" or "Dutch" variety or even a bazaar or rummage sale is scheduled for Friday through Sunday at Sausalito's Star of the Sea Church.

Conducted by professional auctioneer Terence Heavey, a parish member, the event is a repeat of last year's successful auction. Hours on Friday and Saturday will be 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday hours will be from 1 p.m. until everything is sold.

Wednesday and Thursday preceding the sale all merchandise will be displayed and numbered so that purchasers can tell approximately when the items in which they are interested will be sold.

SOMETHING FOR anybody and everybody, from fine arts to tools, furniture to toys, practically anything except clothing will be on the block.

Chairman Mrs. John F. Churchill will have as co-chairmen Mrs. Peter Fugina and Mr. Eugene Plocki. Other chairmen are Mesdames George Kowski, John Alexander, Elmo Maggiora and John Sutthoff.

Mrs. Andre Rouzire will be in charge of a boutique of small items at fixed prices to be sold on all five evenings.

Many people have contributed valuable articles, including much new merchandise from stores and services from local businesses. Included are original oil paintings and watercolors and even wind-chimes made from stained glass from the St. Mary's Cathedral destroyed by fire several years ago in San Francisco.

NOT A CANNIBAL stew pot, but a Japanese ceramic smoker-barbecue is one of the items to be sold Oct. 6, 7, and 8 at Sausalito's Star of the Sea Church auction. Shown are, from left, Mesdames John C. Alexander, publicity chairman; John F. Churchill, general chairman; and Terence Heavey, wife of the professional auctioneer who will conduct the annual event.

Linda Sue Mead Exchanges Vows With Dale M. Berg

Linda Sue Mead exchanged nuptial vows with Dale Mervin Berg last evening at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael in a double ring rite.

She donned a gown of white chiffon with jeweled bodice and floor length skirt. Her sister, Mrs. Robert Leveroni of Novato, was matron of honor and Mrs. Michael Brown of San Rafael was maid of honor.

The attendants wore apricot crepe dresses.

Alan Berg, the bridegroom's brother, was best man and ushers were Larrie R. Mead of Fairfax, brother of the bride, and Robert Leveroni.

A reception was held afterward at Marin Country Club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Mead of Novato, the bride was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended College of Marin.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Demuelle of San Rafael are parents of the bridegroom, who attended Terra Linda High School. A warrant officer with the Army, he has just returned from Vietnam, where he was a helicopter pilot. Kathy Demuelle is his sister and Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Bettencourt of Petaluma are his grandparents.

Chairman Mrs. John F. Churchill will have as co-chairmen Mrs. Peter Fugina and Mr. Eugene Plocki. Other chairmen are Mesdames George Kowski, John Alexander, Elmo Maggiora and John Sutthoff.

Mrs. Andre Rouzire will be in charge of a boutique of small items at fixed prices to be sold on all five evenings.

Many people have contributed valuable articles, including much new merchandise from stores and services from local businesses. Included are original oil paintings and watercolors and even wind-chimes made from stained glass from the St. Mary's Cathedral destroyed by fire several years ago in San Francisco.

NOT A CANNIBAL stew pot, but a Japanese ceramic smoker-barbecue is one of the items to be sold Oct. 6, 7, and 8 at Sausalito's Star of the Sea Church auction. Shown are, from left, Mesdames John C. Alexander, publicity chairman; John F. Churchill, general chairman; and Terence Heavey, wife of the professional auctioneer who will conduct the annual event. (Alexander photo)

Linda Sue Mead Exchanges Vows With Dale M. Berg

Linda Sue Mead exchanged nuptial vows with Dale Mervin Berg last evening at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael in a double ring rite.

She donned a gown of white chiffon with jeweled bodice and floor length skirt. Her sister, Mrs. Robert Leveroni of Novato, was matron of honor and Mrs. Michael Brown of San Rafael was maid of honor.

The attendants wore apricot crepe dresses.

Alan Berg, the bridegroom's brother, was best man and ushers were Larrie R. Mead of Fairfax, brother of the bride, and Robert Leveroni.

A reception was held afterward at Marin Country Club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Mead of Novato, the bride was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended College of Marin.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Demuelle of San Rafael are parents of the bridegroom, who attended Terra Linda High School. A warrant officer with the Army, he has just returned from Vietnam, where he was a helicopter pilot. Kathy Demuelle is his sister and Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Bettencourt of Petaluma are his grandparents.

COMMUNICATION

The Verbal Key To Problems

By SHARON NELTON
Detroit Free Press Staff Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Help your child be a good communicator. His life may depend on it.

The way he learns to communicate as a child determines how he'll solve problems when he's grown up, says Dr. Randall P. Harrison, a specialist in communications at Michigan State University.

"Communication is the key to how your child gets information about the world, how he responds to the world and how people respond to him," he explains.

Communication is also an important key to mental health.

"We know how to take a perfectly normal person and in a couple of days, make him a psychotic," he says. The method is "sensory deprivation," or cutting a person off from all channels of communication.

Communications breakdown in the family can lead to severe emotional problems — a schozophrenic child, perhaps.

ON A LARGER SCALE, it can lead to a schizophrenic city—at a price of human life, intense heartbreak and hundreds of millions of dollars in riot damage.

There's nothing simple about communication. After a conversation with Dr. Harrison, you're amazed that human beings communicate — or pass information from one to the other—as well as they do.

Researchers estimate that at least two-thirds of our person-to-person communication is wordless: A tightening of the jaw, a stern look, a nervous clenching of the fist, the clothes you are wearing.

As many as a dozen different "code systems" have been isolated—systems in which a stimulus, such as a sound, can be translated in different meanings.

The words we use make up the best known code: linguistics. Others codes use gestures, tastes and smells.

There are all kinds of customs and taboos for each code system, depending upon the culture.

THE UNIQUE THING about the U.S. — it many subcultures — is the very thing that leads to disaster. Different cultures have different patterns of communication. So do the different small groups within a broader culture.

Your child's earliest communication experience can "set" him for life. The most basic things he learns as a baby can identify him with your sub-culture and set him apart from another.

"Infants the world around babble alike—at first. But very soon, before they speak, they start making the distinctive sounds of their language," Dr. Harrison observes.

In fact, the infant "overlearns" such sounds. He learns so thoughly that he not only has difficulty pronouncing certain basic sounds of other languages. He also has difficulty hearing them.

"What happens in the linguistic area happens across the board in other code areas," Harrison says. And by marking a person for life, this learning can separate one religious group from another, the white Southerner from the white Northerner, the upper middle class from a low-income sub-group, the Bostonian from the Chicagoan.

Sometimes a child can overcome these overlearned basics by successfully learning to use the code system of another sub-group. He may move up in the world because he has crashed important communications barriers.

Parents help their children learn to communicate by being good communicators. One way to begin is by using communications to reward a child when you're sure he's got your message. You've asked him to pick up after himself and he does it.

A smile, a pat on the shoulder or a hug can communicate to him that he understood you.

It's part of what Dr. Harrison calls learning by "trial and success" rather than by trial and error.

"My hunch is that a youngster does certain things and gets reinforced for them," he says. "If he tries something and it is successful, he keeps it in his repertoire."

How can parents be better communicators? And how can you avoid communications breakdown in your own family? Here are some suggestions:

Be sure you are using symbols to mean the same thing. You and your child are talking about a "cat." You've agreed on the symbol, but you still may be talking about something different. You've got a pure Siamese in mind. He's thinking of an alley cat. You're not communicating.

REMEMBER THAT "meanings are in people." Fire will mean pain to the child who has been badly burned. But it will mean love and companionship to the child who remembers roasting marshmallows with his family at the fireplace.

People interpret things according to their experience. This means you must be aware of how you interpret things and take care to understand how other people interpret them.

"Non-verbal cues are frequently more valid than a verbal statement," says Harrison. "They're harder to fake." They are also harder to control.

Verbal communication is easier. You can analyze it as you go along and go back and correct yourself. But you can't retract a blush or unslap a child slapped in anger.

Your child's earliest communication experiences are non-verbal, Harrison says, and they influence his personality way he uses words.

A baby's early tactile setting—his world of touch, heat, cold, pressure, caress, snuggle or slap slap—is extremely important. It provides him with his first cues about what his world is like. And you can't fool him easily. You can even transmit your tensions to your baby through touch, Harrison says.

RESEARCH SHOWS that a lower class child lives in a tactile environment quite different from that of the middle-class child.

"He's more free to be aggressive," Harrison explains. In the middle class, overt aggression is strongly suppressed. These parents tend to deal with their children verbally. A middle-class youngster may grow up with a knack for using words. He learned early that he could solve problems by reading or talking.

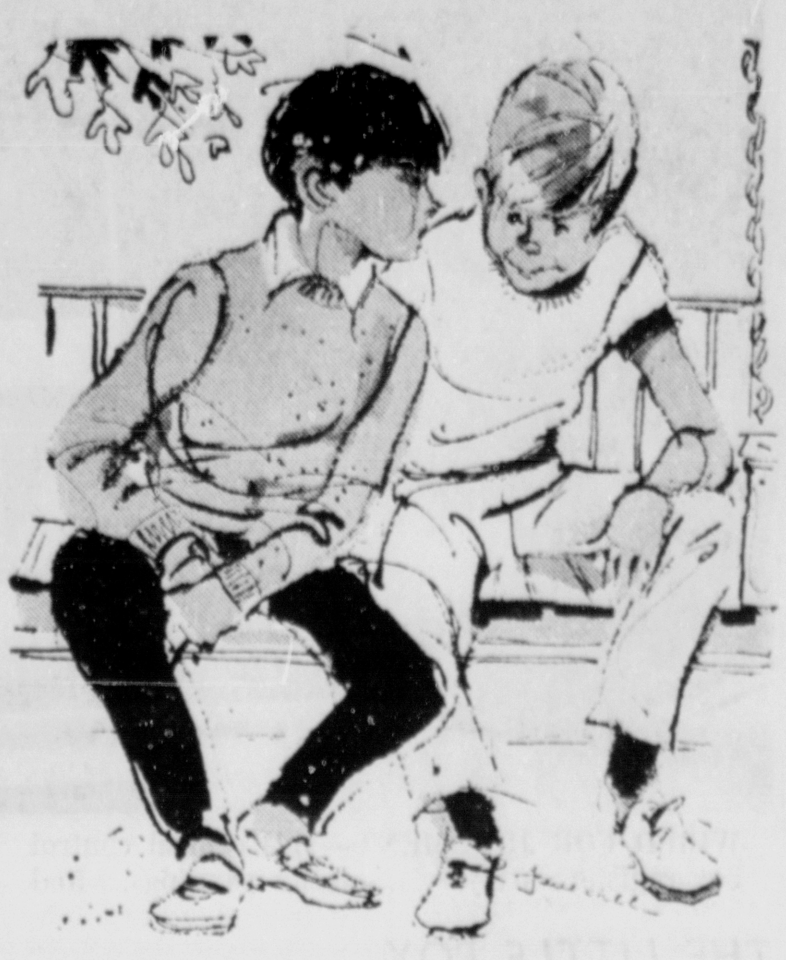
But his lower-class peer might have learned to solve problems by using his fists or becoming skilled at sports. He might even grow up to be suspicious of words.

As adults, these two would have little going for them in the way of communuication . . . unless they learned something about each other's codes.

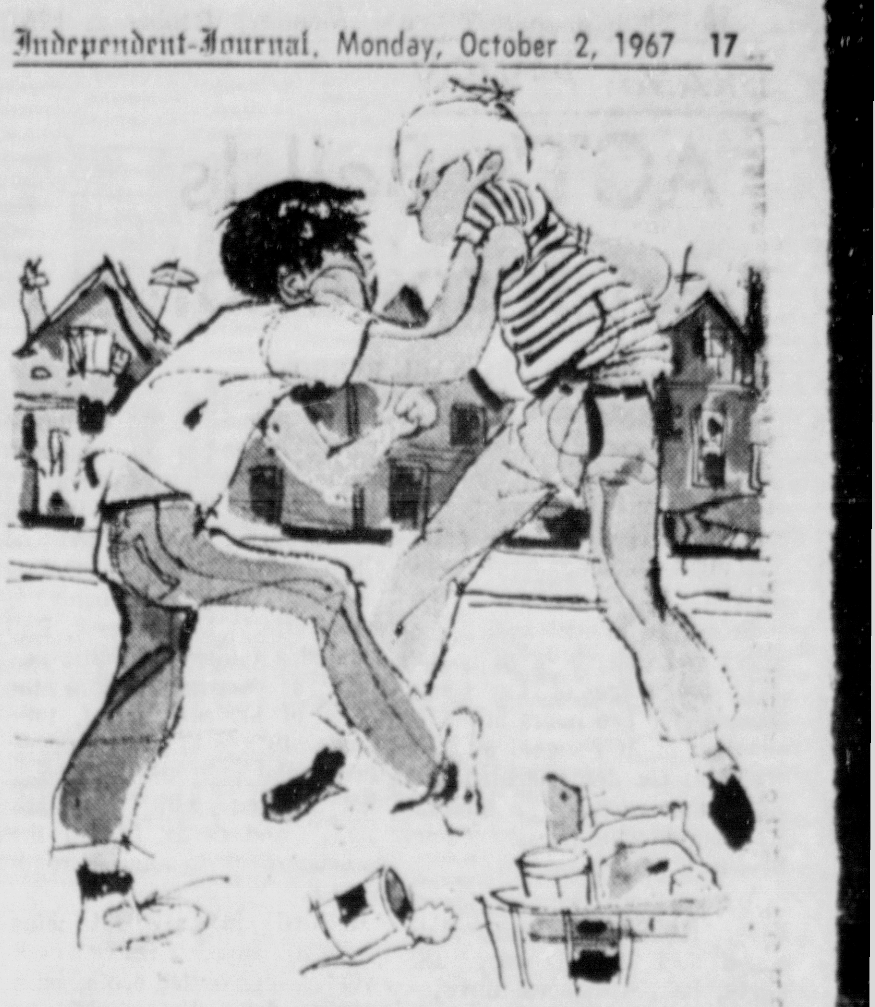
Perhaps someday, Harrison says, we may know enough about how a child learns so that we can help him use all the code systems well.

In the wake of Detroit's riot experience, Dr. Harrison urges parents to develop a dialogue with people out-side their own sub-culture.

And when you make this effort, your actions will communicate something to your children. Perhaps that you are brave enough to work at breaking down the barriers that separate people and set them one against the other.



MIDDLE-CLASS YOUNGSTERS, whose parents tend to deal with them verbally, may learn early that they can solve problems by talking.



LOWER-CLASS YOUNGSTERS, who are more free to be aggressive, may learn to solve problems by using their fists.

Couple Visit Shop's Foster Children On Oriental Tour

Visiting some of the children supported by the Sausalito Salvage Shop was the most interesting and touching experience for Mrs. Harry Mohler, who has just returned to Sausalito with her husband from a tour of the Orient.

A volunteer worker in the shop, she said that there is great need for more donations of saleable items so that the shop can continue and increase its help to unfortunate children.

The Mohlers left Aug. 14 and visited Tokyo and the northern islands of Hokkaido and Sabo before going to Korea, where they were met by a case worker for the Foster Parent Plan and the mother of a 17-year-old boy, Kim Young Hwa, whom they visited at a knitting mill, in which he is an apprentice. The $15 a month the shop sends him helps the whole family, Mrs. Mohler said.

The Mohlers also visited in Korea the family of 14-year-old Park Kae Hyang, who is also sponsored by the Salvage Shop.

After going to Okinawa and Formosa the Mohlers went to Hong Kong, where they visited another child receiving assistance from the shop, eight-year-old Law Wai Ha. The family of five had just been moved by the government into a 12 x 14 foor one-room apartment without water. It was at least better than living in the streets, Mrs. Mohler said.

There are over 7,000 orphans in Korea and another 7,000 in Hong Kong being cared for by the Foster Parents plan, she noted.

The Sausalito Salvage Shop also helps to support three orphans in Saigon, one in Colombia, South America, and one in Greece. None of the governments are welfare-minded, she said, so that the only assistance available is charity.

The Mohlers returned home via Anchorage, Alaska.

Scheiner-Pascoe Wedding Performed In Terra Linda

Craig Palm Scheiner of Mill Valley claimed Betty Normoyle Pascoe of San Rafael as his bride at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin in Terra Linda Saturday morning.

Betty wore a street length ivory crochet cage over an antique peau de soie dress. Her sister, Kathy Pascoe of San Rafael was the only attendant. Her dress was yellow crepe in Empire style.

Brent Scheiner was his brother's best man.

A reception was given afterward at the church. The couple will make their home in Kentfield.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Pascoe of San Rafael and the sister of Kathy, Gerry, Ed and Danny Pascoe, all of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Larrieu of Healdsburg are her grandparents.

The bridegroom is the son of Paul T. Scheiner of Tiburon and the late Leila Scheiner, and he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Palm of San Francisco. Craig is employed at KTVU television in Oakland.

Class In Antiques To Begin Tomorrow

A class in American country antiques will begin at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Howard W. Chamberlain in Novato. The class will last for two hours each week and will continue for 10 weeks.

Mrs. Chamberlain is a member of the faculty of the adult evening school at Novato High where she has taught antiques for the past year.

Novato Women To Hear Psychiatrist

Dr. William Lamars Jr. will be guest speaker at the Novato Junior Women's Club meeting at 8 p.m., tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Alan Chisholm.

Dr. Lamars, clinical psychiatrist on the staff at Ross Hospital, recently spoke in Novato on LSD, drug addiction and its effects. Also included in his talks are marital problems, teen-age pregnancies and a newly-developed program for fostering children under therapeutic treatment.

Church Club Meeting Set

The monthly luncheon of the Mill Valley Community Church Club will start at noon instead of the usual 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday in the parish hall.

The program will be a talk on "Mohammadan Religion" by the Rev. Peter Jansen, pastor of the United Church of Christ in Sebastopol, who has been director of youth and other camps.

Yoga Course Set For Men, Women

An eight-week course for beginners in the art of Yoga will be offered by the Parks and Recreation Department on Tuesdays and Thursdays in San Rafael.

Classes will be conducted Tuesdays at San Rafael High School Mat Room and Thursdays at Terra Linda High School Dance Room. Participants may register at the first class. The instructor will be Jan Kohloff.

Eastern Star Night

Bethel 246 of the International Order of Job's Daughters of Larkspur will hold Mason and Eastern Star night Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple in Larkspur, with honored queen Lynn Satmary presiding. Mrs. Muriel Jockish and Mr. Richard Frakes are guardian and associate guardian. Chairman and co-chairman of hospitality are Eileen Scott and Beth Hauert.

General, Life Insurance Classes To Be Held At Bank

The Insurance Women of Marin have instituted classes in general and life insurance at the Bank of America. A casualty insurance class will be taught by J. M. Scheibert of the Educational Institute of San Francisco on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The life insurance course will be taught by Robert L. Sherman, C.L.U. of the sales and training institute of an insurance securities firm, on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Classes are open to men and women engaged in the general and life insurance fields, whether they be in sales work or the staffs of insurance companies.

DRAMA REVIEW

ACT's Ball Is An Inspiration

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — William Ball, charismatic founder of the American Conservatory Theater, and master of the calculated risk, took one Saturday night which again proves his mastery.

Before an invited audience of press and Friends of ACT, Ball held the stage of the Geary Theater for two hours in an explantion of ACT's goal in actor training. He demonstrated that he is that rarity — a director who can do what he asks his actors to do.

If a virtuoso performance of body movement, inarticulate sound and actual voice, the slight, balding general director of ACT kept a full house — admitted partisan — spellbound within his basic thesis, "Do the act, the feeling will follow."

He attempted to dispel the myth that actors work upon divine inspiration, using the parallel of a surgeon approaching his craft as most actors do. The hilarious operation ended with the surgeon hastily sewing up the incision and saying "I have no feeling for it today!"

His fine comedic sense, combined with an almost puppet-like oversimplification of body movement, kept a steady succession of laughs rising. (At least one of his young leading men should be made to realize that this exaggeration cannot be used in actual performance.)

Satiric ad libs ranginf from bank presidents to mayors, from John Wayne to the Ford Foundation, added to the evening's humor. Even in so tragic a scene as the hero's death in "The Sea Gull," Ball avoided mawkishness, which has no place in his format. Illustrating "sonics," that is, non-vical sound effects by an actor, Ball created a tensely dramatic moment as Konstantin tore the pages of his manuscript, then strode offstage to shoot himself. But at the exit, the performer shot himself with a child's "pow," and deftly flipped the audience back to amused reality.

Dressed in a light blue business suit, turtleneck sweater, high-heeled boots and a Spanish don's hat, which he quickly shed, Ball informed his listeners "Our business on the stage is to torture you." He expanded this as a technique of always leaving the audience on the edge of its seat, and proved his point by disappearing in the middle of a sentence, and re-appearing in the side aisle almost a minute later, while the house waited eagerly for the final words.

"Acting Up," which included delightful impersonations of Dame Edith Evans, W. C. Fields and John Gielgud, will be presented to the public on Dec. 15 and Jan. 5, 12, and 26. Each performance will be different. Proceeds will benefit the Conservatory's Associate Scholarship Fund for young people.

For the general public, Ball will need to see himself as he sees his actors, hone the edges of his show, eliminate repetitious material and generally quicken the pace. Then his demonstration of "connotations" or "non-verbal ways of communication" should indeed provide an evening of theatrical delight, and an insight into the regular productions of ACT., which begins Oct. 31 with Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

Auditorium Suggestions Due Tuesday

A report on bids for construction of the Marin County Civic Center auditorium will be made at tomorrow's meeting of the board of supervisors at Civic Center.

County Administrator Alan Bruce will make recommendations to try to solve a dilemma over last week's excessive bids. The report is due at 3:30 p.m. The meeting begins at 9 a.m.

At 10:30 a.m., a hearing will be held into formation of a county service area for police services in unincorporated areas. Discussion of two resolutions is scheduled for 11:55 a.m. to prohibit parking on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Laurel Grove and at Stetson and Terraces avenues, Kentfield.

The afternoon session will begin at 2:15 p.m. with a report on a possible liaison committee formed with industrial representatives. This will be followed by a report from Public Works Director Donald R. Frost on a request from Sausalito for landscaping along Bridgeway this year and installation of traffic control some time in the future.

Huge Gate At Quentin Art Show

San Quentin Prison's 13th annual arts and crafts show, featuring the work of inmate artists, was a record breaker at the gate and at the cash register Saturday.

The sales at the show totaled $28,679, according to George W. Sumner, officer of the day. "There was another $2,000 in sales at the store out front," Sumner reported.

More than 1,200 works were exhibited at the show, and the crowd was estimated at more than 15,000.

Best of show ribbons were awarded to Jack Neathery for a still like oil painting and to Charles Turvill in the handicraft division for his free form jewelry.

THE LITTLE BOX

How A Jury Selects An Art Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

The jurying of an art show has an aura that's suspicious to many and mysterious at best. Never the less, entries just get larger, wall space remains constant and jurying remains a necessary system.

The who, how and why of what does finally end up on the wall is a fascinating process, a good example of which took place Saturday during the Marin Society of Artists' judging for its 40th annual show, which opens next weekend, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The scene, was the main gallery where some 300 paintings rested in thick stacks around the room and dozens more lined the walls. The ones face-out had been chosen at random to familiarize the jury with the overall entry, for although MSA shows are usually juried by a rotating panel elected from the membership, the annual is the one show where an outside jury is used.

The invited panel for painting and sculpture — Ralph DuCasse, chairman of fine arts at Mills College; Paul Mills, curator of the Oakland Art Museum; Francis Woodcock, artist and lecturer; Charles Griffin Farr, artist, and Leonard Stanley, professor of art at San Jose State — had browsed freely but without discussion and now they were seated before an empty spotlighted easel getting final instructions.

A group of "carriers" waited nearby while, behind the jury, the clerking staff sat at a table at the center of which rested a long black box studded with red and green lights.

JURY SYSTEM

The box, or "machine," invented by the late Fred Koch and built for MSA by Koch and Gene Abbett, is the hub of MSA jury procedure. And it's private too.

Each juror has a cylinder wired to it with a red button for "reject" and a green one for "accept" but the wires are scrambled so that neither jurors nor clerks reading the vote can tell who cast which one.

As one of these jurors put it, "I couldn't even tell when the others were voting." Though another added, "I could tell when you did because you squeaked."

The majority rules and a clerk announces the count such as, "Three red, two green, reject."

NO DISCUSSION

The jury was also told, "We ask that there be no discussion during voting. If you disagree with the vote you may challenge it. The work will then be put aside and brought back later for discussion and a revote. Each of you has five challenges. Also, should you change your mind after voting, simply press both buttons. The machine will be cleared and the vote taken over."

The machine was tested and the work began. Dozens of paintings were carried to the easel by the always silent and expressionless carriers. Some were accepted, but more, many more, went the less glorious route. The staff saw their own works come and go but they never missed a beat or even winced at least never when a juror could see.

Even during the breaks the talk with jurors was general, a lot of it about the machine. For most it had been a new experience and they liked it.

Meanwhile, in the building wing, weaving, ceramics, jewelry and other crafts were being judged by a "walk-around jury" composed of Dr. Robert Fritz, Professor of Art, San Jose State and Byron Wilson, Professor, Arts and Crafts College, Oakland. They did jury verbally, but privately.

THE COUNTDOWN

After lunch only painting and sculpture awards remained. The jury asked that work under consideration be taken outside and a carrier was asked to remove a certain painting from the wall. "That one?" he asked blandly. "Yes, please." And he carted it to that never-never land where awards are made and returned, poker-faced as ever in spite of the fact that the painting was his own.

Discreetly, two "uninvolved" attendants took over from there, popping in and out wordlessly and inscrutibly like nurses through the waiting room of a maternity ward. Finally, through a series of ballots the awards were made.

Perhaps the greatest insight into the whole procedure came in the simple scene that followed. The jury was told informally, "Meet some of your winners." The winners were people thay had worked with all day and yet they looked shocked. Their first words were, "Which ones were yours?"

When you think it over, how meaningful could it be for an artist to be accepted for any reason other than his work's merit? Only then can it be sweet to be among the chosen. For those who aren't, well — another day, another jury and they can honestly say it's still only five men's opinions.

Tough Training

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — During a record-breaking seven-mile swim down Sydney Harbor, former Olympian Linda McGill was timed at 34 strokes with each arm every minute, or 5,610 strokes for the gruelling 2 hour, 46 minutes swim, part of Linda's training for an English Channel attempt. The girl ploughed down the Harbor surrounded by skin divers who formed a protective shield around her against shark attack.

MUSIC REVIEW

Pianist Displays Fine Spanish Style

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Pianist Amparo Iturbi's scintillating performance of Granados and Chopin works were the principal gems in the "Music Showcase" yesterday afternoon in the Cushing Memorial Theater on Mount Tamalpais.

The third program in the four Sunday afternoon series of the Atheneum was one to delight lovers of classical music.

Not flamboyant like her brother Jose, Amparo does not, however, lack brilliance. Particularly suited to her Spanish temperament were the works of Granados, for whom she has a special feeling. Her best work was in "The Lady and The Nightingale" and "Flattery" from the Goyescas, piano pieces inspired by the paintings and tapestries of Goya.

Miss Iturbi's opening number, Chopin's "Andante Spianato and Polonais Brilliante" suffered from some stiffness at first, probably because of the coolness of the day, but warmed up to a brilliant finale. Her "Grand Valse Brilliante" of Chopin played as an encore was excellent. "Malaguena" by Leucuona was an inevitable crowd pleaser.

Emphasis was on youth in the first half of the program.

The Palo Alto Chamber Orchestra composed of 20 teenage string players and harpsichordist Eric Schwandt gave a pleasing performance of Corelli's Concerto Grosso, Opus 6, No. 1, under the directions of William Whitson.

They also provived the continuo for the world premiere in its complete form of Antonio Vivaldi's "Stabat Mater" with realization of the figured bass by the noted Bay Area musician John Edmunds, formerly of Sausalito.

It was sung in Latin by contralto Willene Gunn, a young singer who has a lovely voice especially rich in the low register and more flexible in a fast tempo.

Gerry Olds of Stinson Beach was producing director.

Jewish Center To Offer Art, Dance Lessons

Art, craft and dance classes for children and adults will be offered beginning the week of Oct. 9 at the Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road.

The weekly classes will run through the week of Dec. 11 and include creative dance for pre-school youngsters; cooking, science, woodshop, music, dance for those in kindergarten through second grade; modern dance for those in third through sixth grade. Puppetry, art and judo classes also are scheduled.

For older youngsters there will be woodshop, crafts, jewelry making, art and cooking classes.

Classes for adults include an art class for mothers of young children "to help motivate your child," silk screen and batique class, jewelry making, crafts and art.

DRAMA REVIEW

ACT's Ball Is An Inspiration

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — William Ball, charismatic founder of the American Conservatory Theater, and master of the calculated risk, took one Saturday night which again proves his mastery.

Before an invited audience of press and Friends of ACT, Ball held the stage of the Geary Theater for two hours in an explantion of ACT's goal in actor training. He demonstrated that he is that rarity — a director who can do what he asks his actors to do.

If a virtuoso performance of body movement, inarticulate sound and actual voice, the slight, balding general director of ACT kept a full house — admitted partisan — spellbound within his basic thesis, "Do the act, the feeling will follow."

He attempted to dispel the myth that actors work upon divine inspiration, using the parallel of a surgeon approaching his craft as most actors do. The hilarious operation ended with the surgeon hastily sewing up the incision and saying "I have no feeling for it today!"

His fine comedic sense, combined with an almost puppet-like oversimplification of body movement, kept a steady succession of laughs rising. (At least one of his young leading men should be made to realize that this exaggeration cannot be used in actual performance.)

Satiric ad libs ranginf from bank presidents to mayors, from John Wayne to the Ford Foundation, added to the evening's humor. Even in so tragic a scene as the hero's death in "The Sea Gull," Ball avoided mawkishness, which has no place in his format. Illustrating "sonics," that is, non-vical sound effects by an actor, Ball created a tensely dramatic moment as Konstantin tore the pages of his manuscript, then strode offstage to shoot himself. But at the exit, the performer shot himself with a child's "pow," and deftly flipped the audience back to amused reality.

Dressed in a light blue business suit, turtleneck sweater, high-heeled boots and a Spanish don's hat, which he quickly shed, Ball informed his listeners "Our business on the stage is to torture you." He expanded this as a technique of always leaving the audience on the edge of its seat, and proved his point by disappearing in the middle of a sentence, and re-appearing in the side aisle almost a minute later, while the house waited eagerly for the final words.

"Acting Up," which included delightful impersonations of Dame Edith Evans, W. C. Fields and John Gielgud, will be presented to the public on Dec. 15 and Jan. 5, 12, and 26. Each performance will be different. Proceeds will benefit the Conservatory's Associate Scholarship Fund for young people.

For the general public, Ball will need to see himself as he sees his actors, hone the edges of his show, eliminate repetitious material and generally quicken the pace. Then his demonstration of "connotations" or "non-verbal ways of communication" should indeed provide an evening of theatrical delight, and an insight into the regular productions of ACT., which begins Oct. 31 with Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

Auditorium Suggestions Due Tuesday

A report on bids for construction of the Marin County Civic Center auditorium will be made at tomorrow's meeting of the board of supervisors at Civic Center.

County Administrator Alan Bruce will make recommendations to try to solve a dilemma over last week's excessive bids. The report is due at 3:30 p.m. The meeting begins at 9 a.m.

At 10:30 a.m., a hearing will be held into formation of a county service area for police services in unincorporated areas. Discussion of two resolutions is scheduled for 11:55 a.m. to prohibit parking on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Laurel Grove and at Stetson and Terraces avenues, Kentfield.

The afternoon session will begin at 2:15 p.m. with a report on a possible liaison committee formed with industrial representatives. This will be followed by a report from Public Works Director Donald R. Frost on a request from Sausalito for landscaping along Bridgeway this year and installation of traffic control some time in the future.

Huge Gate At Quentin Art Show

San Quentin Prison's 13th annual arts and crafts show, featuring the work of inmate artists, was a record breaker at the gate and at the cash register Saturday.

The sales at the show totaled $28,679, according to George W. Sumner, officer of the day. "There was another $2,000 in sales at the store out front," Sumner reported.

More than 1,200 works were exhibited at the show, and the crowd was estimated at more than 15,000.

Best of show ribbons were awarded to Jack Neathery for a still like oil painting and to Charles Turvill in the handicraft division for his free form jewelry.

THE LITTLE BOX

How A Jury Selects An Art Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

The jurying of an art show has an aura that's suspicious to many and mysterious at best. Never the less, entries just get larger, wall space remains constant and jurying remains a necessary system.

The who, how and why of what does finally end up on the wall is a fascinating process, a good example of which took place Saturday during the Marin Society of Artists' judging for its 40th annual show, which opens next weekend, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The scene, was the main gallery where some 300 paintings rested in thick stacks around the room and dozens more lined the walls. The ones face-out had been chosen at random to familiarize the jury with the overall entry, for although MSA shows are usually juried by a rotating panel elected from the membership, the annual is the one show where an outside jury is used.

The invited panel for painting and sculpture — Ralph DuCasse, chairman of fine arts at Mills College; Paul Mills, curator of the Oakland Art Museum; Francis Woodcock, artist and lecturer; Charles Griffin Farr, artist, and Leonard Stanley, professor of art at San Jose State — had browsed freely but without discussion and now they were seated before an empty spotlighted easel getting final instructions.

A group of "carriers" waited nearby while, behind the jury, the clerking staff sat at a table at the center of which rested a long black box studded with red and green lights.

JURY SYSTEM

The box, or "machine," invented by the late Fred Koch and built for MSA by Koch and Gene Abbett, is the hub of MSA jury procedure. And it's private too.

Each juror has a cylinder wired to it with a red button for "reject" and a green one for "accept" but the wires are scrambled so that neither jurors nor clerks reading the vote can tell who cast which one.

As one of these jurors put it, "I couldn't even tell when the others were voting." Though another added, "I could tell when you did because you squeaked."

The majority rules and a clerk announces the count such as, "Three red, two green, reject."

NO DISCUSSION

The jury was also told, "We ask that there be no discussion during voting. If you disagree with the vote you may challenge it. The work will then be put aside and brought back later for discussion and a revote. Each of you has five challenges. Also, should you change your mind after voting, simply press both buttons. The machine will be cleared and the vote taken over."

The machine was tested and the work began. Dozens of paintings were carried to the easel by the always silent and expressionless carriers. Some were accepted, but more, many more, went the less glorious route. The staff saw their own works come and go but they never missed a beat or even winced at least never when a juror could see.

Even during the breaks the talk with jurors was general, a lot of it about the machine. For most it had been a new experience and they liked it.

Meanwhile, in the building wing, weaving, ceramics, jewelry and other crafts were being judged by a "walk-around jury" composed of Dr. Robert Fritz, Professor of Art, San Jose State and Byron Wilson, Professor, Arts and Crafts College, Oakland. They did jury verbally, but privately.

THE COUNTDOWN

After lunch only painting and sculpture awards remained. The jury asked that work under consideration be taken outside and a carrier was asked to remove a certain painting from the wall. "That one?" he asked blandly. "Yes, please." And he carted it to that never-never land where awards are made and returned, poker-faced as ever in spite of the fact that the painting was his own.

Discreetly, two "uninvolved" attendants took over from there, popping in and out wordlessly and inscrutibly like nurses through the waiting room of a maternity ward. Finally, through a series of ballots the awards were made.

Perhaps the greatest insight into the whole procedure came in the simple scene that followed. The jury was told informally, "Meet some of your winners." The winners were people thay had worked with all day and yet they looked shocked. Their first words were, "Which ones were yours?"

When you think it over, how meaningful could it be for an artist to be accepted for any reason other than his work's merit? Only then can it be sweet to be among the chosen. For those who aren't, well — another day, another jury and they can honestly say it's still only five men's opinions.

EVELYN WOOD READING DYNAMICS SALUTES OVER 300,000 STUDENTS

FALL CLASSES NOW FORMING THROUGHOUT N. CALIFORNIA

A new series of Reading Dynamics fall classes is now being scheduled in many Northern California communities including San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Palo Alto, Walnut Creek, Sacramento, Stockton, Berkeley, San Rafael and Santa Rosa.

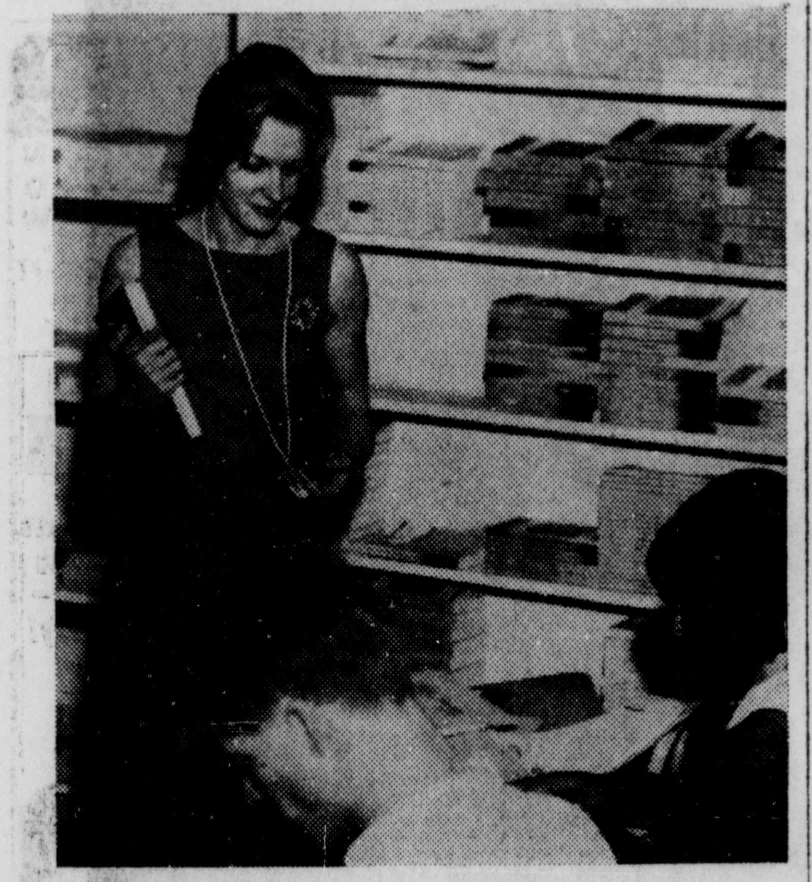
These classes, meeting once each week for eight weeks, are offered weekday evenings from 7 to 10 pm, with a limited number of sessions on Saturday and weekday mornings. The Reading Dynamics Institute reports that the average reading speed of its graduates is between 2,000 and 3,000 words per minute. If any RDI students cannot at least triple their reading efficiency with good comprehension after completing the minimum requirements, they are offered a full tuition refund.

Each year many Reading Dynamics graduates come back to the Institute, at no charge, for sessions to further improve their reading skills. Although improvement drills can be performed at home, many people like the added discipline of the classroom.

Mrs. Evelyn Wood, founder of Reading Dynamics, emphasizes that reading dynamically becomes a habit and, like any other habit, initially requires practice. This habit quickly becomes second nature. From then on, the drills serve mainly to push toward faster and faster reading speeds.

The fall Reading Dynamics classes start forming within the next few weeks. If you have been planning to look into a reading improvement course for yourself, or some member of your family, plan to attend one of the RDI demonstrations listed below.

LOCAL READING IMPROVEMENT INSTITUTE EMPHASIZES COMPREHENSION AND RECALL



Mrs. Patricia Cafferata, Director of Instruction for the Northern California Institute, puts a class through a time drill.

Greater reading comprehension and better recall are the result of improved teaching, study and testing techniques developed by the Northern California Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute according to Mrs. Pat Cafferata, the institute's Director of Instruction.

"At Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics we have always felt that our students must not only develop the ability to read more rapidly but they must also understand and remember what they read," says Mrs. Cafferata. "In the past almost all of our graduates have reported increased comprehension and recall along with much faster reading rates. We expect this as an inherent by-product of Dynamic Reading. Our improved methods, developed in a continuing internal research program, give added emphasis to comprehension and recall.

"Tests prove that the 3,500 people taught with these methods not only read much faster, but scored higher on tests designed to measure comprehension and recall. Many of the 3,500 tested were college students and professional people. They said that their increased ability to understand and remember what they read, even technical material was more valuable to them than their speed improvement."

Mrs. Evelyn Wood, founder of the Reading Dynamics Institute and discoverer of the basic Reading Dynamics method, supervises this research program. Mrs. Pat Cafferata aids Mrs. Wood.

"The primary content and approach of the course has not changed," says Mrs. Cafferata. "It still involves work on the basic Evelyn Wood method. The lesson plans have been reorganized, and new study skills have been developed. Additional material on comprehension/recall along with new hand motions, a key part of the Reading Dynamics technique, have been introduced. Testing procedures have also been refined and expanded. All of these factors combine to add up to greater reading efficiency. The number of classroom and practice hours required of RDI students remains exactly the same."

DOES READING DYNAMICS REALLY WORK?

Evelyn Wood

One of the questions most often asked a Reading Dynamics graduate or Mrs. Evelyn Wood herself is, "Does Reading Dynamics Really Work?"

To this question Mrs. Wood answers, "Twenty-two years ago I would have been just as skeptical about any system that promised to teach me to read thousands of words per minute. But then I discovered dynamic reading."

"I turned in a term paper to my professor at the University of Utah, and he read it at the astounding rate of 6,000 words per minute and, upon questioning him, I found that he did so with excellent recall and understanding. I was so impressed that I spent the next 12 years researching and developing the principles that are the basis for Reading Dynamics. It is these principles that we teach at the Institute today, although they have been somewhat refined."

"Yes, Reading Dynamics Really Works," says Mrs. Wood. "We are so confident in our methods and teachers that we offer a firm Performance Warranty to refund the entire tuition of any student who does not at least triple his reading efficiency after completing the class and study requirements. Reading efficiency is a combination of rate and comprehension, not just speed alone. It would do no good if we taught people to read 100,000 words a minute if the reader could not understand and remember what he read. It is my goal to teach people to read faster and better."

Mrs. Wood is very pleased with the growth of Reading Dynamics. "To think that just eight years ago I started with a few students in Washington, D.C., and now the Institute has enrolled over 300,000. It is very satisfying to be associated with such fine teachers and connected with such a fast-growing company."

READING DYNAMICS NOW ACCEPTS MASTER CHARGE, DINER'S AND BANKAMERICARD

Although Reading Dynamics has a surprisingly low tuition, many people prefer not to pay cash when enrolling for the 8-week course. In order to be of service to these people, the Institute will now accept credit cards, including Master Charge, Diner's and BankAmericard. This is in addition to their own deferred payment plan.

The Reading Dynamics Deferred Payment Plan consists of an initial payment followed by four equal monthly installments.

No matter how you want to pay for a Reading Dynamics Course, by credit card, Deferred Payment Plan or cash, it is a very worthwhile investment. Upon completing the course, a graduate will have developed a skill that will prove useful to him for the rest of his life.

RDI OPENS NEW WALNUT CREEK FACILITIES

Contra Costa County and the Walnut Creek area are helping set the pace for the Bay Area's population explosion. To keep up with this growth and the demands for reading improvement in the area, the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute is opening new, expanded facilities in Walnut Creek.

The new RDI office and classrooms are located at 1375 Locust St. and the new telephone number is 933-1837. The new classrooms will double the capacity of the Walnut Creek Institute.

To celebrate the opening, residents of the Concord-Walnut Creek area are invited to stop by these new Reading Dynamics offices for free coffee and to ask questions about what Reading Dynamics can do to help them improve their reading efficiency.

If you do not live in the Walnut Creek area, drop by the Reading Dynamics office nearest you, and they will explain Reading Dynamics in detail.

Kathy Magnuson

HOUSEWIFE BEATS BEING CONVERSATIONAL DROP-OUT

Kathy Magnuson was a New York career girl who is now a suburban housewife and mother. She has always enjoyed reading and has had a desire to stay well-informed. "If a woman isn't well-informed, she's a conversational drop-out. That, I swore, wasn't going to happen to me," says Mrs. Magnuson.

But Kathy found out that women with large homes, busy husbands, and small children have little time to read and keep up with what is going on in the world. She found this was particularly true if you can only read about 300 words a minute – the national reading rate.

When Mrs. Magnuson realized that she was falling so far behind in her reading, she was naturally interested in a Reading Dynamics ad which her husband showed her. She attended one of the Reading Dynamics demonstrations and enrolled in a class near her home. In eight weeks Mrs. Magnuson's reading rate increased from 340 to over 2,000 words per minute. "Right now for relaxation I can read an average novel in less than an hour. For news and information, I can read every article in 'Newsweek' in about 30 minutes."

Leading Corporations Enroll Employees For Company Classes

Charles Lasater

More and more companies are enrolling key personnel and whole departments in reading improvement classes set up by Reading Dynamics, reports Charles Lasater, Director of Industrial Development for the Northern California Reading Dynamics Institute.

"Bendix, Boeing Aircraft, Shell Development, General Electric and IBM are a few of the many firms that have used our services to cope with the growing reading requirements of their employees," says Lasater. "In many cases, we have set up classes on the company's own premises and tailored our class material and schedules to correspond with the requirements of the group taking the course. Schools and professional organizations such as Hastings Law School, San Rafael Military Academy, Mt. Zion Hospital and Masters of Business Administration are also participating in the Reading Dynamics group training program."

Mr. Lasater is responsible for explaining and scheduling group Reading Dynamics classes throughout Northern California. Any company, private school or recognized organization is eligible for this special training program.

Local Institute Continues to Set the Pace for the Rest of the Nation

Howard Ruff

The Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute reports that over 300,000 Americans have enrolled in their reading improvement schools across the country. This nationally known school is the largest of its kind in the world today. The Institute operates permanent classrooms in over 100 cities in the United States and serves approximately 300 different communities.

In Northern California alone more than 25,000 people have signed up for the Reading Dynamics course, according to Howard J. Ruff, director of the local Institute. "So far this year our Institute has enrolled over 9,000 students, which represents a 50% increase in enrollment over this date last year. Our Institute expects to teach more students this year than in the 5 preceding years."

"The average reader reads about 300 words per minute," Mr. Ruff points out. "After completing our 8-week course, you can reasonably expect to read from 2,000 to 3,000 words per minute."

Ruff says, "The Reading Dynamics Institute continues to grow because it fills a very real need in today's fast-paced world. Great demands are made on everyone's time – no matter whether they are businessmen, professional people, housewives or students. It becomes more and more difficult to take hours out of the week to read and keep up with the many changes taking place today. The only way to remain well-informed is to read more efficiently."

The Northern California Reading Dynamics Institute anticipates this trend toward large enrollments to continue. The October classes will be starting in the next few weeks. If you are interested in taking this valuable course, call the Reading Dynamics office nearest you or attend one of the free demonstrations where all questions about Reading Dynamics will be answered. This week's demonstrations are listed on this page.

EVELYN WOOD READING DYNAMICS SALUTES OVER 300,000 STUDENTS

FALL CLASSES NOW FORMING THROUGHOUT N. CALIFORNIA

A new series of Reading Dynamics fall classes is now being scheduled in many Northern California communities including San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Palo Alto, Walnut Creek, Sacramento, Stockton, Berkeley, San Rafael and Santa Rosa.

These classes, meeting once each week for eight weeks, are offered weekday evenings from 7 to 10 pm, with a limited number of sessions on Saturday and weekday mornings. The Reading Dynamics Institute reports that the average reading speed of its graduates is between 2,000 and 3,000 words per minute. If any RDI students cannot at least triple their reading efficiency with good comprehension after completing the minimum requirements, they are offered a full tuition refund.

HORSEMAN OFFERED HOME ABOVE FORT POINT

Heroic 3.5-ton statue of Capt. Juan Bautiste de Anza, founder of San Francisco, should be placed near south end of Golden Gate Bridge, directors of the bridge and highway district agreed Friday. It was donated recently to the City of San Francisco by the State of Sonora, Mexico, and city officials have been looking for an appropriate site.

Sentences Given To Four In Drunken Driving

Four persons were sentenced in Marin Municipal Court Friday for drunken driving.

Michael Lawrence Cloney, 56, of 19 Monte Vista Avenue, Larkspur, was given 30 days in county jail, given a suspended $289 fine, and placed on a year's probation. Larkspur police arrested him June 15 on Cane Street. He had a prior conviction.

Roger Edwin Ulery, 50, of 711 Meadowsweet Avenue, Corte Madera, was fined $200 and placed on a year's probation. California Highway Patrol arrested him July 21 on Highway 101.

Mrs. Lore Lena Kuebler, 47, of 207 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, was fined $75 and placed on a year's probation. Novato police arrested her Sept. 22.

MISSION ANNIVERSARY LUNCH IS SCHEDULED

A combined service club luncheon commemorating the 150th anniversary of Mission San Rafael Arcangel will be held at noon Oct. 20, in Dominic's Harbor Restaurant.

The luncheon will be part of a five-day celebration. It begins on Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. with a reenactment of the planting of the Cross by clergy of St. Raphael's Church.

Other events of the week will include a program of Spanish songs and dances, a "living Rosary" by parochial students at Albert Field and other religious observances. There will be an anniversary regatta between Richmond Bridge and the San Rafael Canal from 1 to 5 p.m. on Oct. 21.

Sausalitan Held Insane, Trial Stalled

Eric F. Dahlstrom of Sausalito, whom police charged with murder after finding the victim's arm in Dahlstrom's car, was committed to a state mental hospital Friday.

Dahlstrom, 23, was ordered to Atascadero State Hospital after two psychiatrists testifying in San Francisco Superior Court said he was insane now and probably was psychotic when the killing occurred.

Dahlstrom had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the charge of killing John Carter, 25, on Aug. 1 in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district. Dahlstrom resided at 70 Monte Mar Drive, Sausalito.

He was arrested five days later in Sebastopol, driving a car which contained Carter's severed arm.

Judge Francis McCarty ordered Dahlstrom to remain at the hospital until he is able to stand trial and suspended the murder charge until that time.

Arraignment Held In Burglary Case

Brooks Liggatt, 18, of San Jose, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court Friday on a felony complaint of burglary. Plea entry was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. next Friday.

He allegedly entered a building occupied Sept. 2 by Barbara Larkey of 17 Canyon Oak Drive, San Rafael.

Conference On Bay Planning Slated Oct. 21

A conference on the prospects of regional government in the Bay Area wil be held by the Leagues of Woman Voters of Southern and Central Marin Oct. 21 beginning at 10 a.m. at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry.

Kenote address will be by Fred Enemark, vice president of the Bay Area Council, and executive vice president of Marin County Savings and Loan Assn.

Morning panelists to identify regional problems are Christian Nelson, chief of the interpretive department of East Bay Regional Park District; E. Jack Schoop, chief planner for San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission; Margaret B. Azevedo, county planning commissioner and member of the Bay Area Transporation Study Commission, and Donald L. Foley, city planning professor at University of California, Berkeley.

Moderator will be Kitty Oppenheimer of radio station KTIM.

After lunch, panelists on ways to solve regional problems will be Lowell Edington, a director of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District; Michael Wornum, Mill Valley city councilman; Alan Bruce, Marin County administrator, and Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

Moderator will be Mel Wax, mayor of Sausalito.

Joseph Bodovitz, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, will sum up the day's discussions and conclusions.

The league chapters are handling registration.

Alto Corridor Annex On Agenda

A public hearing on annexation of a section of the "Alto corridor" will be held by the Mill Valley City Council today at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

The annexation area lies between the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks and Vasco Drive.

The council also will consider appointments to the city's library board, parks and recreation commission, architectural advisory committee and board of permit appeals.

Three-Car Crash Hurts Woman

A Mill Valley woman was injured Friday in a three-car crash on Highway 101, one-half mile south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

A northbound car driven by Delmar Stephan Smith, 45, of Auburn, stopped because of a metal ladder across the middle lane and was struck from behind by one driven by Kathleen Mackenzie Forsyth, 64, of Mill Valley, at 4:10 p.m., the California Highway Patrol said.

Then a car driven by Elmer Lee Howard, 37, an Army supply sergeant at the San Francisco Presidio, struck the rear of the Forsyth car, the CHP said.

Mrs. Forsyth was treated at Novato General Hospital for bruised ribs, fractured left arm and scrapes.

HORSEMAN OFFERED HOME ABOVE FORT POINT

Heroic 3.5-ton statue of Capt. Juan Bautiste de Anza, founder of San Francisco, should be placed near south end of Golden Gate Bridge, directors of the bridge and highway district agreed Friday. It was donated recently to the City of San Francisco by the State of Sonora, Mexico, and city officials have been looking for an appropriate site.

Sentences Given To Four In Drunken Driving

Four persons were sentenced in Marin Municipal Court Friday for drunken driving.

Michael Lawrence Cloney, 56, of 19 Monte Vista Avenue, Larkspur, was given 30 days in county jail, given a suspended $289 fine, and placed on a year's probation.

Larkspur police arrested him June 15 on Cane Street. He had a prior conviction.

Roger Edwin Ulery, 50, of 711 Meadowsweet Avenue, Corte Madera, was fined $200 and placed on a year's probation. California Highway Patrol arrested him July 21 on Highway 101.

Mrs. Lore Lena Kuebler, 47, of 207 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, was fined $75 and placed on a year's probation. Novato police arrested her Sept. 22.

Nancy Voorhies, 40, of San Mateo, was fined $289 and placed on a year's probation. The highway patrol arrested her May 1 on Belvedere Avenue, Belvedere.

Bold Picks Backfire; A Stink In Baltimore

KERPLOP!—I'm feeling lower than a well-digger's soggy posterior today.

Friday I had to go and shoot off my cavernous mouth about my peerless football predictions and lofty position atop the I-J Writers' Standings. And feeling pretty darned cocky, I blabbered something about seeing three upsets on the horizon — just to show the young whipper-snappers on the staff a little class in the Crystal Ball League, rather than playing it safe and picking all favorites.

I even put it down in black and white — which was a sad mistake because now I find it is rather difficult to retrieve those 45,000 papers and erase those bold predictions. Some of Friday's I-J's now line the bottoms of the garbage pales, and I'm sure my column is at the very bottom of the heap. One 49er fan called this morning to thank me for the use of my literary work as an excellent fish wrapper. "It smelt," he said.

Thank Heaven For Raiders

Thank heaven for the Oakland Raiders. Their 23-21 upset over Kansas City saved me from complete embarrassment, but Michigan State and the 49ers, losing to USC and the Baltimore Colts, ruined my other two upset specials.

Now I know how the Detroit Tigers and Minnesota Twins fell because the weekend saw me fall out of first place in the I-J Standings behind Bob Alvarado into a second place tie with Gary Tischler. But, I am still ahead of Mr. Consensus.

Another face-saver came when I picked Muskingum over Otterbein, 3-2. The Muskies eked out a 53-7 victory. Phew!

And now, a word or two about the 49ers: Ick and aaarrrgh! (Those are the only two words I can think of at the moment.)

Talk About Ups And Downs

How can one team plummet from the heights of a 38-7 victory over Atlanta one week to the depths of a 7-41 loss to Baltimore seven days later is beyond comprehension.

This is one week I can't even blame John Brodie because he had all kinds of help in smelling out Baltimore Memorial Stadium. It was a complete letdown in all departments as the 49ers played down to their potential.

On second thought, there was was one bright spot for the 49ers — Steve Spurrier's punting. Of course Steve had plenty of practice as the Niner-Forties were forced to punt six times.

and I also liked Coach Jack Christiansen's comment after the massacre: "As long as the Colts have Unitas, they could play with nine or ten girls and still beat other teams."

Well, Back To Fundamentals

My television picture was a bit blurry yesterday, but I could swear it was Mr. Brodie who had those nine or ten cupcakes on HIS team.

Next week the Niners play the big bad Rams, then the Philadelphia Eagles. Fortunately, both games will be played on the road, giving San Francisco fans time to recover from the Baltimore nightmare.

Yesterday's game also was played on the road. And the 49ers felt like the road was U.S. Highway 101 during the commuter rush.

Well, boys, back to fundamentals.

Bullets' Rally Beats Warriors

LONG BEACH (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets exploded in the final quarter to defeat the San Francisco Warriors 133-125 in the first game of a National Basketball Association exhibition doubleheader last night.

Timely baskets by Gus Johnson and Jack Marin sparked the Bullets' comeback that brought them the victory. Johnson captured high point honors with 29, while San Francisco was paced by Fred Hetzel with 20.

Cadets Bombarded By Terra Nova '11'

San Rafael Military Academy's football team got started too late again and lost its third straight game of the season 40-13, at Terra Nova Friday.

The Cadets trailed 28-0 at the half and bunched all their points in the final period on a three-yard run by Rod Henderson and a 14-yard touchdown pass from Dwight Munson to Jack Dickinson. Munson gained 103 yards passing.

Franks Gets Another Chance In '68

The sort of smile a baseball manager would sport when he has just won the pennant split the face of Herman Franks as ia was announced that he'll be back in 1968 for his fourth year as manager of the San Francisco Giants.

You'd never suspect that they had flopped at the plate and finished 10½ games back of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"But I've a pretty good idea how Al Lopez felt," Franks conconceded after Giant President Horace Stoneham made it official yesterday of his re-hiring.

Franks was referring to the fate of Lopez as manager of the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians in finishing second nine times in the American League.

RUNNER-UP CHAMP

The Giants have been runner-up in the National League ever since Franks got the job in 1965.

The 52-year-old Franks said one big reason why next season could be different was the expected return of a hale and hearty Juan Marichal as his pitching ace.

"He's coming along fine; actually I think he could pitch right now," was his assessment of the hurler who had a 25 - 6 record in 1966 but had to drop out of action with a leg muscle injury Aug. 25 this year with only 14 wins against 10 losses.

There will be one spot in the Giant training camp that will get Franks' rapt attention next Spring in Arizona—the batting cage. A Giant batting array that includes Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Jim Ray Hart, slumped to a team average of .246, which is .003 above the lowest the Giants ever hit back in 1909.

HOLDS ANNOUNCEMENT

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants discounted any significance in delaying announcement of Franks' status until after yesterday's closing game, won 2-1 by the Giants over Philadelphia before a crowd of 31,000—drawn more by a ticket raffle of five new automobiles than by the ball game.

"We were all set to announce it a few weeks ago when Cooky Lavagetto decided to retire as coach," Stoneham explained.

"So we had a party for him and decided not to say anything that would detract attention."

Horace called Franks "a very successful and able manager" and said coaches Larry Jansen, Charley Fox and Harry Lowrey would return next year. Lavagetto's successor is yet to be picked.

Red Sox End A Cinderella Story

Raiders Surprise Champions

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Blanda isn't ready for that rocking chair quite yet, thank you.

Football's grand old graybeard proved that yesterday when he booted three long field goals that helper Oakland's ambitious Raiders upset Kansas City, the American Football League's defending champion, 23-21.

It was an oldtime performance for the 39-year-old Blanda, who played his first professional football game when Harry Truman was president and Joe Namath had just started grade school.

Blanda, crowded out by younger men at Houston, is a bit elderly to be dodging blitzing linebackers at his old quarterback slot. But he can still kick a football, and after all, that's what the game is all about.

So Blanda hooked on with the Raiders and came in handy Sunday with field goals of 31, 33 and 42 yards as Oakland stunned the Chiefs. It was Kansas City's first loss to an AFL opponent in almost one year and the last time the Chiefs were beaten in their own league, Oakland also did the job.

In other AFL games yesterday, Namath, who is no longer in grade school, passed for 415 yards and broke a league record as New York dropped Miami 29-7, San Diego, led by rookie running back Dick Post, ripped Buffalo 31-17, and Houston won a defensive struggle from Denver, 10-6.

Daryle Lamonica shared the Raiders' spotlight with Blanda, passing for 236 yards and completing 23 of 38 attempts. Coach John Rauch was delighted with the victory over the Chiefs.

"It was a tremendous win for us," said Rauch. "It gives us the opportunity to get up on top. I'm glad we did it before the Eastern trip which has always been tough."

The Raiders open a three-game tour of the East in New York Saturday night and Blanda might be interested in watching Namath. The Jet quarterback had all after burners going against Miami, wearing down the Dolphin defenders with 23 of 39 attempts and three TDs.

Namath was intercepted only once and by then he had gained 398 yards through the air. That broke the mark of 375 yards gained without and interception set by New York's Al Dorow in 1960.

Namath might have had a shot at Blanda's league record of 464 yards gained but sat out the last four minutes. Coach Weeb Ewbank and Namath talked over the strategy of going for the mark.

"I know you're close to the record," Ewbank told Namath, "but I'd hate to see you get hurt." Namath agreed. "Records make no difference to me," he said. "They're nice to have, but I really couldn't care."

Terra Linda Is Too Much For Redwood In Opener

By GARY TISCHLER

"I keep having to remember that this isn't last year's team."

Comment from one Don Lucas, head football coach, Terra Linda High School, as of last Thursday, slightly worried over his walking wounded Trojans prior to their Saturday night encounter with Redwood.

This certainly isn't last year's team that grabbed a share of the Marin Athletic League title. Given the occasion, it may be a better team.

The occasion was big enough Saturday night as the Trojans completely chilled the Redwood High School Giants with an air-tight defense and mowed them down with a razor-sharp, punishing running attack that resulted in a 19-0 Terra Linda victory at San Rafael High School.

MINUS YARDAGE

So stifling was the Terra Linda defense that the Giants couldn't get even in the running department, winding up with a minus-26 yardage, thanks mainly to a whirlwind rush by defensive end Bruce Kilby and linebacker Rod Powell and one misfired punt that cost a big 26 yards.

Redwood quarterback Jim Peters found out what cold grass and chalkmarks smell like on a windy night, getting dropped for losses totaling out to another 26 yards.

Halfback Larry Blackwell, the speedster who can cut on a dime and leave it spinning, couldn't turn a corner all night and wound up with minus two yards as the Trojans pursued like sailors at a girls school.

The itchy Giants hurt themselves, too, getting called time and again for offside penalties worth 71 yards and a bunch of momentum.

The Giants got notice early when the Trojans took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards for a methodical touchdown.

Drake Coach Lauds His Defense After Grid Victory Over Novato

By KIMO CAMPBELL

"I said defense would decide this game, and ours did."

That was the happy voice of Drake High School coach Bob Franceschini after his bruising defensive grid unit, aided by a pretty productive offense, demolished pass-minded Novato 20-0 on the losers' field Saturday.

"I thought our whole defense did a good job," said Franceschini, and that they did. The Buccaneers intercepted three of Russ Dillon's passes, turning one into a TD, and scored another six-pointer after recovering one of the Hornets' three lost fumbles.

Drake drove 54 payrds to the Novato 10 on the running of Greg Corbett, Don Stone, and Don Alvarado, but Novato's Rob McCown recovered a fumble at he 18 to thwart the Pirates.

TOOK ADVANTAGE

After a scoreless first period, Drake took advantage of a pair of breaks to grab a permanent lead. After Andy Stich recovered a Novato fumble at the Hornet 19, Don Stone hung a high, first down pass above two Drake receivers and a couple of Novato defenders. In the ensuing traffic jam, someone tipped the ball, and Drake's Dave Alvarado made a wonderful diving catch for the TD. Perry Hedin missed the conversion via placement, leaving the count 6-0 with 6:22 left in the first half.

Late in the third quarter, the Pirates added to their lead after a short kick by Dillon went out on Novato's 30. A pass from Stone to Don Alvarado ate up 16 yards, and Corbett carried three times, battering over from the

Fans In Boston Are Going Wild

BOSTON (AP)—Thanks to Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg, staid old Boston has flipped its lid over the Boston Red Sox's first pennant in 21 years and the World Series opening Wednesday with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Thousands milled around ancient Fenway Park, chanting "We're No. 1" and "We want Yaz" last night, three hours after the Red Sox had beaten Minnesota 5-3.

Each pitch of Detroit's second game defeat by California, 8-5, was followed by the anxious Red Sox, who waited in the clubhouse for the final out that would eliminate any possibility of a playoff.

Dick Williams, the Cinderella manager who won a flag in his first year, picked Jose Santiago, a Kansas City castoff from Puerto Rico, to oppose the Cards' Bob Gibson in the opener at Fenway Wednesday afternoon.

LONBORG

He also named Lonborg to pitch the second game Thursday in Boston. Lee Stange, who would have faced the Tigers today if a playoff had been necessary, was shuttled to bullpen obscurity.

Yaz, the Triple Crown winner, and Lonborg, the ex-med student at Stanford whose 22nd win made him a strong candidate for the Cy Young Award as top pitcher in the league, were the big men for hthe Sox, the first club in major league history to leap from ninth to first in one season.

The Red Sox sweated it out on a cool Sunday evening before they knew for sure that no playoff would be necessary. Each California run against Detroit brought cheers. The final double play that snuffed out the Tigers brought a deluge of champagne, shaving cream and beer. Williams was pushed into the showers, not once but twice.

AGREES

Even the manager of the disappointed Minnesota Twins, Cal Ermer, agreed that Yastrzemski deserved to be the Most Valuable Player in the American League. Yaz clinched the batting title at .326 with four hits in the last gime and six straight hits counting his last two trips in Saturday's comeback victory over the Twins.

""I have to say Yastrzemski is the Most Valuable Player this year," said Ermer in the glum Twins' clubhouse. "He is a real professional. He does the job when it has to be done."

Williams seconded the motion. "Yaz did a great job all year," he said. "I never saw a ball player do a better job. He is the best player I have ever seen in one given year."

While Lonborg was spinning his seven-hitter (two hits through seven innings), Yastrzemski was coming through at bat and in the field.

After Yaz made an error in the third inning that cost a run and left Boston trailing 2-0, he smashed a two-run single with the bases loaded in the five-run sixth inning. In the eighth, his

Dark Named Manager Of Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alvin Dark was named manager of the Cleveland Indians today by General Manager Gabe Paul, replacing Joe Adcock.

The contract was for two years.

No figure was given on Dark's salary in the contract, but Dark described it as a "good contract that can turn out to be a better one."

In announcing the appointment at a news conference, Paul said he had sought Dark last year and considered him one of the game's best managers.

When the 45-year-old Dark became available after being released in Kansas City a few weeks ago, Paul said it offered an opportunity he couldn't afford to overlook.

Bold Picks Backfire; A Stink In Baltimore

KERPLOP!—I'm feeling lower than a well-digger's soggy posterior today.

Friday I had to go and shoot off my cavernous mouth about my peerless football predictions and lofty position atop the I-J Writers' Standings. And feeling pretty darned cocky, I blabbered something about seeing three upsets on the horizon — just to show the young whipper-snappers on the staff a little class in the Crystal Ball League, rather than playing it safe and picking all favorites.

I even put it down in black and white — which was a sad mistake because now I find it is rather difficult to retrieve those 45,000 papers and erase those bold predictions. Some of Friday's I-J's now line the bottoms of the garbage pales, and I'm sure my column is at the very bottom of the heap. One 49er fan called this morning to thank me for the use of my literary work as an excellent fish wrapper. "It smelt," he said.

Thank Heaven For Raiders

Thank heaven for the Oakland Raiders. Their 23-21 upset over Kansas City saved me from complete embarrassment, but Michigan State and the 49ers, losing to USC and the Baltimore Colts, ruined my other two upset specials.

Now I know how the Detroit Tigers and Minnesota Twins fell because the weekend saw me fall out of first place in the I-J Standings behind Bob Alvarado into a second place tie with Gary Tischler. But, I am still ahead of Mr. Consensus.

Another face-saver came when I picked Muskingum over Otterbein, 3-2. The Muskies eked out a 53-7 victory. Phew!

And now, a word or two about the 49ers: Ick and aaarrrgh! (Those are the only two words I can think of at the moment.)

Talk About Ups And Downs

How can one team plummet from the heights of a 38-7 victory over Atlanta one week to the depths of a 7-41 loss to Baltimore seven days later is beyond comprehension.

This is one week I can't even blame John Brodie because he had all kinds of help in smelling out Baltimore Memorial Stadium. It was a complete letdown in all departments as the 49ers played down to their potential.

On second thought, there was was one bright spot for the 49ers — Steve Spurrier's punting. Of course Steve had plenty of practice as the Niner-Forties were forced to punt six times.

and I also liked Coach Jack Christiansen's comment after the massacre: "As long as the Colts have Unitas, they could play with nine or ten girls and still beat other teams."

Well, Back To Fundamentals

My television picture was a bit blurry yesterday, but I could swear it was Mr. Brodie who had those nine or ten cupcakes on HIS team.

Next week the Niners play the big bad Rams, then the Philadelphia Eagles. Fortunately, both games will be played on the road, giving San Francisco fans time to recover from the Baltimore nightmare.

Yesterday's game also was played on the road. And the 49ers felt like the road was U.S. Highway 101 during the commuter rush.

Well, boys, back to fundamentals.

Bullets' Rally Beats Warriors

LONG BEACH (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets exploded in the final quarter to defeat the San Francisco Warriors 133-125 in the first game of a National Basketball Association exhibition doubleheader last night.

Timely baskets by Gus Johnson and Jack Marin sparked the Bullets' comeback that brought them the victory. Johnson captured high point honors with 29, while San Francisco was paced by Fred Hetzel with 20.

Cadets Bombarded By Terra Nova '11'

San Rafael Military Academy's football team got started too late again and lost its third straight game of the season 40-13, at Terra Nova Friday.

The Cadets trailed 28-0 at the half and bunched all their points in the final period on a three-yard run by Rod Henderson and a 14-yard touchdown pass from Dwight Munson to Jack Dickinson. Munson gained 103 yards passing.

Franks Gets Another Chance In '68

The sort of smile a baseball manager would sport when he has just won the pennant split the face of Herman Franks as ia was announced that he'll be back in 1968 for his fourth year as manager of the San Francisco Giants.

You'd never suspect that they had flopped at the plate and finished 10½ games back of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"But I've a pretty good idea how Al Lopez felt," Franks conconceded after Giant President Horace Stoneham made it official yesterday of his re-hiring.

Franks was referring to the fate of Lopez as manager of the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians in finishing second nine times in the American League.

RUNNER-UP CHAMP

The Giants have been runner-up in the National League ever since Franks got the job in 1965.

The 52-year-old Franks said one big reason why next season could be different was the expected return of a hale and hearty Juan Marichal as his pitching ace.

"He's coming along fine; actually I think he could pitch right now," was his assessment of the hurler who had a 25 - 6 record in 1966 but had to drop out of action with a leg muscle injury Aug. 25 this year with only 14 wins against 10 losses.

There will be one spot in the Giant training camp that will get Franks' rapt attention next Spring in Arizona—the batting cage. A Giant batting array that includes Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Jim Ray Hart, slumped to a team average of .246, which is .003 above the lowest the Giants ever hit back in 1909.

HOLDS ANNOUNCEMENT

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants discounted any significance in delaying announcement of Franks' status until after yesterday's closing game, won 2-1 by the Giants over Philadelphia before a crowd of 31,000—drawn more by a ticket raffle of five new automobiles than by the ball game.

"We were all set to announce it a few weeks ago when Cooky Lavagetto decided to retire as coach," Stoneham explained.

"So we had a party for him and decided not to say anything that would detract attention."

Horace called Franks "a very successful and able manager" and said coaches Larry Jansen, Charley Fox and Harry Lowrey would return next year. Lavagetto's successor is yet to be picked.

Red Sox End A Cinderella Story

Raiders Surprise Champions

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Blanda isn't ready for that rocking chair quite yet, thank you.

Football's grand old graybeard proved that yesterday when he booted three long field goals that helper Oakland's ambitious Raiders upset Kansas City, the American Football League's defending champion, 23-21.

It was an oldtime performance for the 39-year-old Blanda, who played his first professional football game when Harry Truman was president and Joe Namath had just started grade school.

Blanda, crowded out by younger men at Houston, is a bit elderly to be dodging blitzing linebackers at his old quarterback slot. But he can still kick a football, and after all, that's what the game is all about.

So Blanda hooked on with the Raiders and came in handy Sunday with field goals of 31, 33 and 42 yards as Oakland stunned the Chiefs. It was Kansas City's first loss to an AFL opponent in almost one year and the last time the Chiefs were beaten in their own league, Oakland also did the job.

In other AFL games yesterday, Namath, who is no longer in grade school, passed for 415 yards and broke a league record as New York dropped Miami 29-7, San Diego, led by rookie running back Dick Post, ripped Buffalo 31-17, and Houston won a defensive struggle from Denver, 10-6.

Daryle Lamonica shared the Raiders' spotlight with Blanda, passing for 236 yards and completing 23 of 38 attempts. Coach John Rauch was delighted with the victory over the Chiefs.

"It was a tremendous win for us," said Rauch. "It gives us the opportunity to get up on top. I'm glad we did it before the Eastern trip which has always been tough."

The Raiders open a three-game tour of the East in New York Saturday night and Blanda might be interested in watching Namath. The Jet quarterback had all after burners going against Miami, wearing down the Dolphin defenders with 23 of 39 attempts and three TDs.

Namath was intercepted only once and by then he had gained 398 yards through the air. That broke the mark of 375 yards gained without and interception set by New York's Al Dorow in 1960.

Namath might have had a shot at Blanda's league record of 464 yards gained but sat out the last four minutes. Coach Weeb Ewbank and Namath talked over the strategy of going for the mark.

"I know you're close to the record," Ewbank told Namath, "but I'd hate to see you get hurt." Namath agreed. "Records make no difference to me," he said. "They're nice to have, but I really couldn't care."

Terra Linda Is Too Much For Redwood In Opener

By GARY TISCHLER

"I keep having to remember that this isn't last year's team."

Comment from one Don Lucas, head football coach, Terra Linda High School, as of last Thursday, slightly worried over his walking wounded Trojans prior to their Saturday night encounter with Redwood.

This certainly isn't last year's team that grabbed a share of the Marin Athletic League title. Given the occasion, it may be a better team.

The occasion was big enough Saturday night as the Trojans completely chilled the Redwood High School Giants with an air-tight defense and mowed them down with a razor-sharp, punishing running attack that resulted in a 19-0 Terra Linda victory at San Rafael High School.

MINUS YARDAGE

So stifling was the Terra Linda defense that the Giants couldn't get even in the running department, winding up with a minus-26 yardage, thanks mainly to a whirlwind rush by defensive end Bruce Kilby and linebacker Rod Powell and one misfired punt that cost a big 26 yards.

Redwood quarterback Jim Peters found out what cold grass and chalkmarks smell like on a windy night, getting dropped for losses totaling out to another 26 yards.

Halfback Larry Blackwell, the speedster who can cut on a dime and leave it spinning, couldn't turn a corner all night and wound up with minus two yards as the Trojans pursued like sailors at a girls school.

The itchy Giants hurt themselves, too, getting called time and again for offside penalties worth 71 yards and a bunch of momentum.

The Giants got notice early when the Trojans took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards for a methodical touchdown.

Drake Coach Lauds His Defense After Grid Victory Over Novato

By KIMO CAMPBELL

"I said defense would decide this game, and ours did."

That was the happy voice of Drake High School coach Bob Franceschini after his bruising defensive grid unit, aided by a pretty productive offense, demolished pass-minded Novato 20-0 on the losers' field Saturday.

"I thought our whole defense did a good job," said Franceschini, and that they did. The Buccaneers intercepted three of Russ Dillon's passes, turning one into a TD, and scored another six-pointer after recovering one of the Hornets' three lost fumbles.

Drake drove 54 payrds to the Novato 10 on the running of Greg Corbett, Don Stone, and Don Alvarado, but Novato's Rob McCown recovered a fumble at he 18 to thwart the Pirates.

TOOK ADVANTAGE

After a scoreless first period, Drake took advantage of a pair of breaks to grab a permanent lead. After Andy Stich recovered a Novato fumble at the Hornet 19, Don Stone hung a high, first down pass above two Drake receivers and a couple of Novato defenders. In the ensuing traffic jam, someone tipped the ball, and Drake's Dave Alvarado made a wonderful diving catch for the TD. Perry Hedin missed the conversion via placement, leaving the count 6-0 with 6:22 left in the first half.

Late in the third quarter, the Pirates added to their lead after a short kick by Dillon went out on Novato's 30. A pass from Stone to Don Alvarado ate up 16 yards, and Corbett carried three times, battering over from the

Fans In Boston Are Going Wild

BOSTON (AP)—Thanks to Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg, staid old Boston has flipped its lid over the Boston Red Sox's first pennant in 21 years and the World Series opening Wednesday with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Thousands milled around ancient Fenway Park, chanting "We're No. 1" and "We want Yaz" last night, three hours after the Red Sox had beaten Minnesota 5-3.

Each pitch of Detroit's second game defeat by California, 8-5, was followed by the anxious Red Sox, who waited in the clubhouse for the final out that would eliminate any possibility of a playoff.

Dick Williams, the Cinderella manager who won a flag in his first year, picked Jose Santiago, a Kansas City castoff from Puerto Rico, to oppose the Cards' Bob Gibson in the opener at Fenway Wednesday afternoon.

LONBORG

He also named Lonborg to pitch the second game Thursday in Boston. Lee Stange, who would have faced the Tigers today if a playoff had been necessary, was shuttled to bullpen obscurity.

Yaz, the Triple Crown winner, and Lonborg, the ex-med student at Stanford whose 22nd win made him a strong candidate for the Cy Young Award as top pitcher in the league, were the big men for hthe Sox, the first club in major league history to leap from ninth to first in one season.

Seals Capture Exhibition Tilt

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—The California Seals won their second game in two nights edging the Minnesota North Stars 3-2 in a National Hockey League exhibition game last night.

The Seals took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Wally Boyer and Bob Baun. The North Stars came back in the second period with a goal by Dave Balon.

California increased its margin in the third period when Ken Douglas scored his second goal in two games. Bill Masterton closed the gap for Minnesota with the final goal of the night.

Bob Charles Wins Atlantic Classic

COMBINED AP & UPI

charles, the only lefty ever to win a title on the PGA tour, dispelled any speculation that southpaws are the world's most erratic golfers by firing rounds of 72, 71, 69 and 70 for a six-under par 282.

That gave him a two-stroke edge over runners-up Tommy Bolt, Dick Crawford and Gardner Dickinson.

MONTEBELLO — Kathy Whitworth of Coronado Springs, N.M. won the $2,325 Ladies Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament by four strokes with a four-under-par 212.

FOOTBALL

Deaths due to football injuries occurred in three different locations yesterday.

In Lexington, Ky., Greg Page, 19, a sophomore end for the University of Kentucky died after 38 days of paralysis from the neck down, being injured in a routine, no contact drill. In Chattanooga, Tenn., Mike Perkins, 18, a Chattanooga Central High School end, died in a coma two days after suffering a head injury in blocking on an end-sweep play in a high school game. And in Portland, Ore., John Louis Dierick, 16, co-captain of the Gladstone High School grid team, died Saturday night after undergoing brain surgery for a game injury suffered 24 hours earlier.

TENNIS

MADRID — Martin Mulligan of Australia defeated Spanish star Manuel Santana 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 10-8, in the singles final of the Real Madrid Tennis Tournament.

SWIMMING

LONDON — Catie Ball, 15, Jacsonville, Fla., shattered two world records and shared a third in leading the U.S. swimmers to a 92-68 victory over Britain in an international meet.

AUTO RACING

Clark of Scotland, driving a Lotus Ford, averaged 120.95 miles per hour and won the U.S. Grand Prix.

SACRAMENTO — A.J. Foyt of Houston, leader for national championship driving laurels on the USAC circuit, added antoher victory when he staved off Marion Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and won the Golden State 100 at the California State Fair Grounds.

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. — Richard Petty scooted home in his stock Plymouth a lap ahead of Dick Hutcherson to win the Wilkes 400.

HORSE RACING

TANFORAN — Kic Back, $61.60, captured the San Francisco Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Red Sox Complete Cinderella Story

JUST ONCE

Although Yastrzemski finished with 44 homers, tied with Harmon Killebrew of the Twins, he said he was going for the homer only once—the first time up.

"When I came up with the bases full in the sixth," he said, "I kept telling myself 'don't go for the home run, go for the base hit.' When I scored (I guess it was the fourth run of the inning) I said to Lonny "I owned you something and now I got you even. Go get 'em.' "

More

Yastrzemski finished with 10 hits in his last 13 at bats, a .326 average, 121 runs batted in, 44 homers and a .622 slugging average.

"Yaz carried the club all year," said Lonborg, who arrived in the clubhouse breathless after being pummeled by the wildly excited fans. His undershirt had vanished and he wore only his uniform shirt.

MANIA

"It was sheer mania," he said. "I couldn't even see the dugout. They pushed me out to right field. I was beginning to wonder how I was going to get out of it. They were hysterical. I wore a sweat shirt when I went out but it's gone."

Lonborg started the winning rally by beating out a bunt, his second hit off loser Dean Chance. With the Sox trailing 2-0 when he came to bat in the sixth, he feared he might be lifted for a pinch hitter.

"I went to the bat rack as soon as I came in," he said. "I looked at Dick (Williams) and he said 'get on base.' The bunt was my idea. I had done it a lot this year, so when Chance came down the middle with a fast ball I bunted."

The big right-hander provided his own incentive, if any was needed. He had inked the numbers "$10,000" on his glove last week in Baltimore.

Drake Defense Shuts Out Novato In League Opener

three for the score. John Brown slashed over for the conversion, making it 13-0 with 2:09 left.

Dillon — under constant pressure from Stich, Don Alvarado, Hersmeyer, and Perry Heddin — was thrown for repeated losses in the last period as he tried desperately to get his team back in the ball game. With the Pirate line limiting the Hornets' ground attack to a pitiful minus 22, Dillon had little chance to avoid the rush, yet less reason to run.

PIRATE TD

A first-down pass was picked off by Drake's Clark Jamison, who scampered 49 yards to score behind good blocking. The snap from center was high on the conversion, giving Hedin the chance all linemen dream of — to run with the ball. He looked good, too, tearing around end for the PAT.

Novato Coach Al Scott was disappointed with his offense's inability to move the ball (just three first downs) but fairly content with the defense. "I thought the defense did pretty well, considering they were on the field 90 per cent of the time," said Scott. "We made some mistakes, but Drake just has a fine team. I think they're the team to beat for the championship.

Next Saturday, Novato faces dangerous Tamalpais in another Marin County Athletic Leage game at College of Marin, with Dillon set for a pitching duel with Tam's Don Mackin, while Drake plays San Francisco powerhouse St. Ignatius in a non-league game on the same field Saturday night. St. Ignatius beat Downey of Modesto 27-7 Saturday.

Francheschini has scouted SI, and considers them "one of the best teams in Northern California. We have a tough schedule, but I think that's how the boys learn, by playing the best."

McCormick Finishes As 22-Game Winner

The din was terrific today in the Boston Red Sox but a lot of cheers also were in order for Mike McCormick, the southpaw who turned doubters into believers.

The 30 year old veteran climaxed his finest season yesterday with his 22nd win of the year as he hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

McCormick finished the season with a 22-10 mark and became the first Giant lefty to hit the 22 victory circle since Carl Hubbell won that number in 1937.

Going the distance for the 14th time in 35 starts, McCormick struck out eight Phils and didn't allow a walk.

He had joined the club last spring from Washington amid assumptions that he would be used on a spot basis. But he firmly said he had come to be a starter and stuck around to do it.

Willie McCovey tied the game yesterday with a pinch single in the eighth off loser Dick Farrell and then Ken Henderson's sacrifice fly won it in the same frame. Both runs were unearned as a result of an error by second baseman Cookie Rojas who failed to touch first base after taking the throw on McCormick's sacrifice bunt.

Jim Bunning hurled the first seven innings for the Phils and fanned ten Giants to take over seventh place on the all-time strike out list with a career total of 2,398.

A crowd of 33,615 came to see the game and also take a chance on winning a car in the Giants annual raffle. The season's overall home attendance was 1,424,480—414,712 behind the 1966 turnout.

Seals Capture Exhibition Tilt

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—The California Seals won their second game in two nights edging the Minnesota North Stars 3-2 in a National Hockey League exhibition game last night.

The Seals took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Wally Boyer and Bob Baun. The North Stars came back in the second period with a goal by Dave Balon.

California increased its margin in the third period when Ken Douglas scored his second goal in two games. Bill Masterton closed the gap for Minnesota with the final goal of the night.

DRAKE PIRACY — Drake High School fullback Greg Corbett bulls over for the Pirates' second touchdown against Novato while Hornet defenders Chuck Day (25) and Bob Sears (31) try to make the stop.

Bob Charles Wins Atlantic Classic

COMBINED AP & UPI

charles, the only lefty ever to win a title on the PGA tour, dispelled any speculation that southpaws are the world's most erratic golfers by firing rounds of 72, 71, 69 and 70 for a six-under par 282.

That gave him a two-stroke edge over runners-up Tommy Bolt, Dick Crawford and Gardner Dickinson.

MONTEBELLO — Kathy Whitworth of Coronado Springs, N.M. won the $2,325 Ladies Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament by four strokes with a four-under-par 212.

FOOTBALL

Deaths due to football injuries occurred in three different locations yesterday.

In Lexington, Ky., Greg Page, 19, a sophomore end for the University of Kentucky died after 38 days of paralysis from the neck down, being injured in a routine, no contact drill. In Chattanooga, Tenn., Mike Perkins, 18, a Chattanooga Central High School end, died in a coma two days after suffering a head injury in blocking on an end-sweep play in a high school game. And in Portland, Ore., John Louis Dierick, 16, co-captain of the Gladstone High School grid team, died Saturday night after undergoing brain surgery for a game injury suffered 24 hours earlier.

TENNIS

MADRID — Martin Mulligan of Australia defeated Spanish star Manuel Santana 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 10-8, in the singles final of the Real Madrid Tennis Tournament.

SWIMMING

LONDON — Catie Ball, 15, Jacksonville, Fla., shattered two world records and shared a third in leading the U.S. swimmers to a 92-68 victory over Britain in an international meet.

AUTO RACING

Clark of Scotland, driving a Lotus Ford, averaged 120.95 miles per hour and won the U.S. Grand Prix.

SACRAMENTO — A.J. Foyt of Houston, leader for national championship driving laurels on the USAC circuit, added antoher victory when he staved off Marion Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and won the Golden State 100 at the California State Fair Grounds.

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. — Richard Petty scooted home in his stock Plymouth a lap ahead of Dick Hutcherson to win the Wilkes 400.

TANFORAN — Kic Back, $61.60, captured the San Francisco Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Red Sox Complete Cinderella Story

JUST ONCE

Although Yastrzemski finished with 44 homers, tied with Harmon Killebrew of the Twins, he said he was going for the homer only once—the first time up.

"When I came up with the bases full in the sixth," he said, "I kept telling myself 'don't go for the home run, go for the base hit.' When I scored (I guess it was the fourth run of the inning) I said to Lonny "I owned you something and now I got you even. Go get 'em.' "

More

Yastrzemski finished with 10 hits in his last 13 at bats, a .326 average, 121 runs batted in, 44 homers and a .622 slugging average.

"Yaz carried the club all year," said Lonborg, who arrived in the clubhouse breathless after being pummeled by the wildly excited fans. His undershirt had vanished and he wore only his uniform shirt.

MANIA

"It was sheer mania," he said. "I couldn't even see the dugout. They pushed me out to right field. I was beginning to wonder how I was going to get out of it. They were hysterical. I wore a sweat shirt when I went out but it's gone."

Lonborg started the winning rally by beating out a bunt, his second hit off loser Dean Chance. With the Sox trailing 2-0 when he came to bat in the sixth, he feared he might be lifted for a pinch hitter.

"I went to the bat rack as soon as I came in," he said. "I looked at Dick (Williams) and he said 'get on base.' The bunt was my idea. I had done it a lot this year, so when Chance came down the middle with a fast ball I bunted."

The big right-hander provided his own incentive, if any was needed. He had inked the numbers "$10,000" on his glove last week in Baltimore.

Drake Defense Shuts Out Novato In League Opener

three for the score. John Brown slashed over for the conversion, making it 13-0 with 2:09 left.

Dillon — under constant pressure from Stich, Don Alvarado, Hersmeyer, and Perry Heddin — was thrown for repeated losses in the last period as he tried desperately to get his team back in the ball game. With the Pirate line limiting the Hornets' ground attack to a pitiful minus 22, Dillon had little chance to avoid the rush, yet less reason to run.

PIRATE TD

A first-down pass was picked off by Drake's Clark Jamison, who scampered 49 yards to score behind good blocking. The snap from center was high on the conversion, giving Hedin the chance all linemen dream of — to run with the ball. He looked good, too, tearing around end for the PAT.

Novato Coach Al Scott was disappointed with his offense's inability to move the ball (just three first downs) but fairly content with the defense. "I thought the defense did pretty well, considering they were on the field 90 per cent of the time," said Scott. "We made some mistakes, but Drake just has a fine team. I think they're the team to beat for the championship.

Next Saturday, Novato faces dangerous Tamalpais in another Marin County Athletic Leage game at College of Marin, with Dillon set for a pitching duel with Tam's Don Mackin, while Drake plays San Francisco powerhouse St. Ignatius in a non-league game on the same field Saturday night. St. Ignatius beat Downey of Modesto 27-7 Saturday.

Francheschini has scouted SI, and considers them "one of the best teams in Northern California. We have a tough schedule, but I think that's how the boys learn, by playing the best."

McCormick Finishes As 22-Game Winner

The din was terrific today in the Boston Red Sox but a lot of cheers also were in order for Mike McCormick, the southpaw who turned doubters into believers.

The 30 year old veteran climaxed his finest season yesterday with his 22nd win of the year as he hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

McCormick finished the season with a 22-10 mark and became the first Giant lefty to hit the 22 victory circle since Carl Hubbell won that number in 1937.

Going the distance for the 14th time in 35 starts, McCormick struck out eight Phils and didn't allow a walk.

He had joined the club last spring from Washington amid assumptions that he would be used on a spot basis. But he firmly said he had come to be a starter and stuck around to do it.

Willie McCovey tied the game yesterday with a pinch single in the eighth off loser Dick Farrell and then Ken Henderson's sacrifice fly won it in the same frame. Both runs were unearned as a result of an error by second baseman Cookie Rojas who failed to touch first base after taking the throw on McCormick's sacrifice bunt.

Jim Bunning hurled the first seven innings for the Phils and fanned ten Giants to take over seventh place on the all-time strike out list with a career total of 2,398.

A crowd of 33,615 came to see the game and also take a chance on winning a car in the Giants annual raffle. The season's overall home attendance was 1,424,480—414,712 behind the 1966 turnout.

Cokes 7-5 Pick To Whip Shipes

OAKLAND (AP) — Curtis Cokes fights to eliminate any objection to his world welterweight boxing championship tonight when he meets hungry Californian Charlies Shipes at the Oakland Arena.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, starting at 9:30 p.m. PDT, the bout matches two boxers possessing tools to end it more quickly with a knockout.

Cokes, of Dallas, captured the World Boxing Association crown by winning the tournament to determine a successor in the 147-pound divison when Emile Griffith captured the middleweight championship.

Because Shipes was bypassed in the tournament, the California Athletic Commission recognized him as world champion when he stopped Percy Manning of Philadelphia in the 10th round last December.

Despite the divided title claim, Cokes rates as a 7-5 favorite and will collect more than three times the money Shipes will get.

Shipes has watched Cokes on television. The Texan never has seen the Californian box, either in person or via video.

"I don't think that's a disadvantage," Cokes declared. "What he does against another guy, he might not do against you."

Shipes, who has been beaten only once in 30 fights, acknowledged he had a plan for Cokes but would not divulge it.

"He's a thinking fighter who can also punch a little," Charlie said as he finished training. "I'll win. I'm always looking for a knockout, but I never predict a knockout."

Cokes, with a 48-8-1 record, figures he'll need a couple of rounds to study Shipes' style.

Of his over-all plan, Curtis said, "I'll try to set him up. If I have the opportunity for a knockout, I'll try to take advantage of it."

Should the fight go the route, the referee and two judges will decide the champion by vote. The winner of each round receives one to five points, depending on the margin of his superiority.

Shipes' manager Dick Sadler, who has clamored nearly a year to get this title shot, declared, "Cokes must be lucky if he takes the championship back to Texas . . . it will take a lucky punch to get him past Charles."

Sadler spent 10 years as trainer for Archie Moore, so knows well the rudiments of the boxing business.

Now he has a fighter who has scored half his victories via knockouts, and Sadler figures that, despite a three-inch disadvantage in reach, Shipes can outpunch Cokes.

Shipes never has made enough from boxing lone to support his wife and two daughters. In recent years he has worked in a foundry and as a teamster. This time Shipes gets $11,000, but Cokes gets a $42,500 guarantee.

Henry Winston, promoting his first boxing match, figures a gate of $76,000 will be needed for him to break even.

Television plans were wiped out because of a strike against the American Broadcasting Co.

of two touchdowns for the hard-hitting halfback. He finished the night with 21 carries, good for 82 yeards, intercepted a pair of Peters passes and caught another three passes from Terra Linda quarterback Dave Edson.

Ken Murray, a swift halfback for the Trojans, suffered a slight head concussion while making a cracking tackle on Redwood's Charles Edmondson in the first period.

Although the Trojans went into the game with a fat doubtful starter list that included Powell, halfback Gary Sager and rack-em-up linebacker Dane Larsen, the walking wounded came through in fine form.

As Molly Goldberg used to say, "We should all be as healthy."

Pacific-8 Grid Teams Reverse Their Scripts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Get the Big Ten!

After years of being shoved around in early season games by Big Ten teams, the Pacific Eight gridders are changing the script.

Third-ranked Southern California, the Golden Bears of California and Oregon State's Beavers all knocked off Big Ten teams to spice last Saturday's football intersectionals.

USC defeated Michigan State, still shocked by its Houston lacing, 21-17; California upset Michigan, 10-9, with the aid of a 77-yard pass-play from sub quarterback Randy Humphries to John McGaffie in the dying minutes and Oregon State battered Iowa, 38-18.

Only one Pac Eight-Big Ten clash is on the docket next Saturday—Ohio State at Oregon.

Other key games involving Pac Eight teams find second ranked UCLA at Penn State, Stanford at Southern California and Oregon State at Washington in a brace of conference tilts, the Air Force at California and winless Washington State at Baylor.

Unitas And Mates Bomb 49ers; Rams Win Another

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The blonde flanker back in the blue and white miniskirt feints a corner back out of position and daintily gathers in a perfect pass from Johnny Unitas.

What, Johnny Unitas—The Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts—playing football with the girls?

Of course not. It's just a vision—the kind San Francisco coach Jack Christiansen had after the great quarterback dazzled the 49ers and led the Colts to a 41-7 victory in a National Football League game yesterday.

"As long as the Colts have Unitas, they could play nine or 10 girls and still beat other teams," Christiansen said.

While Unitas was impressing Christiansen and undermining the 49ers, things were continuing to go badly for his Green Bay counterpart Bart Starr.

Starr, who had nine passes intercepted, compared to three all last season, as the Packers tied and won in their first two games, was forced out of action in the first period of yesterday's game with Atlanta by a strained muscle in his throwing arm. Zeke Bratkowski came in to lead the Packers to a 23-0 victory.

RAMS ROLL

In other NFL games, Los Angeles smashed Dallas 35-13, St. Louis upset Detroit 38-28, Washington outlasted New York 38-34, Philadelphia topped Pittsburgh 34-24, Cleveland trounced New Orleans 42-7 and Chicago got past Minnesota 17-7.

"He gets better all the time. He's the greatest quarterback I've ever seen," Christiansen said after watching Unitas complete 22 of 37 passes for 353 yards and two touchdowns as the Colts built their record to 3-0. Unitas left the game with nearly eight minutes left.

San Francisco, now 2-1, didn't score until late in the third quarter when John Brodie hit Dave Parks with a 10-yard pass.

When asked how serious the injury to Starr was, Packer Coach Vince Lombardi snapped: "How should I know? He could be ready now. He could be ready next week."

In his absence, Bratkowski hit Carrol Dale with a pair of TD passes. Ben Wilson scored on an 11-yard run, and the defense did the rest, racking up a safety and stifling the Atlanta attack.

Los Angeles also boosted its record to 3-0 in handing the Cowboys their first setback. Roman Gabriel ran for two Los Angeles touchdowns and Dick Bass ran for one. The Rams defense allowed only one sustained Dallas drive.

Jim Hart, pressed into actio after quarterback Charley John son went into the Army, passe for 313 yards and two touch downs on 19 of 27 completion and John Roland scored twic on one-yard runs and again on six-yard jaunt in St. Louis' up set of the Lions. Milt Plun passed for two Detroit scores.

Jim Bakken of St. Louis tie an NFL record held by Cleve land's Lou Groza by kicking field goal for the 14th straigh game.

110 YARDS

Bobby Mitchell ran for 11 yards and a touchdown in 2 carries and Sonny Jurgense threw for two TDs in Washing ton's victory. Fran Tarkento also passed for two scores an Ernie Koy rushed 14 times fo 160 yards and a TD for New York.

Cokes 7-5 Pick To Whip Shipes

OAKLAND (AP) — Curtis Cokes fights to eliminate any objection to his world welterweight boxing championship tonight when he meets hungry Californian Charlies Shipes at the Oakland Arena.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, starting at 9:30 p.m. PDT, the bout matches two boxers possessing tools to end it more quickly with a knockout.

Cokes, of Dallas, captured the World Boxing Association crown by winning the tournament to determine a successor in the 147-pound divison when Emile Griffith captured the middleweight championship.

Because Shipes was bypassed in the tournament, the California Athletic Commission recognized him as world champion when he stopped Percy Manning of Philadelphia in the 10th round last December.

Despite the divided title claim, Cokes rates as a 7-5 favorite and will collect more than three times the money Shipes will get.

Shipes has watched Cokes on television. The Texan never has seen the Californian box, either in person or via video.

"I don't think that's a disadvantage," Cokes declared. "What he does against another guy, he might not do against you."

Shipes, who has been beaten only once in 30 fights, acknowledged he had a plan for Cokes but would not divulge it.

"He's a thinking fighter who can also punch a little," Charlie said as he finished training. "I'll win. I'm always looking for a knockout, but I never predict a knockout."

Cokes, with a 48-8-1 record, figures he'll need a couple of rounds to study Shipes' style.

Of his over-all plan, Curtis said, "I'll try to set him up. If I have the opportunity for a knockout, I'll try to take advantage of it."

Should the fight go the route, the referee and two judges will decide the champion by vote. The winner of each round receives one to five points, depending on the margin of his superiority.

Shipes' manager Dick Sadler, who has clamored nearly a year to get this title shot, declared, "Cokes must be lucky if he takes the championship back to Texas . . . it will take a lucky punch to get him past Charles."

Sadler spent 10 years as trainer for Archie Moore, so knows well the rudiments of the boxing business.

Now he has a fighter who has scored half his victories via knockouts, and Sadler figures that, despite a three-inch disadvantage in reach, Shipes can outpunch Cokes.

Shipes never has made enough from boxing lone to support his wife and two daughters. In recent years he has worked in a foundry and as a teamster. This time Shipes gets $11,000, but Cokes gets a $42,500 guarantee.

Henry Winston, promoting his first boxing match, figures a gate of $76,000 will be needed for him to break even.

Television plans were wiped out because of a strike against the American Broadcasting Co.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Oct. 2, the 275th day of 1967 with 90 to follow.

The moon is between the last quarter and new stage. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Born on this day in 1869 was Indian religious leader Mohandas Gandhi.

On this day in history:

In 1790, British spy Maj. John Andrew was convicted in connection with Benedict Arnold's treason and hanged in Tappan, N.Y.

In 1889, 16 Latin American nations were represented at the first Pan-American Conference in Washington.

In 1960, a bomb blast in New York City's Times Square injured several hundred persons.

A thought for the day — French essayist Michel de Montaigne once said: "Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know."

NO TROUBLE

At the first table of a recent team match South had no trouble making four hearts. West took the ace of diamonds and led a diamond to the king.

South gave up a trick to the ace of trumps and later lost a club finesse to the king. South scored 420 points for his non-vulnerable game.

North grumbled that he could have collected 800 points against two spades doubled, but South was unimpressed. "I'd bid it again," he insisted.

HEART JUMP

At the other table of the match the South player had the same feeling against passing a low double, but he made sure the situation wouldn't arise. At his second turn South jumped to four hearts instead of bidding a tame two clubs.

FEELS PRESSURE

West felt the pressure. If East had as little as the king of spades and the queen of diamonds there might be a cold game at spades. So West bid four spades, and North doubled quietly but firmly.

South opened the king of hearts, taken by West's ace. Declarer led out the ace of diamonds and another diamond to the king. South continued hearts, and when dummy (West) ruffed the third heart, North discarded a club. Declarer gave up a diamond to the queen, and North led out three rounds of spades.

SPADE WINNER

Declarer managed to win this in the East hand with the eight of spades in order to lead a club, but it didn't help. South took the ace of clubs and led a third heart so that North could get rid of his last club while East ruffed. North took the last two tricks, for a penalty of 1,400 points. It pays to be tough!

Pledge To Welshman Broken Too Soon

Bala, Wales (UPI)—Member of parliament William Edwards rose confidently to address the Welsh Royal National Eisteddfod, a program of song and poetry. He had received a promise from the Ministry of Defense that no Royal Air Force jets would fly over the events.

Edwards had just opened his mouth to speak when two RAF jets screamed low overhead, completely drowning out whatever he said.

No Smoke Signals?

LEWELLEN, Neb. (AP) — Indian squaws using modern walkie-talkies hidden in their blankets helped coordinate the Ash Hollow Centennial pageant held on a vast outdoor stage. The stage director, Mrs. Dolores Dailey, reached far-flung limits of the "theater" on horseback. The pageant re-enacted one of the most perilous segments of the entire Oregon Trail—the treacherous descent down Windlass Hill into Ash Hollow, a few miles from here.

Pancake House Chain To Acquire Orange Julius

LOS ANGELES (AP)—International Industries, Inc., has acquired Orange Julius of America for approximately $3 million in cash and long-term notes.

Al Lapin Jr., International president, said the company will become part of his firm as the Orange Julius Division.

International Industries operates approximately 200 units of a national pancake restaurant, other restaurants and clothing stores and has announced plans to acquire a chain of Southern California business schools.

Orange Julius has its headquarters in Los Angeles and operates 285 franchised refreshment centers in the United States, Puerto Rico, and Canada.

Stocks Close With Losses; Trade Active

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed with a substantial loss in moderately active trading today.

Declines among individual stocks exceeded advances by more than 200 issues. In early trading gains had an edge of 140.

Prices were at about their lowest levels at the final bell.

Changes of key issues ranged from fractions to 2 points or so.

Rubbers, Mail Order retails, farm implements, rails, oils and airlines were mostly lower.

Aircrafts advanced with RCA and Raytheon ahead about a point.

The averages were pulled down by losses of nearly 3 points by Du Pont and more than a point by Eastman Kodak.

Scott Paper, up almost 2 points, appeared headed for the top of the day's most-active list.

Amphenol, which is merging with Sangamo Electric, was actively traded and fell more than 2 points.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

The first passenger flight in history took place May 14, 1908, with Wilbur Wright piloting Charles Furnas in a Wright plane at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Quick-Kill Plan Rarely Works Out

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "I am 33 and have a good job. I have been fighting the stock market, trying to make a quick killing and it has not worked out. I hold Olin Mathieson and Square D. Both of these have been profitable. I also own United States Filter and Giant Yellowknife. In these I have a loss. I want strong stocks for my children's future. What do you advise me to do?"—R.M.

A. I congratulate you on gaining at an early age a knowledge that some men never acquire. Trying for a quick killing in the market rarely works out. It is no coincidence that your two good stocks — Olin and Square D — show you a profit and your two remaining issues, which are speculations, show a loss. I would keep Olin and Square D and sell the others. I suggest that the proceeds be reinvested in Walgreen and American Home Products.

Q. "We are ten years from retirement and would like to make plans. My husband earns $200 a week but my mother and father are ill and we provide them with care and $200 monthly for food, medicine, etc. We have $40,000 in savings and loan; $5,000 in E bonds; Colgate-Palmolive stock and Consolidated Edison. Please advise us if our investments are right to take care of retirement."—B.T.

A. I should first like to commend you warmly for taking such good care of your mother and father. I believe that too much of your capital is fixed and can't grow in value to offset further devaluation of the dollar. Your $40,000 in savings — except for interest accruals — will be $40,000 ten years from now. I would leave my E bonds undisturbed, retain $10,000 in savings and invest $30,000 in good growth stocks such as Consolidated Foods, Georgia-Pacific, and Merck. I would hold Colgate but switch Consolidated Edison into Texas Utilities.

Famous war correspondent Ernie Pyle gave his home to the city of Albuquerque, N.M., to be used as a memorial library.

No Smoke Signals?

LEWELLEN, Neb. (AP) — Indian squaws using modern walkie-talkies hidden in their blankets helped coordinate the Ash Hollow Centennial pageant held on a vast outdoor stage. The stage director, Mrs. Dolores Dailey, reached far-flung limits of the "theater" on horseback. The pageant re-enacted one of the most perilous segments of the entire Oregon Trail —the treacherous descent down Windlass Hill into Ash Hollow, a few miles from here.

Pancake House Chain To Acquire Orange Julius

LOS ANGELES (AP)—International Industries, Inc., has acquired Orange Julius of America for approximately $3 million in cash and long-term notes.

Al Lapin Jr., International president, said the company will become part of his firm as the Orange Julius Division.

International Industries operates approximately 200 units of a national pancake restaurant, other restaurants and clothing stores and has announced plans to acquire a chain of Southern California business schools.

Orange Julius has its headquarters in Los Angeles and operates 285 franchised refreshment centers in the United States, Puerto Rico, and Canada.

Stocks Close With Losses; Trade Active

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed with a substantial loss in moderately active trading today.

Declines among individual stocks exceeded advances by more than 200 issues. In early trading gains had an edge of 140.

Prices were at about their lowest levels at the final bell.

Changes of key issues ranged from fractions to 2 points or so.

Rubbers, Mail Order retails, farm implements, rails, oils and airlines were mostly lower.

Aircrafts advanced with RCA and Raytheon ahead about a point.

The averages were pulled down by losses of nearly 3 points by Du Pont and more than a point by Eastman Kodak.

Scott Paper, up almost 2 points, appeared headed for the top of the day's most-active list.

Amphenol, which is merging with Sangamo Electric, was actively traded and fell more than 2 points.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Quick-Kill Plan Rarely Works Out

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "I am 33 and have a good job. I have been fighting the stock market, trying to make a quick killing and it has not worked out. I hold Olin Mathieson and Square D. Both of these have been profitable. I also own United States Filter and Giant Yellowknife. In these I have a loss. I want strong stocks for my children's future. What do you advise me to do?"—R.M.

A. I congratulate you on gaining at an early age a knowledge that some men never acquire. Trying for a quick killing in the market rarely works out. It is no coincidence that your two good stocks — Olin and Square D — show you a profit and your two remaining issues, which are speculations, show a loss. I would keep Olin and Square D and sell the others. I suggest that the proceeds be reinvested in Walgreen and American Home Products.

Q. "We are ten years from retirement and would like to make plans. My husband earns $200 a week but my mother and father are ill and we provide them with care and $200 monthly for food, medicine, etc. We have $40,000 in savings and loan; $5,000 in E bonds; Colgate-Palmolive stock and Consolidated Edison. Please advise us if our investments are right to take care of retirement."—B.T.

A. I should first like to commend you warmly for taking such good care of your mother and father. I believe that too much of your capital is fixed and can't grow in value to offset further devaluation of the dollar. Your $40,000 in savings — except for interest accruals — will be $40,000 ten years from now. I would leave my E bonds undisturbed, retain $10,000 in savings and invest $30,000 in good growth stocks such as Consolidated Foods, Georgia-Pacific, and Merck. I would hold Colgate but switch Consolidated Edison into Texas Utilities.

Famous war correspondent Ernie Pyle gave his home to the city of Albuquerque, N.M., to be used as a memorial library.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW BEFORE YOU INVEST IN MUTUAL FUNDS

If you are like most people, you want to know the product you're considering before you buy it. That's why we believe you'll find some interesting food for thought in our 14-page Booklet "Understanding The Mutual Funds". It explains the different types of funds you can select from, candidly discusses the advantages, risks and costs, and tells how investments are selected and supervised for you by full-time professionals. WHAT'S IT WORTH?

Have you ever tried to estimate the worth of a piece of real estate? It isn't easy. Property values are influenced by many factors. Location, market demands, condition, etc. A Realtor is qualified to evaluate the worth of real estate because real estate is his business. A Realtor is no ordinary real estate broker. He must be accepted by the National Real Estate Board before he can use the term Realtor. He must pledge to be honest, sincere and to provide maximum benefit to his clients. Don't take chances when buying real estate.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?

Have you ever tried to estimate the worth of a piece of real estate? It isn't easy. Property values are influenced by many factors. Location, market demands, condition, etc. A Realtor is qualified to evaluate the worth of real estate because real estate is his business. A Realtor is no ordinary real estate broker. He must be accepted by the National Real Estate Board before he can use the term Realtor. He must pledge to be honest, sincere and to provide maximum benefit to his clients. Don't take chances when buying real estate.

MY FAIR LADY

Eliza Doolittle would feel right at home in this stately country mansion with its touches of Edwardian grandeur and magnificent English-style gardens. Built in 1906 and modernized over the years, this venerable estate has seen the great and near-great enter its baronial hall and gather in the drawing room and high-ceilinged music room. The dining room, with its breakfast alcove, has seated as many as 30 for dinner, and the social room with wet bar will hold dozens for more casual entertaining. 8 bedrooms, 6½ baths, 2 caretakers' cottages —& all within the 2⅓ acres of grounds in the heart of old Ross.

MY FAIR LADY

Eliza Doolittle would feel right at home in this stately country mansion with its touches of Edwardian grandeur and magnificent English-style gardens. Built in 1906 and modernized over the years, this venerable estate has seen the great and near-great enter its baronial hall and gather in the drawing room and high-ceilinged music room. The dining room, with its breakfast alcove, has seated as many as 30 for dinner, and the social room with wet bar will hold dozens for more casual entertaining. 8 bedrooms, 6½ baths, 2 caretakers' cottages —& all within the 2⅓ acres of grounds in the heart of old Ross.

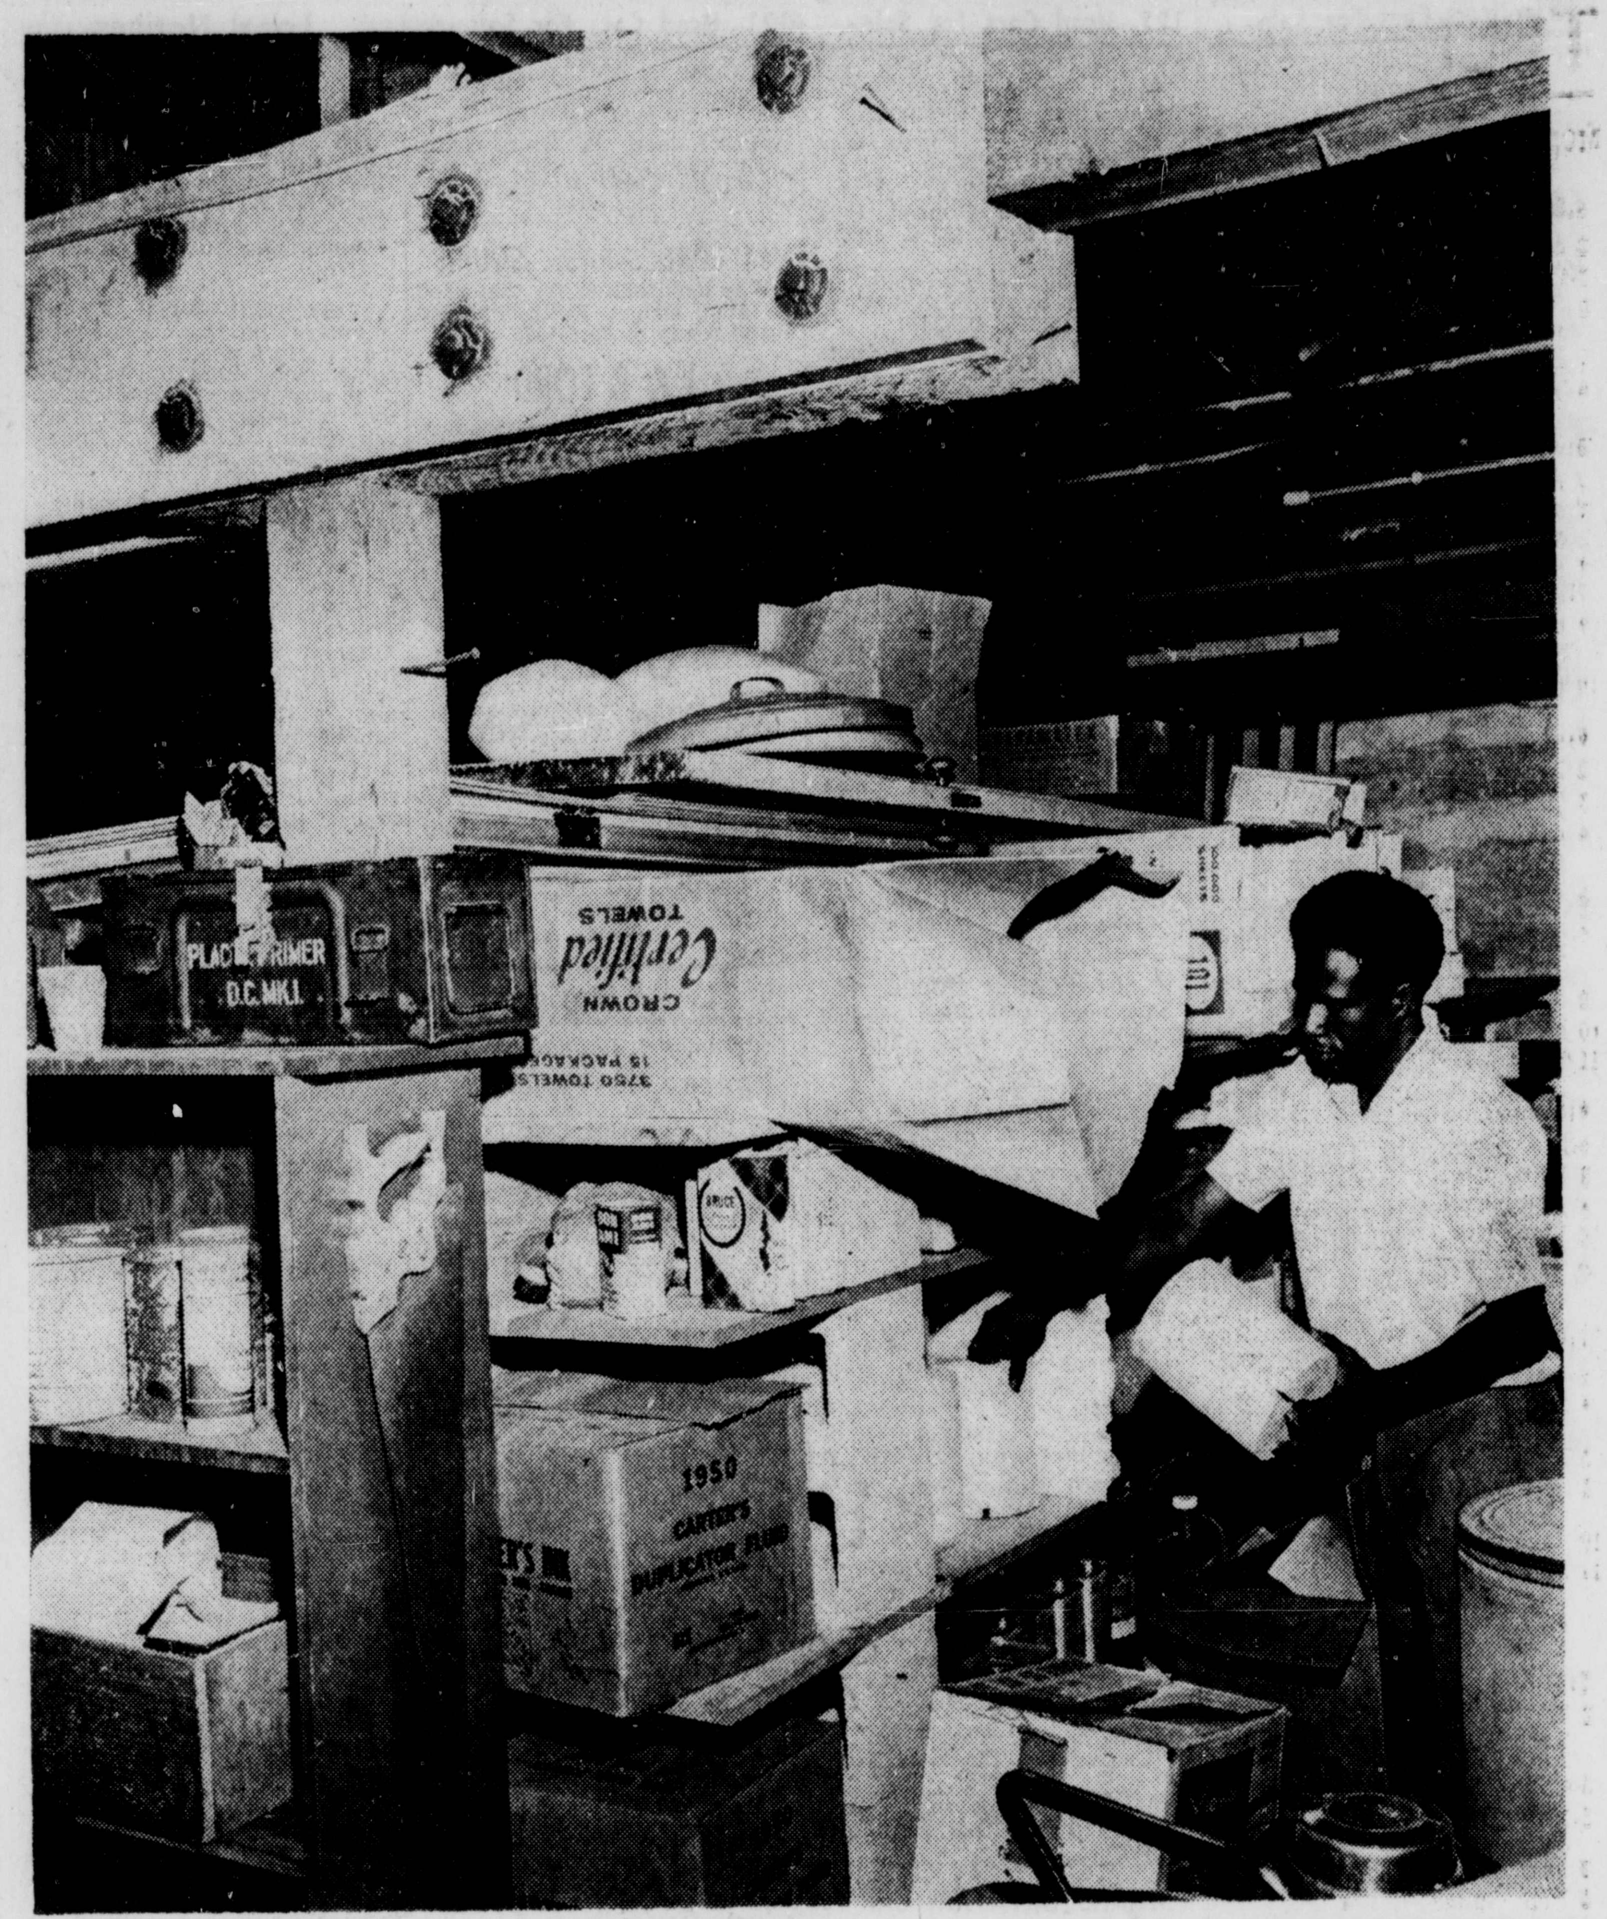
BAYSIDE SCHOOL — Pupils file out for recess from Bayside School, which was constructed during World War II in connection with Marinship shipbuilding yards in Sausalito. It was used as a storehouse, recreation building and first aid station before being converted to a school. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



CENTRAL SCHOOL — Under the rafters in the basement of Central School, constructed in 1927, custodian James Morgan places materials on overcrowded plank shelves balanced on boards.

Crowded Sausalito Schools Showing Signs Of Old Age

Voters in the Sausalito School District will be asked Oct. 10 to approve a $1.4 million bond issue to build the first half of a $3.4 million educational park which would ultimately house up to 1,200 students on the 13-acre site of the present Bayside School.

The district, which now has no bonded debt, would be indebted to its legal limit by the $1.4 million issue, which would be augmented by $452,000 from other sources to build a school plant for 750 pupils from kindergarten through fourth grade.

COUNTY FUNDS

Marin County would provide $209,000, the Marin County Housing Authority $173,00 and the state $70,000 under agreements already made.

The K-4 plant would replace the present Bayside School, the Manzanita kindergarten in Marin City and Central School.

Money to complete the plant for fifth through eighth grades would come a few years from now from the sale of the Central and Richardson Bay school sites. Richardson Bay now houses fifth through eighth grades.

The greatest part of the bond payments could come from savings in maintenance, administration and operating costs, according to David E. Freedheim, Sausalito School District board president.

SAVINGS SEEN

Freedheim said an estimated $62,000 a year could be saved in costs, and additional savings when the complete 1,200-student facility is built could total $91,000 a year.

The annual cost of a 25-year bond issue for $1.4 million would range from $65,000 to $100,000, Freedheim said. He said Frank Bosl, manager of the Sausalito branch of Bank of America, estimated that costs based on 3½ per cent interest, would be $75,000 the first year, $65,000 a year for second through fifth years, and $100,000 a year for the remaining years.

The school board expects nearly all the bond cost can be paid by the operational savings, by an increasing tax base in the district, and by sale of other school property and the further savings from the second-stage construction.

A NECESSITY

According to Freedheim, failure to build new schools is more likely to cause a tax increase eventually because of "rising costs' . . . to cover depreciating and deteriorating buildings."

Freedheim also warned that if the district does not use its bonding ability for its own schools, now, the bonds might be demanded later to build schools for Marincello or to help pay off debts of other schools if the district is unified with other areas.

Central School was built in 1926, and Bayside was originally built during World War II as temporary ofifce space for Marinship.

AGAINST BONDS

The Sausalito School District voters committee, which wrote the ballot arguments against the bond issue, gave six reasons to oppose the plan.

The school is too costly at $3.4 million, the committee says. It cites plans at Mill Valley for a middle school to house 1,200 students at a cost of $1.8 million. The committee also says the school is too big, 50 per cent larger than most schools for the number of students planned.

The committee says staff increases will be required for the new plant, and maintenance savings will disappear as the school ages.

VALUES HIT

Plans to sell the Richardson Bay site are based on "unrealistically high" values and the money raised will not finance completion of the new plant. At the same time, by disposing of other sites, the district would restrict itself to one minimal size school site despite possible future changes in site needs.

The committee also objects to "lavish" school plans, asking if facilities are needed for "jewelry making, ceramics, sculpture and weaving."

Architects' plans for the K-4 plant are only in the schematic stage, according to Sol Silver of Weisbach, Boutmy and Silver, but he gave cost estimates for the main elements. Over-all, costs were estimated at $18.20 per square foot of building

DEMOLITION COSTS

Demolition of present Bayside buildings, rough grading, moving culverts, relocating utility lines and other earth work would cost an estimated $137,000.

Soils testing, surveys and possible land acquisition are estimated at $65,000.

Site development is estimated at $183,000, a figure including turfing, landscaping, fencing, installation of playgrounds and the like.

Kindergarten construction will cost $108,000. General classrooms for first through fourth grades will cost $520,000. Another $134,000 will go for the library and communications center, which includes audio-visual areas, the library office, teacher work areas, toilets and a small computer center.

GUIDANCE CENTER

The guidance center is to cost $18,000 and $34,500 will go for administrative offices and $21,000 for the health services area.

Physical Education, assembly and performing areas will cost $104,000.

Augmenting the performing and assembly areas and the $75,000 kitchen-dining areas will be a multiple-use and circulation area costing an estimated $175,000.

PLANNING FEES

Fees for architects, engineering, inspection, testing and consultants are estimated at $168,000 total. Another $84,000 has been allowed for contingencies.

Silver said the totals in the schematic plan stage are necessarily "very crude," and the school board has ordered them reduced to $1.8 million in the preliminary planning stage.

If the bond issue is approved the school would be ready for occupancy in January 1970, using "outside figures," Silver said.

DESIGN TIME

He said the estimated timetable is four months for design, seven months to prepare contracts, working drawings and get needed governmental approvals, a month to circulate bids and a month to negotiate a contract and authorize construction.

Construction would take 14 months.

Relative-Looking Hobby Produces 100 Of The Clan

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Frank W. Bieser, of Denver, Colo., at age 70, has a hobby—looking for other Biesers. His latest Bieser reunion in St. Louis brought about 100 of the Biesers together.

The Bieser-hunter believes that all the Biesers may trace their ancestry to Valentin Bieser, born in Germany in 1754. Bieser said he didn't meet any Biesers outside his immediate family until 43 years ago when he met one in Chicago. That's when he started rounding up Biesers.

His search brought out the fact that there are 261 Bieser families in the United States—sisters, brothers and cousins.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Skin Graft A Slow But Helpful Cure For Worst Of Leg Ulcers

VAN DELLEN

Skin grafting may hasten healing of stubborn leg ulcers. The ulcerated area is excised and replaced with normal skin from other parts of the body. This procedure is not an "in the hospital one day and out the next" affair, nor is it effective in all kinds of ulcers.

Often the first step is attention to the causative factor such as infection or poor circulation. Six weeks may be needed to prepare the limb for a new skin covering.

THE GRAFT will not "take" unless it remains healthy and receives enough nourishment to live. But when it takes root, cure is likely. In addition, scarring is minimal and discoloration is absent.

Leg ulcers stem from many origins. Varicose veins and inflammation of a deep vein with clot formation (thrombophlebitis) are common causes. The blood flow is sluggish and the tissues become waterlogged and unhealthy.

Any injury at this time leads to ulceration, and healing is slow unless circulation is improved. This is done via bed rest, by elevating the leg, or by wearing a rubber bandage or elastic stocking.

OBESITY, trauma, infection, milk leg, and hardening of the arteries are other causes. The last is the most prevalent origin of leg ulcer in oldsters and the most difficult to heal.

Pressure dressings are effective in ordinary leg ulcer. The lesion is cleansed thoroughly with soap and water and covered with a sterile sponge or foam rubber pad, held in place with an elastic bandage, extending from toes to knees.

COMMON GOLD leaf is a recent innovation for skin ulcers. Thin gold leaf is applied with a brush that is charged with static electricity. Several layers are used, and replating may be needed every other day. Gold stimulates healing.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies reqeust to the I-J.)

KIDNEY STONES

S. H. M. writes: How are stones in the kidney acquired?

REPLY

Stones are likely to develop when certain chemicals crystallize in the urine. They mat together, usually around a central core of debris or infected material. These crystals rarely cause trouble until they grow large enough to obstruct or irritate the urinary passageways.

OVERBREATHING

S. B. S. writes: How can I overcome the habit of taking too many deep breaths?

REPLY

Conscious effort and willpower are needed to break any bad habit. Deep breathing often is induced by anxiety and when the person stops thinking about himself or his problems, the symptom disappears spontaneously.

OLD AND NEW

Mrs. H. writes: Is consumption the same as tuberculosis?

REPLY

In the past the word consumption was used to denote pulmonary tuberculosis, probably because the victim wasted away or was consumed by the infection.

SINUS AND DIVING

T. C. B. writes: I'm getting over a nose cold and my mother won't let me dive. Can you tell me why?

REPLY

Because pressure may force purulent material into the sinuses or through the eustachian tubes into the ears.

PAP TEST

Mrs. W. writes: If a woman in her first month of pregnancy is given a Pap smear, will she have a miscarriage or harm the child?

REPLY

No.

BONE MARROW STUDIES

D. H. J. writes: What is the purpose of testing the bone marrow?

REPLY

Many forms of blood cells are manufactured in the bone. Study of the marrow shows the physician what the factory is producing. Thus bone marrow studies are of value in differentiating the various types of leukemia and other blood disorders.

Skin Graft A Slow But Helpful Cure For Worst Of Leg Ulcers

VAN DELLEN

Skin grafting may hasten healing of stubborn leg ulcers. The ulcerated area is excised and replaced with normal skin from other parts of the body. This procedure is not an "in the hospital one day and out the next" affair, nor is it effective in all kinds of ulcers.

Often the first step is attention to the causative factor such as infection or poor circulation. Six weeks may be needed to prepare the limb for a new skin covering.

THE GRAFT will not "take" unless it remains healthy and receives enough nourishment to live. But when it takes root, cure is likely. In addition, scarring is minimal and discoloration is absent.

Leg ulcers stem from many origins. Varicose veins and inflammation of a deep vein with clot formation (thrombophlebitis) are common causes. The blood flow is sluggish and the tissues become waterlogged and unhealthy.

Any injury at this time leads to ulceration, and healing is slow unless circulation is improved. This is done via bed rest, by elevating the leg, or by wearing a rubber bandage or elastic stocking.

OBESITY, trauma, infection, milk leg, and hardening of the arteries are other causes. The last is the most prevalent origin of leg ulcer in oldsters and the most difficult to heal.

Pressure dressings are effective in ordinary leg ulcer. The lesion is cleansed thoroughly with soap and water and covered with a sterile sponge or foam rubber pad, held in place with an elastic bandage, extending from toes to knees.

COMMON GOLD leaf is a recent innovation for skin ulcers. Thin gold leaf is applied with a brush that is charged with static electricity. Several layers are used, and replating may be needed every other day. Gold stimulates healing.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies reqeust to the I-J.)

KIDNEY STONES

S. H. M. writes: How are stones in the kidney acquired?

REPLY

Stones are likely to develop when certain chemicals crystallize in the urine. They mat together, usually around a central core of debris or infected material. These crystals rarely cause trouble until they grow large enough to obstruct or irritate the urinary passageways.

OVERBREATHING

S. B. S. writes: How can I overcome the habit of taking too many deep breaths?

REPLY

Conscious effort and willpower are needed to break any bad habit. Deep breathing often is induced by anxiety and when the person stops thinking about himself or his problems, the symptom disappears spontaneously.

OLD AND NEW

Mrs. H. writes: Is consumption the same as tuberculosis?

REPLY

In the past the word consumption was used to denote pulmonary tuberculosis, probably because the victim wasted away or was consumed by the infection.

SINUS AND DIVING

T. C. B. writes: I'm getting over a nose cold and my mother won't let me dive. Can you tell me why?

REPLY

Because pressure may force purulent material into the sinuses or through the eustachian tubes into the ears.

PAP TEST

Mrs. W. writes: If a woman in her first month of pregnancy is given a Pap smear, will she have a miscarriage or harm the child?

REPLY

No.

BONE MARROW STUDIES

D. H. J. writes: What is the purpose of testing the bone marrow?

REPLY

Many forms of blood cells are manufactured in the bone. Study of the marrow shows the physician what the factory is producing. Thus bone marrow studies are of value in differentiating the various types of leukemia and other blood disorders.

Crowded Sausalito Schools Showing Signs Of Old Age

Voters in the Sausalito School District will be asked Oct. 10 to approve a $1.4 million bond issue to build the first half of a $3.4 million educational park which would ultimately house up to 1,200 students on the 13-acre site of the present Bayside School.

The district, which now has no bonded debt, would be indebted to its legal limit by the $1.4 million issue, which would be augmented by $452,000 from other sources to build a school plant for 750 pupils from kindergarten through fourth grade.

COUNTY FUNDS

Marin County would provide $209,000, the Marin County Housing Authority $173,00 and the state $70,000 under agreements already made.

The K-4 plant would replace the present Bayside School, the Manzanita kindergarten in Marin City and Central School.

Money to complete the plant for fifth through eighth grades would come a few years from now from the sale of the Central and Richardson Bay school sites. Richardson Bay now houses fifth through eighth grades.

The greatest part of the bond payments could come from savings in maintenance, administration and operating costs, according to David E. Freedheim, Sausalito School District board president.

SAVINGS SEEN

Freedheim said an estimated $62,000 a year could be saved in costs, and additional savings when the complete 1,200-student facility is built could total $91,000 a year.

The annual cost of a 25-year bond issue for $1.4 million would range from $65,000 to $100,000, Freedheim said. He said Frank Bosl, manager of the Sausalito branch of Bank of America, estimated that costs based on 3½ per cent interest, would be $75,000 the first year, $65,000 a year for second through fifth years, and $100,000 a year for the remaining years.

The school board expects nearly all the bond cost can be paid by the operational savings, by an increasing tax base in the district, and by sale of other school property and the further savings from the second-stage construction.

A NECESSITY

According to Freedheim, failure to build new schools is more likely to cause a tax increase eventually because of "rising costs' . . . to cover depreciating and deteriorating buildings."

Freedheim also warned that if the district does not use its bonding ability for its own schools, now, the bonds might be demanded later to build schools for Marincello or to help pay off debts of other schools if the district is unified with other areas.

Central School was built in 1926, and Bayside was originally built during World War II as temporary ofifce space for Marinship.

AGAINST BONDS

The Sausalito School District voters committee, which wrote the ballot arguments against the bond issue, gave six reasons to oppose the plan.

The school is too costly at $3.4 million, the committee says. It cites plans at Mill Valley for a middle school to house 1,200 students at a cost of $1.8 million. The committee also says the school is too big, 50 per cent larger than most schools for the number of students planned.

The committee says staff increases will be required for the new plant, and maintenance savings will disappear as the school ages.

VALUES HIT

Plans to sell the Richardson Bay site are based on "unrealistically high" values and the money raised will not finance completion of the new plant. At the same time, by disposing of other sites, the district would restrict itself to one minimal size school site despite possible future changes in site needs.

The committee also objects to "lavish" school plans, asking if facilities are needed for "jewelry making, ceramics, sculpture and weaving."

Architects' plans for the K-4 plant are only in the schematic stage, according to Sol Silver of Weisbach, Boutmy and Silver, but he gave cost estimates for the main elements. Over-all, costs were estimated at $18.20 per square foot of building

Demolition of present Bayside buildings, rough grading, moving culverts, relocating utility lines and other earth work would cost an estimated $137,000.

Soils testing, surveys and possible land acquisition are estimated at $65,000.

Site development is estimated at $183,000, a figure including turfing, landscaping, fencing, installation of playgrounds and the like.

Kindergarten construction will cost $108,000. General classrooms for first through fourth grades will cost $520,000. Another $134,000 will go for the library and communications center, which includes audio-visual areas, the library office, teacher work areas, toilets and a small computer center.

GUIDANCE CENTER

The guidance center is to cost $18,000 and $34,500 will go for administrative offices and $21,000 for the health services area.

Physical Education, assembly and performing areas will cost $104,000.

Augmenting the performing and assembly areas and the $75,000 kitchen-dining areas will be a multiple-use and circulation area costing an estimated $175,000.

PLANNING FEES

Fees for architects, engineering, inspection, testing and consultants are estimated at $168,000 total. Another $84,000 has been allowed for contingencies.

Silver said the totals in the schematic plan stage are necessarily "very crude," and the school board has ordered them reduced to $1.8 million in the preliminary planning stage.

If the bond issue is approved the school would be ready for occupancy in January 1970, using "outside figures," Silver said.

DESIGN TIME

He said the estimated timetable is four months for design, seven months to prepare contracts, working drawings and get needed governmental approvals, a month to circulate bids and a month to negotiate a contract and authorize construction.

Construction would take 14 months.

Relative-Looking Hobby Produces 100 Of The Clan

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Frank W. Bieser, of Denver, Colo., at age 70, has a hobby—looking for other Biesers. His latest Bieser reunion in St. Louis brought about 100 of the Biesers together.

The Bieser-hunter believes that all the Biesers may trace their ancestry to Valentin Bieser, born in Germany in 1754. Bieser said he didn't meet any Biesers outside his immediate family until 43 years ago when he met one in Chicago. That's when he started rounding up Biesers.

His search brought out the fact that there are 261 Bieser families in the United States—sisters, brothers and cousins.

The Networks Miss Genuine Happening

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Watching the finale of baseball's Amrican League race yesterday, one could appreciate television's technical ability—yet its increasing separation from the home audience in truly human terms.

I am not talking only about NBC-TV, which carried the climactic competition, but the other two networks as well, ABC-TV and CBS-TV. Just because one network has a contractual right to a public event doesn't mean its competitors are automatically absolved from recognizing the entire scene as a video experience worthy of transmission in its fuller apsects. For what all three commercial networks had right before their eyes yesterday was a genuine happening, and they didn't even know it.

NOT PLANNED

Contrary to the machinations of cold-blooded promoters, "happenings" are not merely freakout pop-op-mod scenes with lots of dancing and crazy lights and empty-eyed people in capris and long hair. "Happenings" are not the exclusive property of people who plan them and make them pseudo-events.

They are, in the larger sense, simply very exciting things that engage the emotions of people—in any generation, anywhere. And there is no reason a baseball game, for instance—and its effect on the persons who have watched it, involved themselves in it, and have agonized over a team for months—should not be considered a "happening" worthy of special reporting.

There is a whole new dimension of television coverage waiting to be opened, and if it is ignored the contemporary scene will pass the medium by.

It is an old-hat fact that the modern age has increasingly isolated human beings from the direct involvement in shared experiences that used to be more accessible. There has been a reaction so that "involvement" now is quite a chic thing to advocate. Television, for instance, advocates it in many of its pseudo-dramas, but it hardly ever practices it. If there is a simplistic explanation for commercialized "happenings," it certainly relates to a terrific desire for direct experience.

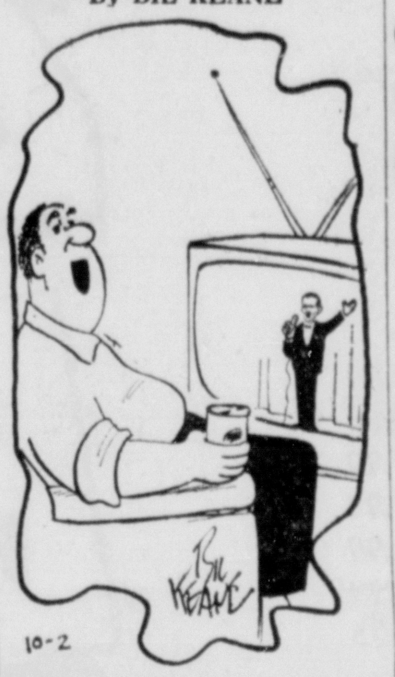
MISS FINALE

Yet right in the midst of this revolution for human involvement sits television, putting on taped shows about experiences, filmed shows about experiences, dated programs about things that happened months ago or weeks ago—analyzing to exhaustion, when what the world is hollering for, and longing for, is something that touches people directly, personally, makes them feel.

Consider what happened after the Boston Red Sox won the pennant yesterday in one of the most thrilling sports finales in history. NBC-T had covered the game in the usual way, then switched to a weekly pro football contest. Meanwhile, it offered oral reports on how the Detroit baseball team was losing its final game, thereby assuring Boston's victory. Then it was all over. But was it a later date.

Channel Chuckles

By BIL KEANE



"It's Sinatra singin 'All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth.'"

really? Perhaps the hits, runs and errors were all over. But was the story over?

I maintain it was not. For if the sports event involving two squads was over, the human experience in Boston on this great Sunday for that city was just beginning. The old Massachusetts city was a "happening" yesterday—it had been a "happening" all through the agony with the Red Sox and their dramatic comeback. There was a wonderful story to be put on national television yesterday—live from Boston, a story that would have involved roving cameras and reporters seeking out what a team had done to a sophisticated city.

I would have liked to share that great day in Boston, live on television and perhaps for several hours. But video went back to tape and film and ignored the direct, personal and human happening which had captured the imagination of millions. I hope nobody is planning a program about it at

College System Deterioration Being Claimed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A serious deterioration in quality at the California State Colleges is claimed by the Los Angeles Times.

The newspaper said its own survey showed some classes had been dropped and others were overcrowded because of insufficient faculty. Many students had to postpone their scheduled graduations because they could not sign up for needed classes, the Times said.

Deans and department chairmen confirmed the faculty shortage, saying they had hired temporary and part-time professors who do not hold doctorate degrees.

The Times said administrators blame Gov. Reagan for the shortage of teachers. They say many prospective professors were lost during the three-month hiring "freeze" after Reagan favored cuts in the state colleges' budget.

A New Jury System Begins

LONDON (AP) — Criminal juries in England and Wales begin delivering verdicts by less than unanimous vote today.

The most sweeping change in 600 years of English and Welsh judicial procedure came into effect with today's opening of the fall court term.

Juries composed of 12 members may now reach a decision by a 10-2 or 11-1 vote instead of unanimity as required before. If a jury's number is reduced to 11, a 10-1 vote may be decisive, and if 10 people are on the panel, a 9-1 vote will be considered decisive.

The Networks Miss Genuine Happening

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Watching the finale of baseball's Amrican League race yesterday, one could appreciate television's technical ability—yet its increasing separation from the home audience in truly human terms.

I am not talking only about NBC-TV, which carried the climactic competition, but the other two networks as well, ABC-TV and CBS-TV. Just because one network has a contractual right to a public event doesn't mean its competitors are automatically absolved from recognizing the entire scene as a video experience worthy of transmission in its fuller apsects. For what all three commercial networks had right before their eyes yesterday was a genuine happening, and they didn't even know it.

NOT PLANNED

Contrary to the machinations of cold-blooded promoters, "happenings" are not merely freakout pop-op-mod scenes with lots of dancing and crazy lights and empty-eyed people in capris and long hair. "Happenings" are not the exclusive property of people who plan them and make them pseudo-events.

They are, in the larger sense, simply very exciting things that engage the emotions of people—in any generation, anywhere. And there is no reason a baseball game, for instance—and its effect on the persons who have watched it, involved themselves in it, and have agonized over a team for months—should not be considered a "happening" worthy of special reporting.

There is a whole new dimension of television coverage waiting to be opened, and if it is ignored the contemporary scene will pass the medium by.

It is an old-hat fact that the modern age has increasingly isolated human beings from the direct involvement in shared experiences that used to be more accessible. There has been a reaction so that "involvement" now is quite a chic thing to advocate. Television, for instance, advocates it in many of its pseudo-dramas, but it hardly ever practices it. If there is a simplistic explanation for commercialized "happenings," it certainly relates to a terrific desire for direct experience.

MISS FINALE

Yet right in the midst of this revolution for human involvement sits television, putting on taped shows about experiences, filmed shows about experiences, dated programs about things that happened months ago or weeks ago—analyzing to exhaustion, when what the world is hollering for, and longing for, is something that touches people directly, personally, makes them feel.

Consider what happened after the Boston Red Sox won the pennant yesterday in one of the most thrilling sports finales in history. NBC-T had covered the game in the usual way, then switched to a weekly pro football contest. Meanwhile, it offered oral reports on how the Detroit baseball team was losing its final game, thereby assuring Boston's victory. Then it was all over. But was it really? Perhaps the hits, runs and errors were all over. But was the story over?

I maintain it was not. For if the sports event involving two squads was over, the human experience in Boston on this great Sunday for that city was just beginning. The old Massachusetts city was a "happening" yesterday—it had been a "happening" all through the agony with the Red Sox and their dramatic comeback. There was a wonderful story to be put on national television yesterday—live from Boston, a story that would have involved roving cameras and reporters seeking out what a team had done to a sophisticated city.

I would have liked to share that great day in Boston, live on television and perhaps for several hours. But video went back to tape and film and ignored the direct, personal and human happening which had captured the imagination of millions. I hope nobody is planning a program about it at a later date.

College System Deterioration Being Claimed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A serious deterioration in quality at the California State Colleges is claimed by the Los Angeles Times.

The newspaper said its own survey showed some classes had been dropped and others were overcrowded because of insufficient faculty. Many students had to postpone their scheduled graduations because they could not sign up for needed classes, the Times said.

Deans and department chairmen confirmed the faculty shortage, saying they had hired temporary and part-time professors who do not hold doctorate degrees.

The Times said administrators blame Gov. Reagan for the shortage of teachers. They say many prospective professors were lost during the three-month hiring "freeze" after Reagan favored cuts in the state colleges' budget.

A New Jury System Begins

LONDON (AP) — Criminal juries in England and Wales begin delivering verdicts by less than unanimous vote today.

The most sweeping change in 600 years of English and Welsh judicial procedure came into effect with today's opening of the fall court term.

Juries composed of 12 members may now reach a decision by a 10-2 or 11-1 vote instead of unanimity as required before. If a jury's number is reduced to 11, a 10-1 vote may be decisive, and if 10 people are on the panel, a 9-1 vote will be considered decisive.

CO-OP'S PRICE-PER-POUND SHELF MARKERS HELP ON MANY ITEMS

Take dry breakfast cereals. They come in such odd sizes and prices, it takes fancy arithmetic to figure out the price-per-pound for comparison. Co-op's shelf markers on cereals, crackers, detergents and other items do your slide rule work for you. And Co-op's own label gives you straight to the point consumer information to help you choose intelligently.

Co-op has lower regular prices and "on special" savings on nationally advertised brands. So do other supermarkets. But only Co-op has Co-op Label products that can save you 10 to 15 percent regularly. They're quality controlled to be equal to—often better than—comparable nationally advertised brands . . . and you don't pay the costs of high-powered brand promotions. Co-op is a consumer owned brand.

HERE'S HOW TO SAVE SHOPPING TIME . . .

Leave your order with the case-lot clerk in the parking lot. Indicate the number of cases you want in square at left of each item. Circle price to indicate "case" or "½ case." Your order will be ready by the time you finish your other shopping.

A HOME ECONOMIST HINT

Plan to buy canned goods in amounts that you can use within a year. While most canned goods will keep safely longer, losses in food value gradually occur. Store canned goods in a cool dry place.

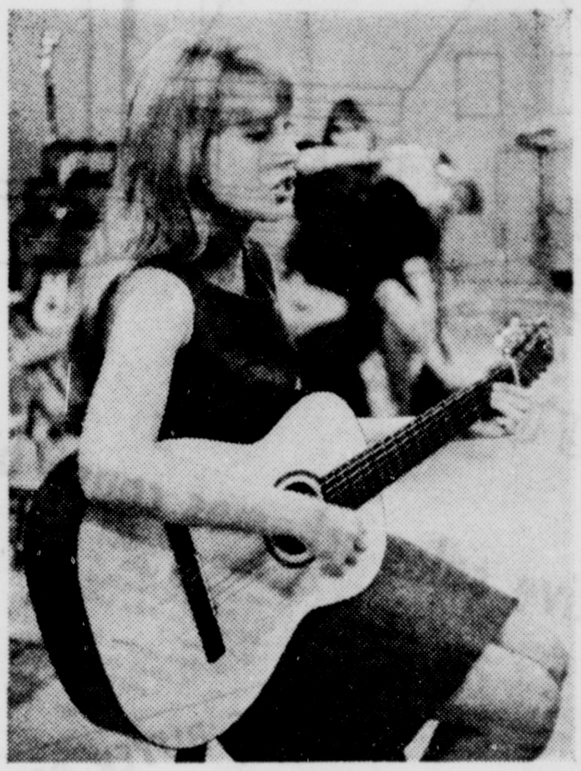
CO-OP IS FUN . . .



Like to learn to play the guitar? Paint, take off pounds sensibly, decorate a cake? Or discuss with experts what's going on in the world? Co-op meeting rooms are there for people to get together around their special interests. And at Co-op, there are coffee corners and special events such as flea markets, nationality festivals, in-store art and craft exhibits to make shopping a lot more fun.

CO-OP IS ROUGH ON MANAGERS

Co-op managers have to be on their toes because they have thousands of bosses . . . mostly housewives . . . who can be demanding, tough.

Co-op is owned by shoppers — its customers — and they want it run in the best interests of shoppers. Through an elected Board of Directors and a set of committees they keep tab on what's going on in their stores. When they feel something should be improved they let the manager know, and he's expected to do something about it — fast. The people who serve voluntarily on the Board and committees are Co-op owner-members . . . your neighbors.

Among their other responsibilities, Co-op managers personally read, check into, and take action on Suggestion Box notes from shoppers. As a direct result of these notes, one Co-op Center put in a line of Mexican foods, another reversed its "in" and "out" doors. Co-op Suggestion Boxes get hard use. They're for real, not for show. Co-op's owner-members want it that way.

And, if you're interested, ask about Co-op notes. They pay excellent interest. Many families use them as "looked - ahead" investments for putting the kids through school.

CO-OP IS FUN . . .

Like to learn to play the guitar? Paint, take off pounds sensibly, decorate a cake? Or discuss with experts what's going on in the world? Co-op meeting rooms are there for people to get together around their special interests. And at Co-op, there are coffee corners and special events such as flea markets, nationality festivals, in-store art and craft exhibits to make shopping a lot more fun.

CO-OP IS ROUGH ON MANAGERS

SUGGESTION
COMPLIM
NEW

Co-op managers have to be on their toes because they have thousands of bosses . . . mostly housewives . . . who can be demanding, tough.

Co-op is owned by shoppers — its customers — and they want it run in the best interests of shoppers. Through an elected Board of Directors and a set of committees they keep tab on what's going on in their stores. When they feel something should be improved they let the manager know, and he's expected to do something about it — fast. The people who serve voluntarily on the Board and committees are Co-op owner-members . . . your neighbors.

Among their other responsibilities, Co-op managers personally read, check into, and take action on Suggestion Box notes from shoppers. As a direct result of these notes, one Co-op Center put in a line of Mexican foods, another reversed its "in" and "out" doors. Co-op Suggestion Boxes get hard use. They're for real, not for show. Co-op's owner-members want it that way.

Next Time You Shop Co-op, Find Out How You Can Become an Owner-Member, Too.

And, if you're interested, ask about Co-op notes. They pay excellent interest. Many families use them as "looked - ahead" investments for putting the kids through school.

Deceptive sales schemes cause big debts

By Sidney Margolius

EVERY DAY around this big country, moderate-income workers are trapped into sickening debts by deceptive sales schemes. Then they are forced to pay under threat of garnishment. How would you like to pay $400 for a movie camera which you don't even have? That's what happened to th working woman in Kansas City, Missou

"A salesman came to my house wit camera," she writes. "The setup was this. You pay $20 for the camera and all you have to pay. Then you send p pany customers and the camera is to be yours. I sent the company o tomers and received no credit. N I must pay for the camera bec the paper. I have a witness man if there was any more I could not take the cam sold the papers to a finar have come four times t garnishee ack because pay such company ll have t and I have to pay. So far I have lost four days work over this matter, with all kinds of trou work. I am a woman of 50 with a 12 ...d to support. I need the little ng expenses." ht like a mouse in a credit laws— and finance not to each other, and that if they did, "the law" would stop them.

THAT'S THE WAY the consumer crumbles. The chance of redress, or at least of making known your plight so others may be warned, depends on several factors. These include the degree of consumer protection provided by your own state and local laws, the diligence and sympathy with which legal authorities apply these laws and try to help consumers, and the availability of low-cost al and community services in your area. his woman would find a lawyer or or- ted case, a New York State judge, novan, ruled that a Spanish- d pay only the wholesale r-freezer—$348—for tract, in English an had told $32. pay-

"LET THE BUYER BEWARE"

By
MABEL NEWCOMER

Some Confusing Measurements

Fractional ounces on food packages are not the only confusing measures the consumer must deal with. Some other instances are given below:

Refrigerator Space

The capacity of refrigerators is given in cubic space. Usable food storage space is somewhat less and may vary for different models with the same cubic space. This was called to my attention recently and I have since looked at our refrigerator with a more critical eye. I found considerably more unusable space around the vegetable bins than is necessary for smooth operation. There is some waste space above the meat keeper, and the space allotted for bottles is badly proportioned. A bottle slender and tall enough to use this space efficiently would have to be 16 inches tall and less than four inches in diameter! With all the tendency toward taller and thinner bottles, I have not seen any of these proportions. How well planned is your refrigerator?

Light Bulb Economy

I used to assume that long-lasting light bulbs are more economical than the usual 750 hour bulb. I had supposed that the watts that measure electrical energy used also measure the amount of light. (There are no phusicists, electrical engineers, or electricians in my family or I should have known better.) Actually the long-lived bulbs do not use electrical energy as efficiently as the ordinary bulbs. According to the figures I have seen (Changing Times, March, 1964) it would take a 120 watt long-lived (5000 hours) bulb to produce as much light as a 100 watt ordinary (750 hours) bulb. This makes the cost of electricity per hour of use 20% higher. The long-lasting bulb will outlast six ordinary bulbs, but at current prices the ordinary light bulb still saves more. You may want a long-lasting bulb for ceiling lights that are used to reach, as a matter of convenience. And if any one who replaces the regular 100 watt bulb with a 100 watt long-lasting bulb doesn't notice that the light is dimmer he isn't losing any money.

TV Picture Screens

For TV buyers the size of the picture screen is important. When they examine sets in the stores they can judge this well enough. But those who want to do some comparative shopping by reading the ads will run into difficulties. Some advertisements give both square inches of viewing space and inches measured diagonally. But some give only one of these or none at all. And some give 19 inches, say, without saying whether the measure is horizontal or diagonal. I found one full-page advertisement listing several models that gave "square inches" for some, "inches measured diagonally" for others, and just "inches" for still others. It also gave both the diagonal and the square inches for the same model in some instances, and no measure at all in some. And to complete confusion they gave "square inches measured diagonally" for one!

Square inches are the easiest to check for accuracy, but most prospective buyers can visualize the size of the picture better from the diagonal measure. Both are needed.

Because Co-op is owned by consumers to bring themselves and others honest value for their money . . . it's only logical that their interest in this goes beyond what's on the shelves.

Co-op and its member owners actively work to promote truth-in-packaging, truth in lending, meat inspection, auto safety, and other bills to benefit the consumer. Co-op committees, made up of volunteers, keep a watchdog eye on what's going on in the marketplace. Articles on subjects ranging from pesticides to new car models are run weekly in Co-op papers. Co-op joins forces with other organizations, such as the Association of California Consumers, to work for the good of the consumer. Through Co-op, you can get a special reduced rate on a subscription to Consumer Reports, a monthly guide to wise buying. Down the line, Co-op is on the consumer's side.

CO-OP HAS "SISTER" ORGANIZATIONS TO SERVE YOU

"Co-op" is short for "cooperative", and there are other kinds of user-owner businesses besides supermarkets. They, too, provide consumer-oriented services for the family, like the Credit Union, Twin Pines Federal Savings and Loan, Mutual Service Insurance. While they're not part of the Co-op markets they share the same idea of service to consumers.

OCTOBER IS NATIONAL CO-OP MONTH

There are co-ops in New Hampshire, in Louisiana, in Chicago—throughout the country—for consumers, for farmers, for housing, for health care, and for other services, too. In the Bay Area there are 3 consumer co-ops operating 12 supermarkets and affiliated services in: Palo Alto, Mt. View, Sunnyvale, Berkeley, Walnut Creek, El Cerrito, Castro Valley, Corte Madera, and San Francisco. There's one near enough to you to make a trip there this week well worthwhile!
